ELLEN'S DIARY

Tonight It's Hallowe'en And Witches Are Abroad

"But will it be fine, that night?" a youngster wondered today, mind on the magic and mystery of the Hallowe'en ahead.

"Fine, it's likely. And so bright you will scarcely know when the daylight is over and the night begins" we said. We'll see the moon rise over the barn-gable there to the east. In it, we'll catch sight of an owl seated at the far end of the ridgepole. It will be either the one who calls from the maple grove in the uplands, or maybe he that forecasts falling weather from the spruces down by the stream. For who will say that one or the other will not be abroad, as big-eyed as the stuffed one in our livingroom, and that night quite as quiet?"

"And who else?" the small one questioned, obviously intrigued at the thought.

"If you happen to be driving that night, you will see a pair of eyes glistening, like great diamonds, in the ditch of the road. Or perhaps crossing the road ahead. And you will know at once it's —"

"—somebody's black cat" he nodded.

"Yes, setting off to meet the witch, who is to take him riding across the sky on her broomstick. You may even see her, if you chance to think of it. You'll think it's a dark cloud. But, if you look closely, there she will be with her queer pointed hat, her black cape flying away from her shoulders, as she flies across the face of the moon!"

"And what else? Tell me more — I like it!"

What else indeed?

So much — so very much: Scenes from Hallowe'ens past: faces gone now from the lanes, and roads and the villages of the now long ago, will come back to us, as young as then — and the chuckles and suppressed laughter, the youthful fears and alarms.

Now — now is the time! — Lift that gate — Hide that wheelbarrow — Tip that rain-barrel — Quickly, softly now, and scamper off into the night! How exciting the night was! And exciting it still is, steeped, dipped in a magic of its own.

No matter if you are six or sixty, you will sense the difference of the Hallowe'en from other nights. Like the Christmas Eve it is, mysterious, but not so solemn. Full of whispered chuckles, and smiles that break and infectiously spread.

If you are still a sweet young thing, you may presume, Indeed dare, to prove to yourself some of its charms. A stout spirit this requires, for to meet with any measure of success you are advised to "Go by yourself" and there is no denying it is after all, a weird night. Even if you would come only as far away as the dusked livingroom, there to "eat the apple at the glass" in the hope you might glimpse a sweetheart's face at your shoulder, would, we think, put one's courage to the test.

However this will be the very night to try it—the lone witching night of the year. A night this, when mischievous pixies and goblins and their kin are abroad — a soundless, merry, happy, but, we hope, not thoughtless crew. At any rate This is the night when magic weaves A spell on all, I ween. Through dear, enchanting, eerie hours.

Again it's Hallowe'en!

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.....

Rev. T.P. Butler Addresses CWL Regional Conference

Mrs. H. J. Hynes of Montague, and Mrs Adrian MacInnis of Souris, the two past provincial CWL presidents from King's county, were honoured at the third and last of the Regional Conferences for this year at Georgetown Sunday afternoon when they were presented with past president's pins by Rev. George MacCormack, provincial director. In expressing the thanks and appreciation for both recipients, Mrs. Hynes recalled the early days of the CWL in this province and expressed the satisfaction derived from watching the growth of the organization in strength and numbers over the years to its present province-wide scope.

Some 132 CWL members and their directors from 13 of the 14 parish councils in King's county attended Sunday's afternoon and evening sessions, held at the Town Hall, and chaired by the provincial president, Miss Iphigenie Arsenault, who reported on the national CWL convention held in Calgary during the past summer.

Rev. L. B. Dooley, pastor of St. James parish and spiritual director of the CWL, and Mrs. P. L. Boudreault, past president of the Georgetown parish council, extended a welcome to the two representatives in attendance.

Plans were outlined for the National CWL convention which will be held in Charlottetown next September, and a summary of the proceedings of the Atlantic Provinces Lay Apostolate conference held at Antigonish last June were also given by the provincial president.

As at the two previous conferences, the highlight of the proceedings was the forceful address given by Rev. T. P. Butler of Fort Augustus who spoke on "Socialization and Human Progress" which was the theme of the Catholic Social Life Conference which he attended in Edmonton in August. He dwelt on socialization and economics from the agricultural point of view, and developed the subject as it applies to the farm situation in this province, which he said is deplorable when farmers are receiving such small remuneration for their produce. He said there was not enough being done to educate our young people, and older people, in farming conditions, and urged CWL members to do something constructive to better the existing conditions before it is too late.

Rev. George MacCormack spoke to the members on several subjects including the out-moded laws which are in effect in this province and which should be made more realistic, the inadequacy of the present minimum wage laws, the communications apostolate, as well as the bazaar to be held at the new Motherhouse of the Sisters of St. Martha on November 29th. and 30th. for which he solicited the whole-hearted co-operation of the CWL.

During the supper hour, members of St. James parish council of Georgetown, who were the hostesses for the conference, served refreshments.

After attending Benediction at St. James Church, the meeting was divided into discussion groups from which came suggestions for resolutions which will be formulated and forwarded to the proper authorities.

