distress and gloom, is the last feeling to desert us. The first to bring light up our darkness, is the light of the grave close before us.
"The Van Kempen he thought, would not hurt him. He care not. He had been guilty of no crime, and he was free!
After much reflection, he concluded the morning would witness his liberation, and soon after arriving at this conclusion, he fell entirely ignorant of the value of his capture, and forgot his troubles in pleasant dreams.
The life and dream of the red-coats aroused him at sunrise.
"This unpleasant dream will soon cease," he said, "and then I shall be permitted to visit my friends. I wonder if good Peter Schnapp has heard of my mishap?" Bryan forgot that he was unknown to the sentinel who had arrested him, and that his friends must remain in ignorance of his fate until he had been brought before Hans and recognized.
The hours moved slowly away, and yet Bryan was left to solitude. No one approached him.
"Was it possible he was forgotten?"
In the morning, after the usual breakfast hour, the sentinels who had arrested Bryan entirely ignorant of the value of his capture, went up to the Castle to report to the P. I. room.
Hans had just finished his breakfast, and was walking upon the lawn when the soldier approached him.
"I have come to report to you, he said, "I was the captain of the watch last night."
"Well."
"I arrested a stranger."
"Go on."
"I discovered him crossing the ford, and at once took him into custody. He refused to give up his name."
"Where is he?"
"In the jail."
"Describe his person."
"That I cannot do. In the darkness I could see but little of it."
"Was he young or old?"
"A young man."
"I will attend to it."
The sentinel bowed and departed.
"If it were only Bryan Blondy!" exclaimed Hans, "then would my dearest wish be gratified."
He returned to his library and in the turmoil and perplexity of his business he forgot his prisoner.
His conversation with the sentinel did not occur to him till nearly night, then he remembered it and exclaimed:
"Ah! that forgotten prisoner! I had forgotten him! Doubtless it is some por-traveller, who will feel but little gratification at his liberation."
And leisurely Hans walked toward the jail.
Having procured the keys of the man on duty, he entered the prison.
Bryan heard his approach and he arose from the rough floor upon which he had been lying, and prepared for the interview.
Hans Van Kempen fairly leaped with joy when he discovered that the prisoner was the very man he desired.
He uttered not a word, but closed the door hastily, and upon his knees ordered to double.
"The Gods have favored me!" he exclaimed, as he walked hastily toward his home.
Now shall my vengeance be gratified, and the proud Viola Fordham be humbled." He could hardly contain himself. He rubb'd his hands, he chuckled, and exulted all the gratification of a vulgar mind at an advantage over a person he had "We shall see now!" he cried, "if my power is to be divided, and my charity permeated by a low motive at a beggar—a nameless—fatherless—motherless—outcast!"
And he gloated over his intended vendance like a tiger over his fallen victim.
Arrived at his own house, he disclosed his good fortune to Nomi, his house-keeper.
This was equivalent to publishing it upon the housepost, for the servants were at once informed of it.
From thence it spread with rapidity through the settlement.
Bryan Blondy was a prisoner!
Some it started, and some heard it with indifference.
Hans could not forget the pleasure, the maternal satisfaction of imparting the news to Viola in person. He felt that the pain he would inflict would in a measure compensate him for the insults he had endured at her hands. He hastened to her room, and found her within it.
He at once commenced the grateful task before him.
"You remember our former conversation, doubtless. Then you bid defiance to my power, and dared the storm I would you be aware of. Now the storm has commenced."
"Really!"
"Bryan Blondy is in my prison." A blow from an assassin could not have surprised the beautiful girl more than did this announcement.
"How?" she asked, her bloodless lips slightly parted, and her eyes filling with tears.
Hans repeated the announcement with malicious emphasis.
Viola felt that the storm had indeed commenced. She could not reply to her brutal tormentor.
"What say you to it?" asked Hans, "do you defy me still? Does your fortitude for sake you?"
Viola's tears fell fast.
"Weep!" he said "it is the province of a woman to weep. Had you heeded my warning voice, you might have been saved this misery, you might have rejoiced with me!"
"Leave me!" cried Viola. Both your manner and your person are odious. Leave me!"
"Ha! ha!"
The patron laughed derisively.
"Not so fast, my pretty one! Let me tell you all. Bryan Blondy is not only my prisoner but he dies. As sure as there is a God above us, he shall be executed!" Viola uttered a shriek, and before Hans could prevent her, she fell to the floor in sensible.
In alarm the ruffian called the maid, and then returned to his library.
It was a long time before Viola recovered and even then she felt that death would be a relief.
The terrible threat of her cousin rang in her ears, and filled her soul with a sickening fear.
Could it be possible that Bryan was a prisoner?
Carl Knipper, the faithful Carl, was deeply afflicted when he learned of his friend's captivity. He immediately filed his pipe, and as soon as he could avoid observation hastened to the inn of Peter Schnapp, he breasted himself in one corner and coughed.
By and by the company that was collected on his arrival separated, and he was alone with Peter.
"Have you heard the news?" he asked,
"No."
"Come near me then. I dare not whisper above my breath. The very walls have ears." Peter approached his friend.
"Bryan is prisoner in the jail."
"Great God! Peter, that is impossible, it is true."
"With difficulty Peter could refrain from shedding tears.
"When did this occur?"
"Carl informed him."
"Alas! Alas!" ejaculated the landlord.
"What shall we do?" asked Carl.
"What can we do?" returned Peter.
"I have a little said Carl. The matter is not so set. I am first and foremost the disposition that Hans makes of him. Perhaps he will discharge him."
"Yes," said Peter, bitterly, "when the wall discharges the lamb. But how was Bryan taken? I thought he was at Swanley house this. How and where was he taken?"
"I know not."
"Strange!" said Peter. "How know you that he is taken at all?"
"I learned it from Hans."
"Peter's logarithmic face brightened."
"Then perhaps it is to be only told by the Pastor for some base purpose. I do not credit the report."
"Carl insisted upon his truth and left the inn as sad and sorrowful as he had entered it."
"Poor Viola!" he muttered. "I am sure it will break her heart, and Bryan will die, if Hans does not kill him.

