Predicts Good Demand For Island Potatoes
 Yesterday's rain will be a godsend to Island farmers, particularly those whose potato fields are still green and will have a tendency to greatly increase the yield of potatoes. Every extra bushel of potatoes will in all probability mean considerable to the growers.
 Yesterday a representative from Maine who has travelled over a great deal of the potato sections and who is interested in the movement of large quantities of seed, reports that fields of Cobblers which last year averaged at least 150 bbl. to the acre are this year not digging more than 75bbl. and a maximum of 80 bbl. to the acre, field run.
 There is also a greater percentage of culls leaving a very much reduced crop of no. 1's for marketing, he noted.
 He and others from Maine and sections of United States are quite bullish regarding the price of potatoes in general and particularly of certified seed.
 The Maine representative believes it unlikely that fluctuating prices such as $1.00 and $1.50 per bushel will be paid. On the other hand he predicts there will be a good demand throughout the season and that prices will in all probability average considerably higher than they did a year ago.

The present European conflict does not call for halt in expenditure. The steel work on the newly built pier has been completed and 90 per cent of the design has been accomplished. The ferry terminal is scheduled to start operation between Wood Islands and Caribou is being remodelled at present.

Learning that at the outbreak of war she cut her visit short and booked passage home relatives immediately made inquiry and learned that she was a passenger on the torpedoed liner Athenia. For the past week every effort has been made to locate Miss Fraser among the survivors but has been unsuccessful. Her name was included in the list of missing issued on Saturday—Halifax Chronicle. Miss Fraser has many friends and relatives in Charlottetown. Her father resided here at one time being a prominent business man here.

Mayor Campbell's Address
 "On leaving Summerside you were quietly split up and without the bare of triumphs, in fact a number of citizens were surprised when they learned of your departure from the town."
 "I may say it was customary during the Great War to give the boys a send off and their departure from their home town was fittingly claimed."
 "In your case, however, there are several things to be considered, the urge to join the colors in the Great War was born within you, being fully acquainted with what the soldiers of 1914 came through, we therefore conclude that your own country is not a desire to do your part to prevent the same dire calamity befalling our country as it did in Germany."
 "That you voluntarily responded to this call places you in a superior relation over your fellow citizens inasmuch that you have followed the highest idealism of our race, namely the defence of our country from foreign invasion and the security of the weaker units of our population."
 "You, no doubt, will have times of loneliness, at those times, I would suggest you revive your spirits with the thought that you are doing your part to answer the promptings of your nature for the defence of freedom, against the forces of the tyrant."
 "If you would please may not take you outside our shores the fact of your ready response to the call for service stars us with commendable pride when we see our home town and country being defended by you."
 "In conclusion I would like to paint a glowing picture of your victorious return; this however, must be left in the lap of the Gods and the age old philosophy that tyranny shall never conquer, and that the old Union Jack will still proudly float over our country in a proof of equity, justice and freedom."

War Brings Motor Cars To Bermuda
 HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Two of Bermuda's most widely known prohibitions - one on motor cars, the other on women - went toppling today in the wake of the war.
 The assembly passed a bill against the colony's famous car ban, and the governor may now operate motor vehicles of all sorts on Bermuda roads for the duration of the war.
 Only last April Governor Hildyard resigned because, he said, it was impossible to carry out his duties properly "without the use of a motor car." The Bermuda legislature twice refused his requests for a car, so he quit.
 It was disclosed also under the emergency powers act recently passed the governor, now Major General Denis Kirwan, has the power to grant woman suffrage, for which the women of Bermuda have fought fruitlessly but steadily for many years.

He said the British boat had started taking water in no. 1 hold but that she had required no assistance. The Quebec salvage tug Lord Strickson, steamed to the side of the Rose Castle some time before noon.

