This beautiful Musical Instrument, the Melodian, is now so well known, that we deem it unnecessary to give a lengthy description of it. We will only state that it is played upon the same as the Piano Forte, the key-board, being precisely similar. Any one who plays upon the Piano, will be able to perform upon the Melodeon at once. It will be seen that there are two pedals attached; one of these, that to the right, is used to supply the bellows with wind, and the other governs the swell; by means of this latter, a most beautiful crescendo and diminuendo may be produced.

We respectfully invite attention to the newly improved "MODEL MELODEONS" as we think they will be found to be superior in many respects to any others. Please examine them carefully, and test them will, paying attention, among other things, to the following points, viz: 1st.—Their superior quality of tone. 2d.—Their great power of tone. 3d.—Their perfect equality of tone. 4th.—Their prompt and even action. 5th.—Their beautiful style of finish. 6th.—Their durability. 7th.—Their excelent tune. 8th.—Their cheapness. Mason & Hamlin have great facilities in the manufacture of these Instruments. Mr. Hamlin himself has probably had more actual practical experience in the business, than any other man, having been constantly engaged in it from the time they were first introduced;—for more than six years he has had the entire superintendence of the tuning and mechanical departments of the most extensive Melodeon manufactory in the United States. They have engaged the very best of mechanics in the different departments of manufacture; those who have had long experience, many of them having worked at similar instruments from the time of their invention. From Voicers and Tuners are acknowledged to be the most expert in the country. The voicing and tuning of the Melodeon is the most difficult part in its manufacture. On this depends mainly, the quality and quantity of tone, and the durabilty of the reed. They make it their first great cirdinal principle, that every instrument be as perfect in all respects as possible, and each one, before leaving the manufactory, undergoes a close examination from both of the partners; and none are allowed to go forth, in which the slightest defect, either in the case, or in the interior of the Instrument, can be detected. By adhering strictly to this principle, they trust to secure the confidence and patronage of the public ☞ Every instrument is carefully packed in a neat and strong box, and fully warranted.

The following opinions in regard to the "Model Melodeons," from distinguished musicians, we select for publication.

[From Lowell Mason.]

"After having carefully examined the Melodeons of Messrs. Mason & Hamlin, I am enabled to say, that, in my opinion, they are decidedly superior to any others with which I am acquainted."

LOWELL MASON.

New York, July 1, 1854.

[From William B. Bradbury.]

MESSRS. MASON & HAMLIN,

Gents,—I heard with pleasure of your commencing the manufacture of Melodeons, feeling assured that you would be able from your practical skill, ample facilities, and peculiar advantages, to effect important improvements in the construction of these Instruments. Having now had an opportunity of examining a number of your Instruments, I am by on means disappointed in the result. You are certainly producing Melodeons, which, in all desirable characteristics are, so far as I can perceive, faultless. An Instrument possessing so many beauties, is admirably adapted to the parlor and the church, and I am satisfied that so soon as the public become acquainted with the superior merits of your Instruments, your only trouble will be to supply the demand.

WILLIAM B. BRADBURY.

New York, June 2, 1854.

[Extract from an Editorial Notice in the "New York Musical Review" of May 11th, 1824.]

"Considering the ample facilities of this firm, and the varied and extensive experience of the different partners, as well in the wants of the public and the points which constitute good instruments, as in their practical manufacture, we have every confidence that they will accomplish all they aim at"——We have had an opportunity of examining some of the instruments now finishing at their factory, and can certainly recommend them to all our friends, who may have occasion to purchase."

Instruments can be seen and examined at our Bookstore.

LIFE.—Change is the constant feature of society. The world is like a magic-lantern, or the shifting scenes of a pantomine. Ten years convert the population of schools into men and women, the young into fathers and matrons, make and mar fortunes, and bury the last generation but one. Twenty years convert infants into lovers and fathers and mothers, render youth the operative generations, decide men's fortunes and distinctions, convert active men into crawling drivellers, and bury all preceding generations. Thirty years raise an active generation from nonenity, change facinating beauties into bearable old women, convert lovers into grandfathers, and bury the active generation, or reduce them to decrepitude and imbecility. Forty years, alas! change the face of all society. Infants are growing old, the bloom of youth and beauty has passed away, two active generations have been swept away from the stage of life, names so cherished are forgotten, and unsuspected candidates for fame have started from the exhaustless womb of nature. Fifty years—why should any desire to retain affections from maturity for fifty years? It is to behold a world of which you know nothing, and to which you are unknown. It is to weep for generations long since passed—for lovers, for parents, for children, for friends in the grave. It is to see everything turned upside down by the fickle hand of fortune and the absolute despotism of time. It is, in a word, to behold the vanity of life in all the vanities of display.
