

Long Is. Railroad Strike Threat Ends

NEW YORK (AP)—Service on the Long Island Railroad was normal Sunday following an 11-hour agreement Saturday night which cancelled the threat of a strike against the world's busiest commuter line.

Some 1,400 members of the independent Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen had set a strike deadline of 4 a.m. EST Sunday over a wage-hour dispute with the bankrupt road.

The walkout would have crippled transportation facilities for 150,000 weekday commuters to and from Manhattan. The line operates 600 trains daily.

The mineral mirabilite is found in brines of many saline lakes in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

ing from internal injuries. He had to be lifted from behind the steering wheel of the bus.

Valere Plante, Windsor, Ont., driver of the transport, suffered a broken leg. Both drivers were in a state of extreme shock at St. Joseph's hospital in Trois-Rivieres.

Explosion Follows

The accident occurred at 10:30 p.m. EST Saturday on a straight stretch of road two miles east of Yamachiche. The bus was travelling from Montreal to Quebec when it met the empty transport, heading from Quebec to Cornwall, Ont. The centre of the road was bare of snow, but the borders were icy.

Plante, a driver for McBain Transport Company of Quebec, said he was on his way to Cornwall, Ont., when the crash took place.

"I don't know whether the bus or my transport was at fault," he said. "However, I don't think I took too much of the road."

"My transport struck the side of the bus and I was pinned in the cab. Some one came and helped me out."

He said it was his first accident in 10 years as a driver.

The transport struck the front left-hand corner of the bus, pinning the driver behind the steering wheel and ripping open the side of the bus. Survivors said the bus burst into flames almost immediately. An explosion followed blowing off the top.

Claude Paquette, a Trois-Rivieres ambulance driver on his way to Bethelville, Que., west of here, was the first person to reach the scene.

"It was horrible," he said. "People were screaming as the flames spread through the bus. The driver was sobbing with his face buried in his hands. Their pain of being pinned behind the wheel. I couldn't get within 30 feet of the bus for the heat of the flames."

"I saw a man stagger out the door, bleeding badly from a cut in his arm. Then I ran to a nearby farmhouse for help."

Accident Unexplained

None of the survivors could say how the accident occurred.

"I was reading when suddenly I felt something crash into the side of the bus," Jacques Auger, 46, of Montreal, said from his hospital bed where he was being treated for head and facial cuts.

"The bus crashed into the ditch and I saw smoke spouting from the rear."

"I got out by feeling my way along the seats bordering the aisle. I couldn't see. The lights were out and I was blinded with smoke and blood from a cut on my forehead. I finally came to the front and fell into the snow."

Acetylene torches were used to rip apart the twisted frame of the bus after it was towed to Trois-Rivieres. The charred bodies were then removed and taken into the morgue for identification.

The body of the child who died in the crash was not found until a truck returned to pick up parts of the bus left behind when the vehicle was towed away. The driver discovered the body partly concealed in a snowbank.

It was the worst accident in this district since 1936 when 22 persons were killed on their way home from a political meeting when their truck collided with a train near Yamachiche.

Medics Examine India Wolf Boy

NEW DELHI, (AP)—Medical authorities in Lucknow Friday reported after a preliminary examination that the nine-year-old "wolf boy" discovered last week riding on a train has developed a double set of upper jaw incisors during his jungle childhood, according to reports published here.

Press reports quoted Dr. D. N. Sharma, superintendent of Balrampur Hospital in Lucknow, where the boy is under observation, as saying the incisors "have been developed from long continuous scraping of raw meat from bones."

Dr. Sharma added the boy has "never been in human environment and has not acquired human habits." He said the youth licked milk and water like animals.

Prior to medical examination there was speculation that the snarling, howling boy might be insane. He was originally dubbed the "jackal boy" but Dr. Sharma said jackals devour their children while she-wolves are known to have strong maternal instincts.

Pleasant Grove Native Hero In Halifax Fire

Milkman Norman Caswell of 90 Leveille Street, Halifax, was credited with saving the lives of the occupants of an apartment at 286 Tower Road early Thursday morning.

Mr. Caswell, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell, Pleasant Grove, P.E.I., noticed the fire as he was on his early morning route. He raced to the house where he noticed the blaze and entering the building, rushed from apartment 29 rousing the occupants—22 men, women and children were roused and left the blazing building without mishap. The firemen fought the fire for three hours in near-zero weather. They were loud in their praise of Caswell for his prompt and effective action in rousing the sleeping occupants, resulting in the avoidance of what might well have been a catastrophe of major proportions.

The heroic young man was presented with a cheque for $100 by his employers, Farmer's Limited, in appreciation. A movement on foot by the City of Halifax to present Mr. Caswell with an award in the near future.

28 Killed When Egyptian Train Smashes Crowd

KAFR EL ZAYAT, Egypt, (CP)—The cheers of a crowd greeting President Naguib drowned out the roar of an approaching express train Saturday and 28 persons were killed and five seriously injured when the train smashed into a crowd standing on the tracks.

