House Tension Heightens In Early Election Talk Displaying New Upsurge

By JAMES NELSON OTTAWA (CP) - Some things have changed. This was the view of political observers and many politicians themselves late Thursday after the flag committee report was tabled in the Commons.

Even before the committee report was tabled, there was a flurry of reports Thursday that Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker might meet to discuss the flag committee report.

Transpor Minister Pickersall pounced their desks with delight at this statement that the two reporters wondered whether the government intends to change it.

Committee Report Proposed as Quick Op

Mr. Pearson said he would hammer the government on two other questions: Will Parliament be given an opportunity to deal clause-by-clause with the British North America Act now 57 years old, when it is "repealed"?

Mr. Pearson said he or Justice Minister Favreau will make a statement on the BNA Act shortly. So far as the pension plan is concerned it has to take a back seat now to the granting of interim spending authority for November and December.

By holding up that interim spending authority indefinitely until the government needs to pay its bills and civil service salaries—the Conservatives can force a general election, during which the bills can be met by Governor-General's warrants

SEES ELECTION Real Caouette, leader of the 13-member Creditre group, is warning of a general election in the situation. Other minor parties see it the same way, and say candidly that in finances and in party organization, they aren't ready for an election.

Canadian Strength Claimed In Diversity of Population REGINA (CP)—The diversity of her people's backgrounds is a strength rather than a weakness of Canada as a nation, Dr. Frank MacKinnon of Charlottetown said.

Mr. MacKinnon, chairman of Prince Edward Island's committee on the centennial of the 1864 Confederation meeting, is speaking here today.

S. Rhodesian PM Backs Down

From AP-Reuters SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) Under pressure from the British government, the Commonwealth and the United States, Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia Thursday called off promises—and threats—to save Rhodesia independent before Christmas.

Stunned by the stiff resistance of these three big forces against him, Smith said in a television interview after a parliamentary debate on the issue of Rhodesia's independence:

Mr. MacKinnon said the miracle of Canadian history was that the nation had been formed at all and had got along without major disputes.

2 Queens MPs Not Happy With Proposed Leaf Flag

OTTAWA — Prince Edward Island's Conservative members of Parliament are not too happy about the proposed red maple leaf design for a Canadian flag.

Mr. MacQuarrie echoed the view that if Canada was at the stage of having two flags, the one maple leaf plus the Union Jack, which should be the flag of the United Kingdom.

Mr. MacQuarrie said he did not approve the idea of a design which would be a break-through for fundamental re-appraisal of these problems.