Mrs. J. E. Rossiter of Morell expressed the thanks of the members to Father Dooley and the Georgetown parish council for their hospitality.

Household Hints

Double the life of your shoes by changing them daily. It's the airing between wearings that prevents perspiration from rotting the leather.

You can make an impromptu sleeve board by rolling up a large magazine, holding it with rubber bands and covering with a heavy towel.

Oily spots on wash-and-wear fabrics may set permanently if not treated before washing. Pre-treat with a solvent or cold water and detergent, then launder the garment.

MARY HAWORTH

Falsely Accused, Girl Runs Away From Home

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a girl, 15. My mother was killed in an automobile accident last April. This left me with my father and my 12-year-old brother.

My brother runs over me, calls me all kinds of names and accuses me of things that aren't so. God know they aren't so. But my father sides with my brother and beats me.

So I left home and am staying with my sister. Now my other sister and her husband are staying with my father and he ignores my existence.

Do you think I've done the right thing by leaving home? If you think I have, please let me know, because the question is driving me crazy. Ever since my mother died, I have been run over.—F.Y.

Dear F.Y.: Any girl, 15, who has just lost her mother, is greatly in need of protective love and loyal sympathy from other relatives closest to her.

Thus it is terribly unfortunate that your younger brother has been trampling on your feelings and falsely accusing you, and that your father has been siding against you, mistreating you brutally and failing in his duty to promote law, order, justice and harmony in his household—during the months since your mother was killed.

All things considered, I'm sure you've done right to go to your sister's, in search of peace under her roof.

Don't torture your conscience any more with misgivings on that score. You've no cause to feel guilty about trying to escape to decent surroundings, away from that grim situation wherein you were persecuted without reason.

If your father's disposition to know and do right was as good as yours, he would have recognized by now his wrong doing in the matter. He would admit that he drove you from home; and he would be asking your forgiveness. He would harbor no harsh feeling against you for leaving. Rather, he would feel almost insupportable sorrow at forcing you to take this step in self-defense.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

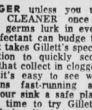
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, October 31st — It's still not too late! Yes, you can still do yourself a big favour by buying a Canada Savings Bond on the easy instalment plan at the BANK OF MONTREAL. Just think, you can buy a $50. Canada Savings Bond for as little as $2.50 down payment. And by holding onto your bond until it matures, you will benefit by the generous average return on your investment. What's more, you can always redeem these bonds at full face value, plus accrued interest. If you haven't already bought your Canada Savings Bonds, the place to get them on the instalment plan is your nearest branch of "My Bank".

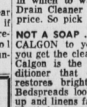
HAVE YOU NOTICED how often your family's favourite dishes feature something good made with Monarch TEA-BISK? Tea-Bisk is an all-purpose mix that can be used for any number of taste treats. Try this recipe, using fluffy, golden Tea-Bisk topping . . . quick, easy, delicious!

CASSEROLE CAPRI

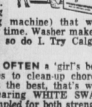
In a 1½ quart casserole combine 1 tin of condensed vegetable soup, 1 15-ounce tin of cut green beans (drained) and 1 lb. of ground-beef hamburger which has been panfried until lightly browned. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover with Tea-Bisk topping following the easy recipe on Monarch Tea-Bisk package. Bake in 450 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 4 to 6.



YOU'RE "FLIRTING" WITH DANGER unless you use GILLETT'S DRAIN CLEANER once a week. For dangerous germs lurk in every drain. No liquid disinfectant can budge the muck they breed in. It takes Gillett's especial churning, boiling action to quickly scour out muck and germs that collect in clogged-up sink drains. So, it's easy to see why Gillett's keeps drains fast-running and sanitary . . . and why it always leaves your sink a safe place in which to wash dishes. Now is a good time to try Gillett's Drain Cleaner because your grocer is offering it at a special price. So pick up a can or two right away!



NOT A SOAP . . . NOT A DETERGENT . . . yet when you add CALGON to your wash and rinse water, you get the cleanest wash you've ever seen. Calgon is the highly effective water conditioner that cleans away soapless film, restores brightness and natural softness. Bedspreads look like new . . . towels fluff up and linens fairly gleam with cleanliness. That's because Calgon has removed washing film (the "bathtub ring" of the washing machine) that was causing your fabrics to look old before their time. Washer makers recommend Calgon water conditioner and so do I. Try Calgon and I think you will recommend it too.



TIME-SAVING PAPER TOWELS ARE SO OFTEN a "girl's best friend" when it comes to clean-up chores. Naturally you'll want the best, that's why I recommend easy-tearing WHITE SWAN PAPER TOWELS, dimpled for both strength and absorbency. I keep them handy in both my kitchen and bathroom and use them all over the house for dusting, wiping-up (wet or dry) . . . and they're so reasonably priced in their economical "twin pack" package. I always insist on White Swan Paper Towels . . . There's a wide choice of aqua, pink, yellow or white for both kitchen and bathroom.