 The main section provides that in addition to ordinary grants provided at the last session, a sum not exceeding $100,000,000 is granted for defraying expenses incurred for:
 (A) the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada;
 (B) the conduct of naval, military and air operations in or beyond Canada;
 (C) promoting the continuance of trade, industry and business communications whether by means of insurance or indemnity against fire risk or in any other manner whatsoever;
 (D) the carrying out of any measure deemed necessary or expedient for the defence of Canada in consequence of the existence of a state of war.
 Special warrants already issued for expenditure of $16,454,120 will form part of the amount appropriated by the bill.
Economic Co-Operation
 Indication the Government is preparing for measures of economic co-operation with the Allies came in a clause authorizing the appointment of an agent for any British or Allied country for any purpose directly connected with the war. This would make possible the exchange of information in Canada for other governments.
 The bill authorizes the Government to raise the $100,000,000 by way of loan. A clause requiring the Finance Minister to report on the disposition of all moneys expended under the bill before June 30, 1940 or earlier, was also included. The bill also provides that the next session was struck out of the suggestion of Conservative Leader Manion.
 He said the clause was useless when the Government refused to accept a suggestion from Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Cons. for South) that it be changed to require an earlier report. Dr. Manion said the House would not likely be in session on June 30 and might even be dissolved and a report at the 1941 session would be of no value.
 In introducing the bill, Mr. Lislev said it was impossible to forecast the actual financial requirements of the country during the war. Many financial decisions would have to be made as needs arose. For this reason detailed estimates had not been submitted to cover the sum asked.
 The first attempt to block an expeditionary force was made by Maxime Baillairon (Lib. Beauport-Laprairie) with an amendment to the resolution which preceded introduction of the bill. This was ruled out of order. A second reading proposed by Wilfrid Lacroix (Lib. Quebec-Montmorency) when Mr. MacNeill's amendment came when the bill was in committee of the whole and was allowed to go to a vote.
 The Liberal supporting it were: Wilfrid Lacroix, Quebec-Montmorency; Lucien Dubois, Nicolet-Yamaska; Maxime Baillairon, Beauport-Laprairie; Pierre Gaudin, Perteuse; J. A. Geste, St. Maurice-Lafayette; Charles Parent, Quebec West and South; H. E. Brunelle, Champlain; Laurent Lacombe, Laval; Two Mounties, Edouard Lacroix, Beauve; A. Sylvestre, Lake St. John-Roberval.
 C. O. F. supporters of the amendment were: J. S. Woods, North; Winnipeg North Centre; M. J. Coldwell, Roseton-Biggar; Grant MacNeill, Vancouver North; Angus MacInnis, Vancouver East; G. C. Douglas, Weyburn; Percy Rowe, Athabasca.
 "What precisely is meant by the words 'advice to Canada'?" Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked. "It means confined to Canada's shores what is to become of the views of those best able to decide upon these matters?"

 couer North) to a clause authorizing the use of the money voted for the "conduct of naval, military and air operations in the event of a state of war."
 The main section provides that in addition to ordinary grants provided at the last session, a sum not exceeding $100,000,000 is granted for defraying expenses incurred for:
 (A) the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada;
 (B) the conduct of naval, military and air operations in or beyond Canada;
 (C) promoting the continuance of trade, industry and business communications whether by means of insurance or indemnity against fire risk or in any other manner whatsoever;
 (D) the carrying out of any measure deemed necessary or expedient for the defence of Canada in consequence of the existence of a state of war.
 Special warrants already issued for expenditure of $16,454,120 will form part of the amount appropriated by the bill.
Economic Co-Operation
 Indication the Government is preparing for measures of economic co-operation with the Allies came in a clause authorizing the appointment of an agent for any British or Allied country for any purpose directly connected with the war. This would make possible the exchange of information in Canada for other governments.
 The bill authorizes the Government to raise the $100,000,000 by way of loan. A clause requiring the Finance Minister to report on the disposition of all moneys expended under the bill before June 30, 1940 or earlier, was also included. The bill also provides that the next session was struck out of the suggestion of Conservative Leader Manion.
 He said the clause was useless when the Government refused to accept a suggestion from Hon. J. Earl Lawson (Cons. for South) that it be changed to require an earlier report. Dr. Manion said the House would not likely be in session on June 30 and might even be dissolved and a report at the 1941 session would be of no value.
 In introducing the bill, Mr. Lislev said it was impossible to forecast the actual financial requirements of the country during the war. Many financial decisions would have to be made as needs arose. For this reason detailed estimates had not been submitted to cover the sum asked.
 The first attempt to block an expeditionary force was made by Maxime Baillairon (Lib. Beauport-Laprairie) with an amendment to the resolution which preceded introduction of the bill. This was ruled out of order. A second reading proposed by Wilfrid Lacroix (Lib. Quebec-Montmorency) when Mr. MacNeill's amendment came when the bill was in committee of the whole and was allowed to go to a vote.
 The Liberal supporting it were: Wilfrid Lacroix, Quebec-Montmorency; Lucien Dubois, Nicolet-Yamaska; Maxime Baillairon, Beauport-Laprairie; Pierre Gaudin, Perteuse; J. A. Geste, St. Maurice-Lafayette; Charles Parent, Quebec West and South; H. E. Brunelle, Champlain; Laurent Lacombe, Laval; Two Mounties, Edouard Lacroix, Beauve; A. Sylvestre, Lake St. John-Roberval.
 C. O. F. supporters of the amendment were: J. S. Woods, North; Winnipeg North Centre; M. J. Coldwell, Roseton-Biggar; Grant MacNeill, Vancouver North; Angus MacInnis, Vancouver East; G. C. Douglas, Weyburn; Percy Rowe, Athabasca.
 "What precisely is meant by the words 'advice to Canada'?" Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked. "It means confined to Canada's shores what is to become of the views of those best able to decide upon these matters?"
 The Quebec and the Island of St. Pierre are beyond our shores.
