WHAT?

McLeod & McKenzie, Star Merchant Tailors.

MODESTY forbids us (to use a slang phrase) to blow our own horn, and as it is contrary to our opinion (according to the old proverb) when in Rome to do as Rome does, we shall endeavor, as heretofore, to present facts so undeniable as to be beyond the reach of dispute. True, people have gained for themselves a name (not an enviable one) which, to all appearances, served the purpose they had in view. But wisdom dictates, before posing as leaders in the great race for supremacy, that we should look well to the foundation upon which those assertions are based. To throw the mantle of charity over such people is our motto; and instead of revealing to the public gaze, through your columns, the errors into which they have fallen, we will endeavor to lead them gently into the light. That you will acquiesce in what we say, is a foregone conclusion, namely, as Fathers of the trade in this Province we treat the several branches of the trade in this city with the same consideration as a loving parent would his innocent offspring; and to this end we invite such traders to aim high and co-operate in elevating this, the first profession, to the high status to which it is entitled. In the meantime, call and see our handsome goods, in NAPS, MELTONS, SCOTCH TWEEDS, WORSTEDS, etc., made up in the latest styles and cheap.

With its forty years of unexampled success in the cure of Blood Diseases, you can make no mistake in preferring Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any other. The fore-runner of modern blood medicines, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is still the most popular, being in greater demand than all others combined.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla is selling faster than ever before. I never hesitate to recommend it."—George W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Ind.

"I am safe in saying that my sales of Ayer's Sarsaparilla far exceed those of any other, and it gives thorough satisfaction."—L. H. Bush, Des Moines, Iowa.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's Pills are the best selling medicines in my store. I can recommend them conscientiously."—C. Bickhaus, Pharmacist, Roseland, Ill.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Angusta, Ohio.

"I have sold your medicines for the last seventeen years, and always keep them in stock, as they are staples. 'There is nothing so good for the youthful blood' as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—E. L. Parker, Fox Lake, Wis.

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives the best satisfaction of any medicine I have in stock. I recommend it, or, as the Doctors say, 'I prescribe it over the counter.' It never fails to meet the cases for which I recommend it, even where the doctors' prescriptions have been of no avail."—C. F. Calhoun, Monmouth, Kansas.

Celery! Celery!

GAY & SONS are taking orders for winter supply of Celery. Celery packed in boxes or barrels, and delivered on board car or steamer without extra charge. Orders taken at the Market, Charlottetown, or address J. J. Gay & Son, Pownal. Prices range from 25 to 40 cents per dozen, our best at $3 per hundred. Taking the medicinal properties of Celery into consideration, and the prevalence of fevers in our midst, it is a wonder that even more of this truly medicinal plant is not used.

My dear fellow dyspeptic sufferers, have you tried manching a stalk of Celery as a finishing off (so to speak) at each meal? If you have not, make a start; if you have, I need not tell you why.

A Colored Ghost.

SEEN BY THE REV. H. A. S. HARTLEY, B. A., IN MRS. JACKSON'S HOUSE, IN LOWER COVE, ST. JOHN, N. B.

(St. John Sun).

"The latest Lower Cove sensation is a colored ghost. The Rev. Mr. Hartley reports that he has seen it."

Armed with this item from last evening's Globe, a Sun reporter sought out the Rev. Hartley. It took some time to find this busy evangelist, but once unearthed he talked freely. He said, in reply to a torrent of enquiries:

Last Friday about 2.30 p. m., I was in the cemetery attending to the duties of my ministry, when a messenger came to my house and left word with my wife to the effect that Mrs. Mary Jackson, of Kentville, N. S., but who has been living in this city for over two years, had no rest or peace in her house, east end of Britain street, and had to leave it in consequence, saying that she had sent for Rev. Mr. Lawson, pastor of Carmarthen street Methodist church, who had visited her house, but who had failed to see any apparition as had been complained of.

