Jenkins, Bethel, Lot 48, after an illness of several months during which she had borne her suffering with great patience. When she was well she devoted her life to her husband and family and to her church whose teachings she loved and respected. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn one son, Amy, Mrs. Brennan, V. MacLean, Summerside; one daughter, Mrs. Lorne Stewart, Kemplville, Ont., and John E. of St. Eleanors. There are also eight grandchildren and four brothers, H. H. Jenkins, Charlottetown; Samuel Jenkins, Sydney; James Jenkins, Bethel, Lot 48; Bruce Jenkins, Saskatchewan. Another brother, John H., passed away some years ago. The funeral which was largely attended was held from the MacLean Funeral Home, Charlottetown, the service being conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. E. D. Ashford, assisted by the Rev. J. H. Bishop. The following were the pallbearers: William Henry Ralph Jenkins, William Lund, Arthur Coffin, Augustine Dowling and Charles Hiam. IN MEMORIAM

JAMES CULLEN
With great sorrow it was learned that James Cullen, formerly of St. Teresa, had passed away in the Victoria General Hospital in Halifax after a few days illness with pneumonia. He could not stay the call of his divine Master and, being fortified by the last rites of the Catholic Church, he died peacefully on Tuesday, February 5, 1952. Mr. Cullen was the oldest son of Mr. Joseph Cullen and the late Mrs. Cullen St. Teresa, where he was born 41 years ago. Moving to Montreal, he married Georgina Proctor of Hunter River, and later moved to Halifax, N.S. where they resided until his death. Jimmie, as he was so well known by all, was of a kind and jovial disposition and was respected by old and young as he was never known to be out of humor. He is survived by his father, Joseph Cullen St. Teresa, his wife Georgina of Halifax and three brothers and four sisters, Edward at home, Leo, Toronto, who came home for his brother's funeral, John M.V. Abegweit, Borden, Mary, Mrs. Thomas Gallant, Borden, Rita, Mrs. Stephen Malone, Charlottetown, Lucille, Mrs. Melvin Harper, Charlottetown, and Helena, Mrs. George Knott, Montreal, P.Q. The funeral, under the direction of Harold Hennessey, took place on Friday morning Feb. 8th from the home of his father to St. Cuthbert's Church, St. Teresa, for High Mass at 9 A.M., celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Basil Croken who also officiated at the grave. The pallbearers were, Stephen Malone, Melvin Harper, Thomas Gallant, Gerald Proctor, Albin Boulger, and A.J. Mooney. To his sorrowing wife, father, brothers and sisters, friends are expressing their deepest sympathy. Home prepared by the well-pierced hands of our loving Savior. "And I heard a voice saying unto me, 'Write: Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them.'" By her death the church has suffered a heavy blow, and her many friends have met with a great loss. The funeral service was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, conducted by Lic. W. D. Johnston, Rev. J. D. Davison of the Charlottetown Baptist Church, brought a message of comfort to the bereaved family. Assisting in the service were Rev. A. D. MacKenzie, D. D., of Trinity United Church, Montague, and Rev. F. N. Young of the Presbyterian Church. The following hymns were beautifully sung by the Brooklyn Trio: "The Lord's My Shepherd," "Rock of Ages," "Abide With Me." Mrs. A. F. Campbell was organist. Honorary pallbearers were: Messrs. M. F. MacDonald, Sidney T. Green, William MacLean, Arthur MacNeill, S. S. Hessian. Active pallbearers: Messrs. A. D. McLure, Howard Vikerson, A. C. MacKay, Hubert Nelson, Harry McGregor, R. W. Beck. There are left to mourn her passing, four daughters: Ethel, (Mrs. George MacInyre), of Montague; Annie Mae and Clemmie at home; Lucy, (Mrs. W. L. Vikerson), of Charlottetown; and one son, Fred, of Calgary, Alberta. Also one grandson, Dr. L. D. MacLean, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and one granddaughter, Mrs. S. E. Green, of Charlottetown. Her husband predeceased her in 1940, and one son, Hadden, in 1938. Interment was in the Montague Community Cemetery. They never quite leave us, our friends who have passed through the shadows of death to the sunlight above. A thousand sweet memories are holding them fast, To the places they best with their presence and love.

