

The First Quarrel.

"The habit of smoking is vulgar, you know. Only fit for those people whose instincts are low." Insisted his wife as she sat by his side, To which opposition he calmly replied: "You'd surely call Milton a high-minded man; Not so, my dear wife? His life didn't pan out a failure, you know; well, now I insist. If all smokers are low he's down on your list. "Carlyle, you'll admit, was a genius, nicht wahr? (Excuse me a jiff while I light my cigar.) He smoked like a chimney, Clarissa, my dear, While Lamb smoked each month more than I smoked last year. Old Newton at church, with his conscience quite clear, Fumed with tobacco the pews in the rear. "Your Dickens smoked, too, while Thackeray's clothes Were soaked with tobacco fumes through to his hose; In short, dear Clarissa, my list would contain The name of each genius from Raleigh to Twain." Then, smiling, she answered, with logic clear, "You promise to swear off until you are great!"

Good Manners.

No result of our system of education is less satisfactory than the manners it produces. Our boys and girls are, as a rule, very ill-mannered. They are not only awkward because they have not the least sense of reverence for seniors or superiors. The absence of any expression or gesture of respect suggests that their parents and teachers have entirely failed to make themselves respected. This work is primarily the duty of parents. All parents in a new country cannot be expected to be well-bred themselves, and there is a natural reaction against the cringing manners forced on the common people in the old world, where the chief doctrine taught them is respect for their betters. To the school we look for the remedy, but judging from the result we do so largely in vain. Manners regarded as mere outward observances of convention may be thought a minor matter, but the outward behavior is the index of the soul, and when we see young people growing up with no sign of respect for those who are older or who are set in positions over them, as a teacher is, we see evidence of an evil which is subversive of all true manliness in the individual and all true greatness in the state. It belongs to the parent and to the teacher to see that respectfulness is taught. The system of cram rules our public schools and leaves no time, not even a half an hour a week, for moral training, or that intercourse by which a teacher may call into play some emotion more noble than that of selfish emulation. In the old days, when teachers were frequently gentlemen and ladies of high breeding, who had taken up the calling not altogether through choice, what the scholar lost in their lack of fitness for their work, was, in a measure, made up to him in getting his early impressions from persons whose superiority impressed him, and whose manners it was desirable to imitate. Our teachers are much better prepared than those were, to convey knowledge to the young, being well instructed in every latest device for making the path of knowledge smooth to juvenile feet. What is, of course, comparatively scarce in a new country, what cannot be easily conferred in our training schools, and cannot be made a subject of examination, but may be very largely acquired by contact, when once the teacher sees the need of acquiring it, is a refined manner, including a refined use of his own language. When in former days the village dame used to issue her card of tuition, ending "manners a penny extra," what was meant to be given for that penny a week was a knowledge of the proper bow and courtesy and pull at the forelock which was due on the part of the peasant when he met the clergyman or the squire or any of their families. (The manners, the lack of which we deplore, cannot be taught in a special course for a penny extra. They must be imbibed from intercourse with people who know what good manners are; and it is the duty of all, whether teachers or parents or occupying any other relation to the boys and girls of our country, to cultivate good manners in ourselves as well as in them.—Montreal Witness.

A 28-Story Building

EXPECTED TO BE PUT UP IN MINNEAPOLIS THIS YEAR. Says a Minneapolis, Minn., despatch: The 28-story building scheme, which was so laughed at in the east when the architect first made it public, is expected to materialize in this city during the present year. Financial backing has been secured, and an office opened where plans are exhibited, which show the outline of 728 rooms, each of which opens from the interior court, and has a window on the outside. The plans are drawn for a building 80 feet square on the level of the sidewalk, and tapering a little towards the top. The court within is to be 40 feet square, in the centre of which 16 passenger elevators will be run. The total floor area is 149,040 square feet. Mr. Yardall, who is exhibiting the plans, has no doubt of success. "The tower of the New York produce exchange" he said, "is 149 feet above the sidewalk, and the elevator runs to within 15 feet of the top. That is but 55 square. The Washington monument is 55 feet square at the base, and 520 feet high. Then why could we not erect a building such as we propose? It will be made of iron, being a skeleton of lattice riveted iron work, and its weight will be but one-fifth of that of a stone or brick building of the same dimensions. It will be perfectly fire-proof and will cost $1,000,000. It can be built at the rate of 40 feet per week upwards.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturer of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for the cure of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure. SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharge from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes sore, weak, watery, and inflamed; the voice is hoarse, the voice is changed, and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough, and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh." Prof. W. HAYSER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the meantime, my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was well again, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Sneezing and Spitting." THOMAS J. HUGHES, Esq., 2909 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly sneezing and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh. ERI ROBBINS, Ruggen P. O., Columbia Co., N. Y., writes: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very bad. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw the help. In a third bottle she was cured, and permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."