DO YOU SPEND MANY AND MANY A SLEEPLESS NIGHT because of a bad bronchial cough or the gasping and wheezing of asthma? Then here is good news for you from Mrs. G. Schofield of Toronto:— She writes "I have been subject to chronic bronchitis which has made me cough and gasp for breath. I also get asthmatic attacks in damp weather. I am thankful to say I have found that Raz-Mah Capsules give quick and satisfactory relief from my suffering." Yes, RAZ-MAH Capsules bring almost instant relief — with no unpleasant after-effects. If you suffer from chronic bronchitis, stubborn bronchial coughs, or asthma . . . do try Raz-Mah . . . Raz-Mah Greys Juniors for children.

Double Ring Ceremony Held In Outdoor Setting

A pretty lawn wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride when Beverley Anne MacGregor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacGregor, Belham's Road, was united in marriage to Arnold W. Boates, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Boates, of O'Leary. Rev. Mr. Hamilton of O'Leary performed the double ring ceremony.

The lawn with its green foliage of trees, was decorated for the occasion as an outdoor church. On each side were placed long pews, each artistically marked with white alyssum, shaped to represent a heart and wedding ring. Beds of seasonal flowers enhanced the setting and bloomed in the warm sun. A spinning wheel bearing pansies, marked one corner of the lawn. Pews for the guests were marked with white satin. A white trellis formed an archway under which the bride and groom stood, and was adorned with pink and white bells and flowing streamers. A portable electric organ completed the arrangement.

During the seating of the guests, Mrs. John Schiller of Toronto sang "O Promise Me", and Roscoe Walker of Kensington, sang "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Organist was Mrs. Keith Boswell. All three are cousins of the bride. "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by the two soloists during the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" by Mrs. Schiller during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of white brocaded satin. The fitted bodice featured a rounded neckline and lily point sleeves. A back panel accented the controlled fullness of the skirt. Panels of peau de soie caught in front to a wide satin cummerbund, gracefully draped over the shoulder and flowed softly to a chapel train at back. Her four tier elbow length veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara of sequins and rhinestones. Her bouquet, a cascade of sweetheart roses, was later presented to the bride's grandmother, Mrs Cameron MacGregor.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Edwin Turner, sister of the groom, wore a waltz length dress of blue lace over taffeta, a matching blue satin cummerbund with back panels, and a wedding ring hat. She carried a pink and white nosegay of mums.

The bridesmaids, Carolyn Sullivan, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Albert Haslam were gowned in waltz length dresses of pink lace over taffeta, matching pink satin cummerbunds with flowing panels, and wedding ring hats. They carried nosegays of blue and white tinted mums.

The train bearers, Zellah Crozier and Patricia Boates, nieces of the groom, were charming in dresses of embroidered chiffon over pink taffeta, and white head bands. They wore corsages of blue tinted carnations.

The flower girl, Patricia MacGregor, niece of the bride, wore a dress of embroidered chiffon over blue taffeta and white head band. She carried a basket of Sweetheart roses. The ring bearer, Alan Crozier, nephew of the groom, dressed in a white tuxedo with red boutonniere, carried the heart shaped red velvet cushion.

The groomsman was Edwin Turner of O'Leary, and the ushers were Randall Boates, brother of the groom, and Bruce MacGregor, brother of the bride. The groom's attendant and ushers wore white tuxedos and boutonnieres.

Mrs. MacGregor chose for her daughter's wedding a beige satin brocade two piece sheath with green satin cummerbund, matching hat and accessories, and wore a corsage of tangerine carnations. Mrs. Boates, wore a black and white silk two piece sheath, rose hat and accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

A unique feature was that the bridal party gowns were made by the bride and included those of the matron of honor, bridesmaids, train bearers, flower girl, and her own wedding gown and going away costume.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was held for 75 guests on the lawn of the bride's home. Streamers of pink and white with a white wedding bell centered the bride's tables laid with white linen. A three tiered wedding cake made by the bride's mother, and decorated by the bride was encircled with flowers. Tall lighted tapers in antique silver candelabra completed the table decorations

The blessing was asked by the Mr. Hamilton. Edwin Turner proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. During the reception special musical selections were supplied by the two soloists accompanied by the organist.

Serving the bridal table were Barbara Sinclair, RN and Bonita Boates. Replenishing were Mrs. Charles Howatt and Mrs. Allie MacNeil. Others assisting in serving were Mona Turner, Clair Boates, Betty Quick, Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. Duncan Cole, Mabel Montgomery, Mrs. James

JOAN KENNY

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Kenny, Morell, wish to announce the engagement of their youngest-daughter, Joan Teresa to John H. MacDonald, Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald, Cardigan. The marriage will take place in St. Mary's Church, Boston, Mass. on November 23rd, 1963

M. Campbell and Mrs. William Cotton.

Miss Bonita Boates and Miss Betsy Quick were in charge of the guest book and gifts.

The couple left on a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For travelling the bride chose a white sheath dress with aqua hat and gloves and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

On their return the bride and groom will take up residence in O'Leary.

Prior to Miss MacGregor's marriage the UCW of O'Leary entertained in her honor, presenting her with two woolen blankets. Also a community shower was held at her home, Graham's Road.
