QUEENS County Member of Parliament Heath Macquarrie is seen yesterday afternoon presenting a framed copy of the Canadian Bill of Rights to Desmond Connolly, principal of Englewood Regional High School, and Donald Moore (centre) president of the student's council. This presentation, along with a scroll bearing the photographs of all Canadian prime ministers, was presented following a brief address to the high school students. Mr. Macquarrie, recalled with pleasure his days as a student in this district, noted the scenic location in which the school is located, and urged students to make the most of the facilities it offered for their education.

Victoria Harbor To Be Surveyed

SUMMERSIDE — Member of Parliament Heath Macquarrie yesterday afternoon announced that a hydrographic survey of Victoria Harbor will be conducted this summer and that a retaining wall will be built along the south shore front on the east side of the Victoria marine wharf, as part of a continuing program of harbor improvement at this south shore fishing centre.

Mr. Macquarrie said that he and Hon. Angus MacLean, federal minister of fisheries, expected details on the construction of the retaining wall will soon be completed and that work should start very soon on the project.

Mr. Macquarrie yesterday inspected the newly improved 500 foot marine wharf which has been widened and enclosed in steel piling. He said the hydrographic survey would provide a detailed charting of Victoria Harbor, and its approaches, and that dredging will be continued where necessary, in providing a safe harbor and adequate docking and fishing facilities.

Mr. Macquarrie arrived yesterday from Ottawa on a two-day visit. Before inspecting the Victoria wharf he visited the nearby Englewood Regional High School where he addressed a student assembly and presented copies of the Canadian Bill of Rights and a scroll bearing pictures of every Canadian prime minister.

From Victoria, Mr. Macquarrie travelled across the Island to Rustico to a dinner held in connection with the cannery course being conducted there at which Dominion department of fisheries officials participated.

Last evening he returned to Charlottetown where he was present at an executive meeting of the Queens County Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Macquarrie plans to return to Ottawa on Saturday morning.

tribution system, to support the latter and help provide required fire flows; and elimination where feasible of dead-ends, and the replacement of undersized distribution mains by pipe of adequate diameter.

It was pointed out that the associate's design for effectively and economically controlling the existing waste of water, and reinforcing the distribution system, calls for the investment of $445,640 during the period of 1962-1976.

MAINS PROPOSED

It is proposed to bring 12-inch main from its connection with the main line at Gerald Street along Elm Avenue and Great George Street to the Monument in Queen Square. From there the line would go down Grafton Street and Hillsboro Street to Hillsboro Square where a 1.75 million gallon reservoir would be built, from which it would go along Sydney Street to Weymouth, to connect with the 14-inch line coming in Longworth Avenue.

It was suggested that during the laying of pipe Elm Avenue could be made one way with traffic being routed in Upper Queen Street. It was also stated that if the Avenue was to be widened it could also be done at this time.

METERING TO SAVE

Commissioner Green stated that metering was not a scheme to make money but to save money in the long run. He said the present rates would prevail but if extra water was needed to wash a car or water a garden it would have to be paid for.

"As shown by our investigations, the water distribution system is burdened with an appreciable amount of consumption that serves no useful purpose, representing leakage due to house waste and defects in underground installations. The general tendency is for the waste to increase both in volume and in percentage of the total demand. House waste, which proved to be the major cause of water losses, can only be effectively controlled in the long run by universal metering. This has been proven in numberless cities both in Canada and elsewhere.

PENALTIES NEEDED

"Metering by itself is not sufficient, the useless waste of water must be penalized by charges of high rates for consumption over and above a reasonable amount of registration by billing period.

Project Set For S'side On Saturday

SUMMERSIDE — The first career counselling program for grade 12 students to be held in Summerside this Saturday will be staged at the Elm street school through the cooperation of school supervisor Clarence Mercer and school principal Frances MacNeill.

Some 95 students from seven Prince County high schools have made inquiries regarding counselling in more than 30 fields and counsellors have been arranged by the Summerside Y's men's club and Ernest Murphy, special placements officer at the local national employment office.

The Y's men's committee is headed by James Murphy with Eric Jones and Wilson Ross as members.

Some of the late applications have made inquiries into fields for which counsellors have not been arranged and these students will be referred to people who are working in these professions. For example, one female applicant is interested in the position of a librarian and she will be counselled by Miss Amy Burrows, the librarian at the Summerside public library. As well three applicants wish to learn more about the theological field and these students have been referred to clergymen of their own denomination in their own communities.

Any applications that are interested in the broadcasting field, either television or radio, are being counselled by Robert C. Schurman, manager of the local radio station. The technical end of radio and television is being handled by Eric Tanton.