The Family of the late Mrs. Roland E. Harper, Charlottetown, wish to thank their friends and relatives for the floral tributes, sympathy cards and other acts of kindness shown them during their recent sad bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. DANIEL J. MACLEAN
On Sunday morning, December 30, 1951, the Town of Montague and the surrounding communities were saddened by the passing away of Mrs. Daniel J. MacLean, aged 84 years. Mrs. MacLean was the daughter of the late Capt. James Irving and Margaret Reid, of Murray Harbor, P. E. I. When only a child, she accompanied her father and mother on long sea voyages, and could relate some very interesting stories of her travels abroad. In 1895 she was baptized and received into the membership of the Montague United Baptist Church, and became one of its most valued members. Being a lover of music, she filled the capacity of church organist. Ever ready to give of her talents, her moral and financial support to the cause of the Lord and Master, and amid all her duties in the home and in her husband's business, she always found time to attend the services of the Church. She was also deeply interested in the cause of missions, and was a valued member of the Women's Missionary Society. A woman of deep and a true faith, she possessed a sweet and Christ-like disposition, which drew to her a great host of friends, rich and poor alike, and her sweet smile was never displaced by a frown. Her going home was most beautiful. Surrounded by her daughters and nurse, and in that Heavenly Atmosphere of His Divine Presence, she passed away with a smile on her face and a blessed hope in her heart, of opening her spiritual eyes to honor the glory and the grandeur of that Heavenly

W.C.T.U. NOTES

ALCOHOL'S WAY WITH MAN

By HAROLD C. MILLER, M.D.

Men drink it for its effect. The first of these is a feeling of stimulation. This sense of exhilaration is so real that those who have experienced it will assert that alcohol is surely a stimulant. And for this purpose it has been recommended for almost every imaginable ailment from fainting to snake-bite. This idea of its stimulating properties is so firmly fixed in the minds of most people, that when they are told it is not a stimulant but a narcotic, that it does not build up but tears down, and that it does not revive but deadens, they demand an explanation. Let us see how this apparent contradiction may be explained. Alcohol produces most of its effects in and through the nervous system. This system is made of millions of tiny nerve cells and fibers. Chemically, these contain relatively large amounts of fat-like substances known as lipoids. The function of these lipoids seems to be very much the same as the insulation in an electrical system. Alcohol, like some other narcotics such as ether and chloroform, is a fat solvent. When taken into the body, the fat dissolving narcotics act very similarly in that they make this insulating material more permeable and thus produce a sort of short-circuiting of the nervous system. When alcohol goes into a man, judgment and self-control go out. Sturdier and more primitive instincts and passions rise in that man to rule him so that he slides rapidly down the scale of civilization. So he is not being stimulated, he is being disorganized. He does not care. It is more fun to be hilarious than sensible. And if he continues to drink, as he probably will if he can get it, one after another of the layers of his nervous system are short-circuited until he can neither move nor know at all. Temporary Insanity I might go ahead and tell you of the physical effects with which the worshipping at the shrine of Bacchus is rewarded. He is decorated with a red nose and bleary eyes. He is ballasted with a hobnailed liver and swollen kidneys. He craves more wine for his stomach's ache. Tremor betrays him and prevents his doing delicate or accurate tasks. And finally he may be inducted into the Order of Delirium Tremens. One of the queer things about people is that although they have more horror of insanity than any other disease, so many of them will deliberately take alcohol, which will make them temporarily and sometimes permanently insane. Or I might tell of how these effects handicap your living. If you drink, that fact will not recommend you as an athlete, an aviator, an engineer, a chauffeur, a marksman, a draftsman, not even a bartender. Nor can you be being debarred from these vocations be blamed on the zeal of the W.C.T.U. Apply for life insurance and answer in the affirmative those three or four questions regarding your drinking habits, and if you can persuade the medical examiner to accept your risk as a drinking man, you will be because he has forgotten some of the things he should have learned in Sunday School. The lesson I refer to was not concerning alcohol but honesty. For the facts about the effects of alcohol are not guessed at by the insurance companies and they turn down drinkers for practical rather than sentimental reasons. Always Calls For More But I must leave these matters

SUSPECTS IN BIG ROBBERY - Rodney C. Unger and Geraldine Harris were picked up by Butte, Mont., police for questioning in connection with a $2,500,000 robbery of a millionaire's mansion in Reno, Nev. Held with them were three of their companions.

