McNulty Scores Hit With Big Morell Crowd

Peter McNulty of the famed McNulty family of entertainers thrilled a large audience in Morell last night with an oustanding performance that lasted for more than an hour an a half.

The youthful and highly talented Irish Artist from Dublin had the audience in a cheerful uproar as he sang, danced and played jokes throughout the evening.

With him were Frank Wade, and Ding Connolly of Charlottetown.

The crowd was probably the largest to see McNulty perform in the province.

McNulty himself described it as a terrific crowd and a lovely audience.

Tonight the Irish entertainers will be in Souris. He will give performances at different points in the Province during the rest of the week. The shows are being sponsored by the Benevolent Irish Society.

The Show has been described by competent critics as the best of its kind ever to be given here. It has the credentials to that claim because the McNulty's have become famous throughout the English speaking world for their high class entertainment.

They scored a big hit in New York when they appeared there earlier in the year. They were especially popular on television as they brought their Irish wit and charm into the homes of thousands of appreciative and song loving people.

Test Hogs For Vesicular Exanthema

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Department officials here are awaiting the results of tests on swine quarantined at New Westminster, B. C., which will determine if a new, highly-infectious animal disease has appeared for the first time in Canada.

The disease is vesicular exanthema which produces blisters on the feet and mouth of swine. It has long been widespread in the United States.

The tests are being applied to 386 swine which were being moved Wednesday from the Edmonton district to the U. S. market. U. S. authorities held them up at the boundary at Blaine, Wash., because a number were suffering from sore feet.

Agricultural officials here said the animals could be suffering from simple injuries received in shipment. However, the appearance of vesicles, or blisters, on the feet could be a symptom of exanthema.

Two sorts of tests are being applied. Results will be available early next week.

Symptoms of exanthema are similar to those of the more widely known foot-and-mouth disease, but attacks only hogs.

Exanthema is not known in Europe although it has for many years existed in the U. S.