Accordingly, at the close of my usual Friday night prayer meeting I waited on Mrs. Jackson at Mrs. Mary Anderson's residence, and told her I would meet her on Sunday at 1 p. m., after my morning services. At 1.05 p. m., on that day I went to the house of Mrs. Jackson, and there being a great many people, both white and colored on the street, I asked several to go in with me, but none would enter the house, so, opening the door, I went in myself and closed the door tightly after me.

I saw nothing in the house as far as I had examined it, and was about walking out under the conviction that Mrs. Jackson was under the influence of liquor, but on reflection I decided to visit every room.

As I was then in the parlor, and I walked straight into the bedroom and saw lying on the bed the shape and form of a man, covered with a white sheet, a white napkin fastened on the head and passing under the chin. I put out my hand to feel the object, but it was impervious to the sense of touch—that I will testify on oath. Immediately I looked around and saw the form of a man dressed in black sitting in a chair about two yards from me, and as I approached the object and put my hand out to touch it, it was gone. Then I walked from the chamber to the parlor, and as I did the object appeared at my side and walked step by step with me into that part of the house. I looked at the object and could distinctly recognize the features. The complexion was a chocolate. The form I saw in the bed, the one sitting in the chair and the one which walked alongside of me was one and the same. The face was cleanly shaven, save a slight moustache and was apparently that of a man of about 40 years of age. The man was unquestionably a negro. On entering the parlor I opened a closet and the object walked into it. Then I opened my Bible and read the 23rd Psalm, "The Lord is my Shepherd," plainly seeing the apparition standing before me at the time. I then read another Psalm in Latin, "Who shall ascend to the hill of the Lord," etc. As soon as I finished reading this psalm I knelt down, with closed eyes prayed fervently, loud enough, I think, to be heard by those outside the building—concluding with the Lord's prayer. When I was done I immediately opened my eyes, and the object had disappeared. I then repeated the Exorcismus of the Roman Church, also in Latin, but saw nothing. I came out of the house then and locked the door, but told the people outside nothing whatever concerning my experience inside the building, although I was asked several questions. Mrs. Jackson was standing on the corner and I told her I had seen an apparition three distinctive times.

I described the appearance, and she replied: "That is just what I told you and Rev. Mr. Lawson. That was my husband, John Jackson."

This statement was also corroborated by Mrs. Mary Anderson, a neighbor, who said she had several times seen a man sitting in the house. I told her that as a Methodist minister I could not nor would not encourage any superstitious belief, and thought that if she would lead a godly, sober, and religious life, avoiding strong drink and evil associations, go to church oftener than she did—in fact, to become a converted woman—that she would not be troubled with such objects as those complained of.

I gave it as my opinion that as the house had been sanctified by prayer she would no longer see the ghost of her husband, provided she adhered to the injunctions that I had given her.

On Monday about 12.30 p. m., while I was attending the Methodist preachers' meeting my wife received a second message from Mrs. Jackson, to the effect that she had seen the apparition again, and that a young man who had been a school teacher in St. Kitts, W. I., named Edward Munsden, had likewise seen it—and other persons also. On returning home I received all this message and replied I could not come Monday as I had to attend a meeting of Hartley Division S. of T. and Acadia Lodge No. 365 I. O. O. F., respectively, and on Tuesday had to attend a sacred concert in St. Phillips Church, but that I would be there at 11 a. m. on Wednesday.

At that hour I went, in company with D. J. McIntyre of St. Phillips, Dr. Berryman and Ed. Munsden who declared to me that he had seen a ghost on Monday, Mrs. M. Anderson, who also had seen it, Mr. Wilson and my wife Katherine. We went in different rooms but did not see anything.

Dr. Berryman asked me if I thought the woman had been under the influence of drink, remarking that from his professional knowledge he knew Mrs. Jackson had one long affected. I told him she was not intoxicated—at least on the day when I had seen the apparition, and was not so at present.