Naguib later wept as he handed relief money to families of the 28 dead. He took over supervision of rescue and relief work and gave each bereaved family $50 ($143). He promised further help from the ministry of social affairs.

Engineer of the express, held by police for questioning, said he had no advance warning of the crowd on the tracks and he was unable to see the people because of a curve.

Naguib had been visiting a nearby village distributing relief supplies to 1,000 peasants left homeless by a fire Friday.

He was waiting here to catch a train for Cairo. A Cairo-to-Alexandria express, not scheduled to stop here, whistled into the station at 50 miles an hour, cutting through the crowd of waving, cheering peasants as they were trying to get a glimpse of the president.

Higher Pensions For Retired M.P.'s Seen Unlikely

OTTAWA, (CP)—Members of Parliament may soon be getting indemnity boosts, but they likely will get no increase in pensions, Prime Minister St. Laurent has decided against any increase in the maximum $3,000-a-year payment which M.P.s can get after service in 17 sessions. £50 ($143).

He made that remark as Mr. St. Laurent gave notice on the Commons order paper that he will introduce a bill to amend M.P.s' pension legislation.

The brief notice carried no details. The bill likely will be made public before Mr. St. Laurent leaves on his world tour next Thursday.

The move to double M.P.'s indemnities brought speculation that maximum pensions for M.P.s also would be doubled to $6,000, but it is expected that there may only be some adjustments to contributions.

Currently, M.P.s contribute six per cent of their indemnity—that is, $240—with the government paying an equal amount.

Over a period of some 17 sessions, he will have contributed $4,000. He then stops making payments and if he retires can claim a pension of 75 per cent of that amount, $3,000 a year, for life.

M.P.s cannot claim pensions unless they have service at more than two Parliaments. At that time they can claim an annual payment equal to 75 per cent of their contributions. So far about 15 Canadians are getting the M.P. pension.

SNOW SLIDE KILLS BOYS

The two who lost their lives and Sifrid Parkkonen, 10, of Neguanee, were buried in 10 to 15 feet of snow.

Only 2 P.E.I. Drama Festival Applications

Only the Little Theatre of Charlottetown and Saint Dunstan's University have made application for the Provincial Drama Festival which would ordinarily be held here on the first of March. To comply with the Dominion Drama Festival regulations, it is necessary to have three 3-act plays before an adjudicator will come to the Province and a winner is selected to compete in the Dominion Festival.

Mr. Barry Bugden, regional director of the Drama Festival, reports that only two days remain for entries to be received. He also states that all other provinces will be represented in the festival and expresses the hope that some late comer will make it possible for the Island to be represented.

Death In Saint John of Mr. W. Arthur Steel

Mr. W. Arthur Steel, a son of the late Rev. Dr. George Steel and Anne (Snaith) Steel, he had been a resident of Saint John for 23 years and an accountant at the General Hospital for over 20 years. He was formerly employed for several years by the Ford Motor Company of Canada at Windsor, Ont., and earlier was member of the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada at Sackville, N.B. and Charlottetown. Mr. Steel was a veteran of the First World War, having served with the 42nd Black Watch Highlanders of Montreal.

Surviving are his wife, the former Olive M. Scott of Saint John; four sons, Winton G., William A. of Saint John and Brian P. and Geoffrey, at home; one daughter, Miss Mary A., at home; one brother Dr. G. Douglas Steel, Charlottetown; one sister, Mrs. (Rev.) George D. MacLeod, Hamilton, Ont., and several grandchildren, nephews and nieces.

Voluntary Health Agencies Meet

An interesting joint meeting of voluntary health organizations was held Friday afternoon in the Health Centre. Represented were the Red Cross, Polo Chapter, Cerebral Palsy Parents Association, Rotary Club and Department of Health. The occasion was the visit to the province of Mrs. C. S. Armstrong, executive director of the Canadian Council of Crippled Children. The above organizations all have a direct interest in the treatment and rehabilitation of handicapped children and the meeting provided an opportunity for an exchange of views and an outline of the activities of each agency.

Considerable discussion evolved around the desirability of co-ordination of activities of existing voluntary agencies rather than the formation of a new group directly representing the Canadian Council of Crippled Children. Such co-ordination might take the form of an enlarged general treatment centre in which resources for surgery and various therapies would be pooled. All handicapped children could be treated in such a centre.

As a further step to ensure economical use of funds raised in the various campaigns and to preclude overlapping of programmes a suggestion was discussed to form a Provincial Council of voluntary agencies. Such Council would be representative of existing organizations and by periodic meetings would seek to keep each organization aware of the activities of the others, to clearly define the sphere in which each will work and to utilize to the best advantage the resources in equipment and trained personnel which may be collectively available.

A committee was formed at the meeting to further study this matter and prepare a specific programme for such Council which would then be placed before other welfare organizations for their views. It was felt that in the field of rehabilitation particularly there is scope for co-ordination and further study, which such a Council could provide.

Little Hope

ties with the West.

The East German regime—clearly acting on Molotov's orders—laid down the Communist terms for a German settlement Saturday night. The plan would neutralize and isolate Germany. The Communist demands range from immediate formation of a provisional all-German government to the holding of Soviet-style elections only after a peace treaty is signed.