The film "You Can Go A Long Way" which deals with career counselling has been arranged for and will be shown during the program Saturday afternoon. The film was produced by the federal department of labor and made available by the national film board. Teacher Ben Beck has kindly consented to be projectionist.

Island Dance Festival Said 'Very Successful'

The first annual P. E. I. Dance Festival came to a close last night as the stars of the festival presented a concert in PWC auditorium.

Commenting on the festival, Mrs. Lorree Martin Vellner, Red Deer, Alta., adjudicator, said she was very impressed by the tremendous organization, work and interest in the festival. "As far as organization goes," she said," it's the best festival I've seen for the past five or six years. In many other provinces they are too big, and this tends to make them less particular. The timing of every detail here was excellent. The association as a whole is bound to improve."

She said that British Columbia was the only other province that she could recall that has a provincial festival. "The people here didn't seem to take anything for granted", she continued, "they were all so friendly. I guess that comes from being a small city."

Asked how this festival compared with some she had attended in other provinces she said, "94 is considered a very high mark. Heather Burke who made this mark exhibited excellent footwork. If her personality were a little more sparkling she would provide very tough competition for any Canadian festival."

VERY PLEASED

Dance festival president, Bruce MacLaren said "the festival went over remarkably well. I was very pleased with the tremendous job done by teachers and contestants, plus all those others who have done various little somethings. We were all very pleased with the response in the way of help, which made the festival the the success it is."

Asked about the future, he said "well, its too early to say anything yet, but I and several others feel sure it will not be dropped. This year, since we have separated from the music festival, we have had the largest number of entries in our history."

The actual competition ended yesterday morning with the completion of the last session at the Community Centre.

the subject of testing and did not intend to fall into the same trap again.

American Ambassador Arthur Dean said:

"With regret, we do not have any confidence in a Soviet pledge."

Rejection of the moratorium means the U.S. atmospheric test series now being prepared in the Christmas Island area of the central Pacific will take place later this month unless the Russians at the last minute accept an internationally - controlled nuclear test-ban agreement.

DENOUNCE POLICING

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin said that was out of the question. He denounced again the policing arrangements favored by the Western powers to prevent cheating on a test-ban treaty.

E. L. M. Burns of Canada said "the hour is getting late" to prevent a new testing race. He called on the three atomic powers—the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union—to make a supreme effort to resolve their differences and to show a willingness to compromise.

Later Burns told reporters his government agreed that a nuclear test-ban treaty should contain adequate international control arrangements. But Canada wants to see no more nuclear tests, he said.

A similar anti-testing plea came from Luis Padilla-Nervo of Mexico and Afonso Arinos de Mello - Franco of Brazil. The Brazilian drew nods of approval from many around the conference table when he declared "the world public will never understand why the great powers have not found a way to end tests."

There were complaints from several of the non-aligned nations that their proposals for a settlement were brushed aside by the big powers. These plans envisage a compromise between the American - British demand for international controls and Soviet insistence that existing nation instrument systems are enough to police a test ban.

Zorin heaped scorn on the statement dispatched to Moscow earlier this week on the orders of President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan. That statement urged the Kremlin to think again about the control question and said the American tests in the Pacific will take place on schedule unless the Russians quickly accept an enforceable test ban.

ISLAND TEACHERS VISIT RCAF SCHOOL

Abbie's Refit Is Delayed

The carferry Abegwelt will not be leaving for her annual refit until all ice is gone from the Strait, a CNR spokesman said yesterday.

It had been thought that the big ship might leave this week when the new Confederation arrived. The new boat is not expected to be in operation for a while yet, however.

Meanwhile, the Abegweit is having no trouble in the greatly loosened ice in the Strait. The railway despatcher said the ship was crossing in "summer time", about an hour.

In the second period Chicago centre Stan Mikita scored after he knocked the puck out of the grasp of Toronto goalkeeper Johnny Bower.

"Bower blocked the puck, holding it between his arm and his side," Udvari said in his dressing room after the game. "I blew the whistle because I lost sight of the puck. It went into the net when Mikita hit Bower after the whistle had gone."

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous sharply criticized the decision.

"I don't know why he blew the damn whistle," Pilous said. "It was a judgment play all right. Everybody in the country saw the puck—except Udvari, apparently."

Udvari also called back a goal by Toronto left winger Ed Litzenberger, who banged in a flying puck in the third period.

Udvari Says Stuck By Rule

TORONTO (CP) — Referee Frank Udvari, who disallowed two goals in Thursday night's Stanley Cup game, said he stuck by the rules in both cases.
