The firm of R. T. Holman, Ltd. is backing their baseball team all the way in their fight for Maritime honors this year. Alan Steward, brilliant young pitcher of the club, was flown to the Island last Wednesday at Holman's expense, and now they are prepared to dig deeper into the treasure chest to make sure the team gets a chance to defend Summerside's Maritime crown.

Holman's deserve the highest praise and the backing of all Summerside baseball fans for their generosity in seeing that the proud name Summerside has built up in Intermediate baseball in the Maritimes is maintained and extended. Leading members of this firm have been pioneers of progress in many worthwhile Summerside enterprises. They seem to be conscious of the truth that service to the community is bread upon the waters which will return to them again.

We have arrived at the time of year when high and cold east winds acccompanied by driving rain is what certain dyed-in-the-wool sportsmen call a "beautiful day." October brings in the hunting season and apparently the wilder the weather, the better the luck. So good luck and miserable weather to you, boys. Keep within the prescribed bag limits so that you may continue to enjoy the sport in years to come.

People continue to wonder if Korea is just a boil on the neck of the universe, painful but curable, or if it is a deep-seated cancer which will spread its poison to other parts of the world. Right now it has cancerous symptoms, and the stepped-up aerial warfare on the part of the Reds is definitely not an encouraging sign.

Somebody has to be the first to say it, so here goes: Only eighty-seven more days before Christmas! Seems enough, doesn't it? What a stroke of genious to have Christmas at the shank of the year, just after the melancholy days of fall. November is perhaps our gloomiest month, symbolic of the death of nature, when the wind blowing over the dark earth and through the leafless trees seems like a funeral dirge. But the bright promise of Christmas is then just around the corner, and anticipation of it seems to brighten the drab days.

To Promote Welfare Of Alberta Indians

CALGARY, Sept. 29 — (CP)— There are some 15,000 Indians in Alberta and the Northwest Territories, and Willa Broderick, a soft-spoken, attractive grey-haired woman, hopes to meet every one of them.

Miss Broderick realizes the ambition will be hard to fulfill but as the Department of Indian Affairs' first welfare worker in Alberta and the Territories, she will cover thousands of miles annually visiting large reserves and small communities.

Miss Broderick will teach the Indians, particularly the younger people, some of the ways of the white man. It is hoped they will then find it easier to be assimilated into society.

She will organize home-making clubs, discussion groups and other means to bring home to the Indians how to get along as individuals in another society.

Miss Broderick explains the idea this way:

"There are a great many things in our way of life entirely unsuitable to the Indians. It's unwise to try making them accept these. And the Indians have many things in their culture worth perpetuating."

Miss Broderick has spent six years as home economics teacher among Indians in Ontario and was with the British Columbia Welfare Department.

The interior of St. Stephen's Anglican Church, Burlington, on Sunday evening, Sept. 23rd, furnished glowing tribute to the bountiful harvest of 1951, as the rich colors of fruits and vegetables vied with the brilliant hues of the bouquets of cut flowers placed in every available space. Tall stalks of corn appeared in the background, and the pews were marked with tiny beautifully made sheaves fashioned by a member of St Mark's Church, Kensington, used in that church at last Sunday's harvest Thanksgiving service, and generously passed along. Special prayers of thanksgiving were offered, and special prayers for the recovery of the King's health. The hymns, led by Mrs. Lorne Campbell at the organ, were appropriate, and Mrs. A. G MacKay of Long River was guest soloist, and sang very sweetly the solo, "Under His Wings". A new white velvet dorsal curtain was used for the first time and was very effective. The rector, the Rev. Official Board Meets —The official board of the O'Leary pastoral charge of the United Church of Canada met on Thursday night, Sept. 27, at the Manse with the Recording Steward, Bruce MacDougall, at the desk and the Minister, Rev. W. G. Dickson, presiding.

Despite the very busy season with harvesting operations in full swing, there was almost one hundred per cent attendance with delegates present from four congregations which comprise the Pastoral charge, namely: — O'Leary, Bloomfield, Brae and West Devon.

The Central Treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Turner, presented a fine financial report of the entire pastoral charge showing that the obligations had been met. The Treasurers of the four local congregations then presented their reports which revealed sacrificial giving.

The O'Leary report was presented by Mrs. Herbert Vatcher. It showed among other things that the O'Leary Sunday School had purchased a large and beautiful oak Communion Table and it was decided to have a suitable plaque inscribed thereon honoring the fine service of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Matheson in the O'Leary Sunday School.

On May 31, Mr. Matheson retired after serving for fifty-three years as the active and indefatigable Sunday School Superintendent of the large United Church Sunday School at O'Leary which has an enrollment of over one hundred. Mrs. Matheson also retired the last of May after being a Teacher in the Sunday School for forty-seven years. The plaque will read: "In Honor Of The Faithful Services Of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Matheson In the Sunday School, 1898-1951."

Reports were presented by A. W. Craswell and Arthur Cornish from Bloomfield; by Fred W. MacLeod from Brae and Charles Moreshead from West Devon. It was decided to send a letter with missionary literature to every family in the interests of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund of the Church. —A2.