They would give the Parliament of the Russian zone, which claims to represent 18,000,000 East Germans, the same voice in a provisional government as the Bundestag of West Germany, with its 50,000,000 population.

Reject Soviet Plan

The West German government quickly turned thumbs down on the Communist plan. Bonn officials labelled the seven-point proposal a step back to the conditions imposed on defeated Germany by the victorious powers at Potsdam in 1945.

The East German plan does not formally bind Molotov at the conference table. But it represents the Communist position from which retreat would be pictured as a concession.

It has left Western officials fingering less ambitious projects, designed to soften the impact of a failure to solve the German issue. These reserve projects assume the division of Germany will go on indefinitely.

During the coming week the ministers are also expected to confer secretly on Russian proposals for parleys on Asia and disarmament.

U. S. State Secretary Dulles, French Foreign Minister Bidault and Eden are bracing themselves for any surprise Russian move on these issues.

SPECIAL COURSE

VICTORIA (CP)—Victoria school board approved establishment of a special course for "slow learners" in grades 7, 8 and 9. Inspector John Gough said slow learners would gain encouragement in accomplishing something up to their ability.

Potato Board Chairman Returns From Ontario

Mr. Donald A. MacDonald, chairman of the P. E. I. Potato Marketing Board and selling agency returned to the Province Saturday after spending several days in Toronto and London, Ontario.

At Toronto he addressed a large group of growers from all parts of that Province and outlined the operation of the present potato marketing contract between the Island Board and the Government of Canada.

Some Ontario growers have been expressing concern over the fact that the Island producers are receiving a measure of "stop loss" protection this year that is not being enjoyed by potato farmers in other provinces. However, when all the true facts were explained to them they realized that the reason for such a condition was that the Island growers were organized to take advantage of existing marketing legislation and did not hesitate to make provision last summer for this year's serious market condition before it fully developed. Mr. MacDonald also spent one day at through U.S. underwriters. Quebec and Montreal recently marketed substantial bond issues in the U.S. Last year Canadian municipal financing in the U.S. totalled $238,000,000 against $166,000,000 in 1952.

There is a paradox in this dollar situation. Canada's foreign trade is more than 50 per cent with the U.S. And Canada has lived with a trade deficit for many years. That is Canada buys more from the U.S. than it sells. Under "normal" conditions, this would place the value of the Canadian dollar considerably under the American dollar. But the theoretical "norm" seldom applies to monetary conditions.

From the beginning of the Second World War to Sept. 30, 1950, the Canadian dollar was "pegged" at 90 cents U.S. That is, Canadian monetary authorities would support this fixed price to keep the currency stable.

Controls Relaxed

But after the war, the need for such artificial stability appeared less pressing. The Western world moved toward a relaxing of controls. And in 1950, Canada announced that its currency would be allowed to find its own level.

Following this "unpegging," the price of the Canadian dollar rose to 95 cents, where it remained with minor fluctuation until December, 1951. Up to this time, foreign investments had been "frozen." Thereafter, foreign capital could be withdrawn from Canada at will and Canadians were permitted to take their money out of the country without restriction.

At that moment, U.S. capital started north, increasing in amount with the passing months. On Jan. 22, 1952, the Canadian dollar reached a parity with the U.S. for the first time in 13 years.

On March 6, the Canadian dollar held a 1-32 of a cent premium for a full trading session. By the summer of 1952, the Canadian dollar had jumped to more than a four-cent premium, but by the year-end the premium was down to less than a penny. Since the start of 1953, the direction has been upward, slowly but steadily.

Kensington Road Residence Burned

Fire completely destroyed the two-story residence of Mr. William Arbing on Kensington Road yesterday morning at 8:30, none of the household effects or the personal belongings of the family being saved.

A son Gordon had arisen before the rest of the family lit the kitchen stove and went to the barn to feed a horse. When he returned to the house a few minutes later, he found the kitchen in flames. The other members of the family were alerted and narrowly made their escape from the burning building through the front door of the house. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Arbing and their son, four daughters lived in the house.

City firemen and Parkdale fire department were quickly on the scene but could do nothing to save the dwelling, so quickly did the flames spread. They were able, however, to save two adjoining bungalows which were in immediate danger.

While the cause of the fire is not definitely known, it is presumed that the kitchen stove became overheated while the son was in the barn. There was no insurance carried on the property or household effects, and the loss to the Arbing family at this time of year is a serious one.

Dies Suddenly In Victoria, B. C.

Friends in this Province will regret to hear of the sudden passing of Mr. Guy Tooker, M.C., C.B., which occurred at his home in Victoria, British Columbia, on Tuesday, December 8.

Mr. Tooker was the second son of the late Captain Tooker, R.N., who for many years commanded H.M.S. "Gulnare" when that ship was stationed at Charlottetown while engaged in surveying waters of the Gulf and the coast of Labrador.

Mr. Tooker is survived by his widow, the former Miss Margaret Ray of Birkenhead, England; and by his brother, Hugh, who resides in Calgary.
