Annual Meeting Held Recently

On Saturday last, the annual meeting of the Dental Association of Prince Edward Island was held in Summerside. The elected officers for the forthcoming year are: Dr. C.D. Molins, Summerside, president; Dr. H.C. Stewart, Kingston, vice-president; Dr. D.G. Barrett, Charlottetown, secretary-treasurer-Registrar.

A matter for concern in the business discussed was the heavy demand which is being placed on the dentists in the province. There are not sufficient to cope with the demand and, because of the general shortage of dentists in the country as a whole, there is little hope of improvement for a long time.

On the other hand it was pointed out that very little use was being made of well-proved preventive measures. The clinics for topical fluoride applications on children were well supported, but unfortunately these too would have to be severely curtailed because of the lack of dental hygienists to operate them.

The fluoridation of water supplies, which is so widely accepted elsewhere, has still to be introduced in this province. The P.E.I. Dental Association once again passed a resolution urging every community in the province with a communal water supply to introduce fluoridation. The dentist said it is only by making use of this simple inexpensive method of reducing tooth decay that there can be any hope of meeting the demands for dental treatment.

Romania Seen Balancing Red Giants In Power Play

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

A maverick Communist nation is playing one mighty Communist giant against the other. Communist nations are watching, probably wondering if this will mean the breakthrough that could lead to more independence for the whole east European bloc.

Leonid L. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, returned to Moscow from Romania Friday. Chinese Premier Chou En-lai has been invited to visit Romania.

Does this mean that the Romanian Communists are trying to mediate, to bring the two big, feuding Communist powers together? It seems unlikely.

Romania's Communist leaders say publicly they are working for world Communist unity, but the disparity has been useful to Bucharest.

BETWEEN GIANTS

What is demonstrated by Brezhnev's unannounced visit and that planned by Chou is the curious strong position of a nation of 19,000,000 between two giants which, together, have 1,000,000,000 people. Romania has deftly balanced itself on a tightrope between the two.

Neither Brezhnev nor Chou is likely to be satisfied with the results of his efforts in Bucharest. Brezhnev talked for three days with the canny Nicolae Ceausescu, first secretary of the Romanian party. Probably they had much to discuss concerning the splintering process in the world Communist camp because of a bellicose anti-Soviet attitude in Peking.

The two probably also discussed problems of the scheduled July meeting of the Warsaw Pact, the military treaty of Europe's Communist-ruled countries. Ceausescu says Romania stands for abolition of all military blocs, presumably including the Warsaw Pact.

They also undoubtedly discussed questions concerning the Soviet-sponsored Council of Mutual Economic Aid (Comecon). WANTS LAND

There were even more touchy matters to be reviewed. Ceausescu may have brought up the question of territory. In 1940, Joseph Stalin forced Romania to cede 20,000 square miles of Romanian territory — Bessarabia and northern Bukovina — to the U.S.S.R. Romania, now in a strong position in the European Communist world and more aware than ever of her national interests, wants that rich and fertile territory back.

Unlike Brezhnev, the Chou visit is being publicized as official, a return of a visit paid by Romanian Premier Ion Mauer to Peking in 1964. Once again, as Romanians prepared for the meeting, there is talk that Bucharest is trying to reunite the two big nations. Once again, it looks otherwise.

Every effort seemed to have been made to ensure that Brezhnev and Chou would not be in Bucharest at the same time. Indeed, the probability is that Chou delayed his arrival to ensure that.

Both China and the U.S.S.R. are being polite to Romania — a few days ago a Romanian delegation headed by a deputy premier and politburo member, Emil Bodnarus, visited Peking and was received with high honors by the top-ranking Chinese politburo members. Romania also received red carpet treatment in Moscow.

munists are watching with deep interest the development of what now is called "the Romanian line. Other Communist-ruled nations have noted the Romanian success. Czechoslovakia, for example, reported with what seemed eager interest the news from Washington that the United States was interested in building bridges to east Europe and might extend "most favored nation trade status to some Communist countries.

Romania now openly opposes Soviet interference in her national and party affairs. The Romanian position, behind the veil of Communist Communism, is national and party independence.

Because of the Soviet-Chinese split, Romania is in a position to counter Moscow demands. Thus, in Comecon, Romania parried Soviet proposals for what was called "international division of labor. This would have meant that Romania and other Communist nations would join a co-operative production program primarily suited to Soviet needs.

Romania indicated it has no intention of becoming an agrarian country just to suit Soviet convenience. Right now Romania is having a sort of boom and has served notice that she intends to continue industrial and economic diversification programs. Romania rejected Comecon integration. She rejected the idea of enterprises jointly owned by the U.S.S.R. and Romania.

Soviet efforts to push Romania, along with other Communist countries, into a single economic mold, probably impelled the Romanians to look westward. Now Romania's influence in this respect seems likely to spread, not only to other nations of the bloc, but to Communist parties in western Europe, many of whose members already are squirming under Soviet influence.

BATHROOMS ARE CALLED DISGRACE TO SPACE AGE

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A Cornell University research team surfaced from a five-year study of indoor plumbing with harsh words for the North American bathroom.

Their conclusion: The bathroom is a disgrace to the space age. The tub is uncomfortable and unsafe. The wash bowl is too low. The shower is cramped. And as for the whatchamacallit, it is "the most ill-suited fixture ever designed."

"The average bathroom," said Theodore Kira, an architect who headed the study, "is minimal in terms of contemporary knowledge, technology, values and attitudes."

"We have come to recognize needed improvements in automobiles. We must also accept the fact that the bathroom needs a drastic overhaul."

The team's findings were set out in a 116-page report, illustrated with 46 photographs and diagrams bearing such captions as "postural mechanics of entering and leaving a bathtub."

It said bathtubs are dangerous to get in and out of and not much fun to use, remarking: "No tub made today permits a person to relax unless he happens to be a contortionist."

Two-Car Collision Sends Two To Hospital

Damages were estimated at $1800 in a two-car collision on the Trans Canada highway Saturday evening which sent two persons to Hospital in Charlottetown with facial cuts and a broken arm.

The accident was investigated by the Charlottetown detachment of the RCMP who reported that Mr. and Mrs. Fernando James Fidal, 145 North River Road, were admitted to the P.E.I. Hospital following a collision with another car driven by Mary Alice Griffin of Lot 65. The accident happened about a mile east of Bonshaw at approximately 10:45, police said.

Mrs. Fidal reportedly received a broken arm and lacerations to the face while Mr. Fidal received cuts on the head.

There were no injuries reported upon examination by Dr. L. Rachmel.

RCMP reported that the accident occurred as the Fidal car was travelling in the direction of Charlottetown and the Griffin automobile was in the process of turning.

The Fidal car, a 1966 Dodge station wagon, reportedly received about $800 while the Griffin car, a 1968 Oldsmobile sustained about $1,000 damage.

A collision at the intersection of Belvedere Avenue and Mt. Edward Road Saturday shortly before noon saw an estimated $500 damage to the cars involved.

Police released the driver's names as Alfred Mayo Newell, Halifax, and Roger Alton Younker, Winsloe.

RESTING COMFORTABLY

A spokesman at the hospital last night reported Mrs. Fidal was resting comfortably and that Mr. Fidal was released.