Throughout the whole of that day and night, Bryan remained in his solitary prison, destitute of food and drink.
"Curse upon the murderer!" he exclaimed, "as he paced his narrow apartment and dreaded the moment when he should be before I am brought to face him?"

praise, and which they claim the unimpaired advantages over those in ordinary use, the proof of which may be seen in their constantly increasing business during the past eight years.
1st. That from the perfect construction of the lenses, they assist and preserve the sight, rendering frequent changes unnecessary.
2nd. That they confer a brilliancy and distinct-ness of vision, with an amount of ease and comfort not hitherto enjoyed by spectacle wearers.
3rd. That the material from which the Lenses are ground is manufactured especially for optic purposes, and is more uniform and brilliant, and not liable to become scratched.
4th. That the frames in which they are set, which are of the most elegant and durable material, and which are finished and guaranteed perfect in every respect.
5th. That the Spectacles that preserve as well as assist the sight, and are chosen because the best always lasting many years without change being necessary.

The Most Reliable Friend!
Holloway's Ointment
Its Searcher and Healing Properties are known and recognized throughout the World.
The number of years this invaluable Ointment has stood the test of public opinion, (and the long or short the better appreciated) is a testimony of its merit, convincing that anything that could be written in praise of its truly wonderful healing properties in the cure of head, neck, and breast sores, wounds, ulcers, or through the skin, is but a repetition of what has already been said.
The Ointment is not only a remedy for the skin, but also a powerful agent in the cure of the Glandular Swellings, Mumps, Bronchitis, Quinsy, sore Throats and Diphtheria.
In many of the above diseases, immediate and permanent relief is obtained by effectually rubbing this detergent Ointment, twice a day, upon the skin, especially in the morning, when the skin is moist, and the pores are open, and all the matter required for the body's repair and all the particles detrimental to its preservation. The Ointment, used conjointly with Holloway's Pills, will not only remove the cause, but also effect cures in the most hopeless cases.
Rheumatism, Lumbago, Contracted and Stiff Joints
Many thousands of aches from the above complaints have found life almost unobtainable, yet Holloway's Ointment has briskenly and perseveringly rubbed upon the parts affected, and may be said to have effected a cure in many cases, and in previously opened by ointment with warm water.
The gross humors require expulsion from the system; it is therefore necessary to have recourse to Holloway's admirable Pills, which, by purifying and strengthening the system, greatly assist the operation of the Ointment and facilitate and accelerate its cure.
Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, and Ulcerations of all kinds
There is no medicinal preparation in the world which may be so thoroughly relied upon, as the treatment of the above affections, as Holloway's Ointment. Nothing can be so easily and so safely applied to the skin as this Ointment. It is a body, both locally and constitutionally, the Ointment, rubbed around the part affected, enters the pores, which is an excellent means of drawing out the source of the evil and drives it from the system.
Erysipelas and Scrofulous Sores
In all irritations of the skin, such as erysipelas or scrofulous enlargements of any kind, Holloway's Ointment presents a ready and easy means of cure.
It manifests a powerful power in restraining inflammation, removing stagnation, cooling the heated blood, and checking all acrimonious and unhealthy isotisms.
Diseases attendant on Childhood.
Diseases incident to early life fall more under the management of the mother than the medicine and the child's efforts are unavailing. Therefore regarded by her as a "Household Treasure," as it never fails in bringing out the rash in a safe and salutary manner, and for the removal of all skin diseases, it is unobtainable. In case of whooping cough and croup, this invaluable Ointment should be rubbed twice a day upon the throat and chest, and the pronged invalid will derive therefrom the most beneficial relief. Before or three of Holloway's famous Pills, reduced to a powder, will augment the curative power of the Ointment.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:
Bad Legs, Corns, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, Bad Breasts, Cancer, Scald Head, Scald Neck, Burns, Contracted and Sore Throats, Sore Nipples, Blisters, Ulcers, Scrofulous Sores, Skin Diseases, Bite of Mosquitoes, Elephantiasis, Scabies,
Fillet, Itch, and Sand Fleas, Scrofulous Coccyx, Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Chicago-foot, Ulcers, Ulcers, Chilblains, Lumbago, Wounds, Chapped Hands, Itch, Yaws.

Gray-Headed People have their locks restored by it to the dark, lustrous, silken tresses of youth, and are happy!
Young People, with light, faded or red Hair, have their unbecoming colors changed to black, and their hair restored to its natural color and growth.
People whose heads are covered with Dandruff and Humors, use it, and have clean coats and clear and healthy scalps!
Bald-Headed Veterans have their remaining locks tightened, and the bare spots covered with a luxuriant growth of Hair, and hence for joy!
Young Gentlemen use it because it is richly perfumed!
Young Ladies use it because it keeps their Hair in place!
Everybody must and will use it, because it is the cleanest and best article in the market!