Ellen's Diary

(Continued from Page 2) somewhere, another anticipates with relief and pleasure the temporary rest and peace and quiet, falling weather will bring. Ay—"Whichever way the wind doth blow. Some heart is glad to have it so; Then blow it east or blow it west. The wind that blows, that wind is best. My little craft sails not alone; A thousand fleets from every zone Are out upon a thousand seas; What blows for one a favoring breeze Might dash another with the shock. Of doom upon some hidden rock. And so I do not dare to pray For winds to wait me on my way; But leave it to a higher Will, To stay or speed me, trusting still. That all is well, and sure that He Who launched my bark will sail with me. Through storm and calm, and will no fail. Whatever breezes may prevail To land me, ever, peril past, Within the sheltered haven at last. Then whatsoever wind doth blow My heart is glad to have it so; And, blow it east or blow it west, The wind that blows, that wind is best." Until Monday, --- Diary--- Good-night

P. W. C. News & Views

One of the topics which was brought up at the Student Council meeting on Tuesday night, was the question of whether or not to use one or two of the Scholarships announced last week, for athletic scholarships within P. W. C. That is, that the scholarships would only be good as long as the student remained in the College. Also they would not attract any athletes from the schools since they would not come into effect until the end of the student's first year. Jim Coyle, the faculty advisor to the Council, was the one who suggested this move at last week's meeting and brought it up again this week. The Council decided it was a very good idea to help those students who have average ability and are good all-around athletes. The Council decided to send two representatives to Mr. MacKinnon to get his opinion on the matter. The two are, the President of the Council, Barry Beers, and the head of the A. A. A., Brian Chandler. If they gain consent to go ahead with the plan, the school will look over this year's roster of all-round athletes and pick two. The scholarships which are coming will not go into effect until next year, but the Council believes that if the students concerned are told in advance of their prizes, they will make every effort to return to Prince of Wales for another year.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Continued from page 2 transformed Old Scrooge into a kind-hearted human, but unfortunately Charles Dickens cannot send dreams to all men. God alone could work the transformation, so if you and your mother are hoping for a miracle, pray for it! I don't wonder at your mother's disgust; she must be a martyr to have endured such a home life all these years. Martyrdom is her privilege if she wants it, but she hasn't been very fair to expose you to the same atmosphere. A woman who strongly and definitely puts her foot down in the beginning of marriage can change almost any situation. The trouble is that many namby-pamby creatures are too afraid of riling the men-folk. Hence the husbands who drink, gamble, philander, pinch pennies, or just give in to plain cussedness. Probably the small-time dictator is the worst of all; he goes in for persecution within the home while often putting on a fine front of friendliness to the outside world. DEAR MISS DIX: I am nearly 17 and in high school. I am very fond of one of my male teachers, who is about 25. I recently moved to this city and was told he used to take some of the students out. Now he is dating a teacher. I know he likes me but not enough to take me out. ANSWER: Teachers may be admired by young students—but from afar. As dating material, they are not for you! In most school systems it is strictly against rules for teachers to take students out, so I doubt the story that has been told you. Some of your romantically inclined friends are weaving tales, I'm afraid. Of course your teacher likes you; most teachers do like bright, amiable pupils, but only as such. You find yourself a boy friend among your own classmates. DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have three small children, and my husband earns small wages. Recently he has been offered a job in which he will have a much larger salary, but will have to move every two years or so. Also, he will be away from home quite a bit. When it is necessary to move, the company takes care of all details, even providing a house. At present we are in a cheap apartment. Would it spoil our home life to have him away so much and would it harm the children to move them around? MYRTLE ANSWER: The advantages of your husband taking the new job seem to outweigh the disadvantages. Young children adapt themselves easily, and future promotions may permit a permanent settlement sooner than you think. The grave disadvantage is your husband being away from you and the children, but if the absences are not too prolonged, you'll all weather them very well. Sacrifices are often necessary in order to get a young family established, but they are usually very worthwhile. Miss Nissen cannot reply personally to readers but will answer problems of general interest through this column. The names of the members on the year book staff were released at Tuesday's meeting. The editor will be Roy Campbell, of fourth year. Many of the students on the staff are from fourth year, but slightly so, for the year book is printed chiefly for them as a graduation manual. P. W. C. hoopers were defeated again at the hands of the superior "Y" team Wednesday night. They were defeated by thirty