We then closed the door and left. In reply to a question as to his belief in ghosts Rev. Mr. Hartley said: "I never believed in ghost stories and I have never been in ghost stories, and I am at a loss to account for what I saw. I, however, feel perfectly satisfied that Mrs. Jackson was not under the influence of liquor and the facts are as I have stated."

Well, do I understand, Mr. Hartley, that you really believe in spirits? said the reporter.

As a theologian, said the reporter, I unhesitatingly express the opinion that the apparition of spirits is clearly taught in the Bible, and possibly when one's spiritual eye is opened he may see a disembodied spirit. I think there may be some philosophy, accuracy and truth in Shakespeare's ghost lore as taught in the plays of Macbeth and Hamlet.

Stanley's Great Feat.

In a few days Stanley will have arrived at Bagamoyo on the coast of Africa opposite Zanzibar, and finished the most daring and difficult feat ever accomplished in Africa, save only his first descent of the Congo. His last journey was almost an exact reversal of the route which opened the Congo. In that historic undertaking he entered from the East Coast, visited the great lakes, descended the Congo, and emerged more dead than alive on the West Coast. This time he entered from the West Coast, ascended the Congo and the Aruwimi; marched through an almost impenetrable wilderness to the Victoria Nyanza; met Emin Bey; returned to his camp on the Aruwimi; marched back with his forces to the Albert Nyanza; joined his stores to those of Emin Bey, whose province had been overrun by the Mahdists and whose work in the Sudan was done, and rescued him from a perilous position; marched to the Victoria Nyanza; was taken violently ill and lay helpless for 28 days, his life hanging in the balance; reorganized his forces, and with Emin Bey and daughter, and several other whites, took up his march southward; discovered an extension of the Victoria Nyanza toward the southwest, which brings the lake within 155 miles of Lake Tanganyika; had a four days' fight with the natives of Usukuma; and arriving at Mpwapwa on the twelfth of November with a force of 750 persons, including 290 of Emin's men and sixty children. He reached Mpwapwa in fifty-five days from Victoria Nyanza, and 188 days from the Albert Nyanza.

It is a magnificent performance, unequalled in the history of Africa, save by Stanley himself. The results cannot now be fully estimated. We only know that Emin Bey has been rescued, and that important geographical discoveries have been made. Stanley's own account of his additions to our geographical knowledge will be given us probably in a few days. In a letter from Mpwapwa he thus hints at them:—

"Discovery after discovery in the wonderful region was made—the snowy ranges of Ruwenzori, the Cloud King or Rain Creator, the Semtiki River, the Albert Edward Nyanza, the plains of Noongora, the salt lakes of Kative, the new peoples of the Wakoju or Great Mountains, the dwellers of the rich forest regions, the Amwamba, the fine-featured Wasoyora, the Wanyoro bandits, and the Lake Albert Edward, the tribes and shepherd races of the eastern uplands, then Wanyakori, beside the Wanyarawamba and Wazoji, until at last we came to a church, whose cross denominated a Christian settlement, and we knew we had reached the outskirts of blessed civilization."

The church referred to was undoubtedly that of the Church Missionary Society at Mpwapwa.

Personal.

The boy born recently to the King and Queen of Portugal has been christened Manuel. As his brother, two years old, has eight given names, the youngest seems to have been snubbed.

Princess Matiza of Montenegro received 1,000,000 roubles as a wedding present from the Czar of Russia. Immediately after the wedding she bestowed the whole gift, to be divided among needy inhabitants of Montenegro.

A WARNING TO THE PUBLIC.—Do not be led astray by any firm that tells an untruth about their goods and also about the goods of their competitors simply because they can't do the trade; but travel the well-trodden road to the Wonderful Cheap Men's store, where you can get clothing as represented, and at prices that defy competition. They try no game of bluff for trade, but do business straight and square, and back up their advertisements by the goods every time. Without a doubt they have the largest stock of clothing in P. E. Island. As their expenses are small and they buy for spot cash, they can afford to sell cheaper than most of their competitors can buy.
