Torpedo Boats.

HALIFAX, July 7.

The two torpedo boats towed across the Atlantic by the troopship Tyne, which arrived to-day are the first of the kind ever seen in British North American waters and are most destructive instruments of modern warfare. They are 125 feet keel and 13 feet in breadth. In shape they resemble a torpedo. They carry 18 tons of coal and with a speed of 19 knots an hour they can run partly submerged alongside a large warship, place a torpedo in position or discharge and get out of harms reach before the warship is aware of her presence. Each of these boats carry five torpedoes guns, two three-pounder Hotchkiss quick-firing guns, two Nordenfeldt guns, and an electric search-light. They are numbered 61 and 62, and each is manned by three officers and a dozen men.

He says negotiations between Secretary Blaine and himself are still in progress and that indications point to a satisfactory and amicable settlement of the difficulty.

Races and Trotting Horses.

Sir,—The remarks of the Agriculturist concerning the actions of some of the drivers at the races held in Summerside on Dominion Day were untimely. If the people interested in the races would use more care in selecting impartial judges things would be different. As regards R. J. Steele's driving, he had Peattie only one week and the mare was spoiled before he got her. If he would even lay the weight of the cracker of his whip on her side she would go off her feet. Considering this state of affairs, I think it is wrong to send a driver's name broadcast over the land. While on the subject of horses, may I ask the Agriculturist to kindly give the names of the sires of the beautiful pair of trotting horses owned by W. S. McKie, of Charlottetown; also the name of the sire of Mr. W. Todd's mare, that was sold for such a handsome figure. One thing sure they were neither Hansard or All Right. If they were the names of the sires would be given.
