Local and Other Items.

BOYS BRIGADE.—The two companies of the Boys Brigade of the Methodist Church will parade at the drill shed this evening at 7 o'clock.

BARN BURNED.—A barn on the Lower St. Peter's Road owned by D. F. Kelly caught fire by burning grass this morning and was destroyed.

I. O. G. T.—The regular meeting of Charlottetown Lodge was held last evening when the following office bearers were elected for the ensuing quarter: C. T., E. H. Duchemin; V. T., Miss May Worth; Sec., Miss Florrie Winchester; A. S., Miss Mary Ross; P. C. T., Frank Smallwood; Treas., H. R. Jenkins; Fin. Sec., Miss McGregor; Mar., Miss L. Swan; Dep. Mar., Miss Innis; Guard, Miss Katie McQuarrie; Sen., Miss M. Swan.

THE ALAMEDA.—The Alameda made her first trip from West River this morning. She arrived at the Steam Navigation wharf at a few minutes after 9 o'clock with a full load of passengers. The Alameda now runs as follows: Leaves Charlottetown for Mount Stewart Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock; leaves Mount Stewart on return at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning; leaves again for Mt. Stewart on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and returns same evening. Leaves Charlottetown for West River Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock; leaves West River Friday morning at 7.30; leaves for West River again in the afternoon at 4 o'clock and returns in the evening. She calls at intermediate wharves both ways.

CHARLOTTETOWN'S BIG STORE.—On the occasion of their millinery opening had their windows tastefully arranged,—one of them in particular. This window was lined with mauve crepe and with hundreds of violets stuck on the glass. On the floor were violets and mauve flowers of different shades, the light, the medium and the dark blending together, very pleasing to the eye. Here and there were carelessly thrown pretty mauve belts, buckles, pins with mauve beads, mauve sleeves, mauve lace, mauve hats, mauve scarfs and flowers, but everything so arranged as not to have an overcrowded appearance. On the side of the window a pair of lovely net curtains are draped and tied up with wild mauve ribbon edged with deep mauve lace. The large mauve underneath is studded with violets six pattern hats by Miss McEachern are in the center of the window. Close up to the background are three draped figures—two mauve and one in white. The drape of the figure is done in Miss Siders first-class style and a credit to the lady.

The background is trimmed with mauve silks and velvets. The balance of the under space is given up to the mauve sunshades. The whole effect was very pleasing indeed. We think this window will compare favourably with cities ten times the size of Charlottetown.

Messrs Jax Paton & Co have been well repaid, if compliments, large crowds of admiring customers both inside and outside the store, for their display. Inside the store the description. Everything is charming and only to be seen to be bought. Messrs Paton & Co have a special sale on for to-morrow consisting of blouses, gloves and sai or hats.

Things to Make a Note of.
