2nd Queens PC's Meet In Clyde R.

Daniel MacPherson, Oyster Bed Bridge, was re-elected president of the 2nd District of Queens Progressive Conservative Association at its annual meeting in Clyde River Hall last night.

Other officers elected were J. Amos P. Gallant, Rustico; vice president; and Arnold Beer, Clyde River, secretary. Elected to the provincial executive was Reagh Bagnall, Hunter River while Emmett Gallant, North Rustico, was elected to the Queens County executive.

The large gathering heard brief addresses by Heath Macquarrie, MP, for Queens County; J. Philip Matheson, provincial minister of highways; Lloyd MacPhail, 2nd district representative; Reagh Bagnall, county vice president; and Bennett Carr. The meeting was chaired by Mr. MacPherson who also spoke briefly.

Resolutions, brought in by a committee composed of A. P. Gallant, Rustico; Douglas MacDonald, Glasgow Road; and Hector Currie, Fairview, pledged loyalty to the Queen, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, the Queens County representatives and the district representatives. Resolutions also expressed greetings to Premier Walter R. Shaw, who was recently released from hospital, and congratulations to Mr. Macquarrie on his recent appointment as parliamentary secretary to the minister of external affairs.

All speakers spoke of Mr. Macquarrie's appointment and also extended their best wishes to Premier Shaw.

Mr. MacPhail spoke of the fishing industry, ARDA, highways and public works. He cited the removal of the farmers gas tax as "evidence of the continuing interest the Progressive Conservative government has in the basic producers, farmers and fishermen."

He also spoke of the Liberal criticism on education, electoral reform and the conferences in Ottawa.

Mr. Matheson said that despite the $600,000 extra expenses due to floods in the spring of this year, "every bit of hard surface road pledged to the district will be done."

He said soil analysis has produced a better system of paving and that this years pavement "was the best ever constructed." He said his department was trying to build a through paved road to handle year round traffic and heavy trucks.

Mr. Macquarrie stated that the devaluation of the dollar was a good thing and should have been done sooner. He said that although this summer was not very good, the Island had more American tourists than in many years.

A heart attack claimed the life of R. Keith Carson, 35, son of Dr. W.R. Carson, Charlottetown. The fatal attack came suddenly in Toronto Tuesday.

He was unmarried and is survived by a brother Richard, in addition to his father.

A week ago Saturday he attended his brother's wedding.

Funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m.

Two Youths Get Suspended Term

Appearing for sentence on charges of wilful damage to private property, Francis Glen Docherty, Montague, and Morley Gordon Coffin, Stanley, N.B. were each given two year suspended sentences by Magistrate James B. Johnston, QC, at a special session of Queens County magistrate's court in Charlottetown yesterday afternoon.

Docherty and Coffin were charged with damaging 24 or 25 headstones in the Three Rivers Cemetery, in the Brudenell area, to which both the teenaged accused pleaded guilty at their arraignment at an earlier session of the Kings County magistrate's court in Georgetown.

Under the terms of the bond which the accused were ordered to enter into, the two youths are to report to the officer-in-charge of the nearest detachment of the RCMP once a month, during the last week of each month, for the first year.

During the second year, they must report once every three months, also during the last week of each three month period. They were also each required to post a bond in the amount of $2,000 with two sureties of $1,000 each. In addition they were ordered to make restitution for the repair and replacement of the monuments, which was estimated at a value of approximately $1,500.

In considering the sentence, the magistrate said he had weighed the appeal of the defense counsel for a suspended sentence and the trustees of the cemetery and the Crown had agreed to such a sentence.

In handing down sentence, Magistrate Johnston, warned both by their being given a suspended sentence did not mean that they were clear of all consequences relative to the charge or that the case was completely at an end.

He pointed out to them that under the terms of the bond, it meant that if at any time during the two year period they misbehaved themselves or if they did not conduct themselves strictly in accordance with the terms of the bond, they could be brought back before the court and sentenced on the original charge.

"The term's suspended sentence" in effect means that the passing of sentence has been deferred during the period of suspension, determined only by their own conduct during that time" the magistrate said.

He also pointed out to the two accused that under the Criminal Code, a penetentiary sentence of up to five years could be imposed.

Inspector Urges Extreme Caution

Inspector A.S. MacNeil of the RCMP in a press release prepared for publication prior to the Labor Day weekend, stressed the importance of motorists practising extreme caution during the weekend.

The Labor Day weekend, the report stated, produces one of the highest fatality rates of any equal time during the year. The report attributed this rate to the number of people rushing home after holidays in time for school opening, and to those "forcing themselves to be in a festive mood, by the use of alcohol, for the last summer holiday weekend."

The release urged motorists and pedestrians to be extremely careful, to obey safety laws and traffic rules, and to abstain from the use of alcohol when driving.

There are more cars and motorists on the Island than ever before, the release said, and if the present rate of highway fatality continues, 1962 will be the worst year on record for Prince Edward Island.

Counsel for the defence was J. Elmer Blanchard and the crown prosecutor was Deputy Attorney - General J. Arthur Mc-Guigan.

REGULARS

Guerrilla troops of the willayas (military zones) 3 and 4 called on the population to resist Ben Bella's move for power which they called a fascist dictatorship.

NO DEFENCE VISIBLE

But despite heated appeals, at dusk no visible efforts had been made to defend the capital.

Guerrilla soldiers armed with rifles dozed in front of their headquarters and other groups guarded the approaches to the Casbah, where fighting between guerrilla troops and Ben Bella backers raged Wednesday.

French military sources said they doubted a major clash was imminent.

Earlier both sides issued communiques that sounded as though civil war was near. Politicians renewed their appeals for peace.

Algerian officials assured foreign diplomats that "everything will blow over." From the sidelines, French military sources said they believe no major armed conflict is imminent.

The clashing communiques were issued by Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's crippled political bureau and by the rebel guerrilla chieftains controlling the Algiers area and the Kabylie mountains to the east, respectively Col. Si Hassan and Col. Mohand Eu El Hadj.

A bureau statement made public here by Mohammed Khider, Ben Bella's right-hand man, called on the 45,000-man regular army and some 25,000 guerrillas of four loyal willayas (military zones) "to dispatch to Algiers the detachments necessary . . . to re-establish order and ensure the security of all in Algiers."

VOW RESISTANCE

Hassan and Hadj, commanding 35,000 battle - hardened irregulars outnumbered 2-to-1 by the loyalists, promptly vowed all-out resistance.

They rejected the authority of the political bureau, which has been hamstrung by the rebels in its efforts to govern the country, and that of the army general staff, headed by Col. Houari Boumedienne.

Guerrilla details were deployed near some entrances to the Casbah, the city's main Moslem centre, where shooting reported to have killed or wounded a score of persons erupted Wednesday between Ben Bella's followers and some of Hassan's soldiers.

The rest of the capital was quiet.
