Mystery Shrouds 5 C.N.S. Ships

By RUSSEL ELMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Movement of five Canadian National Steamships freighters was shrouded in secrecy Thursday as they steamed toward an unknown destination in the Atlantic.

The vessels, which slipped out of Montreal Tuesday night, were last officially reported in open sea off the Nova Scotia coast.

Reports circulating here suggested the ships may follow several possible courses:

1. Proceed directly to Port-of-Spain, their new home port in Trinidad. Their registry was recently transferred to the British West Indies colony to end a five months' tie-up caused by a strike of the Seafarers International Union.

2. Rendezvous at sea with a ship, carrying new crew from the West Indies.

3. Join three other CNS ships, moored in Halifax harbor.

Late Thursday, the three vessels in Halifax were seen getting up steam, giving rise to speculation they would soon leave port to join up with the others.

The Canadian Conqueror, Canadian Leader and Canadian Constructor now are anchored at Halifax. The other five are the Canadian Cruiser, Canadian Observer, Canadian Challenger, Canadian Victor and Canadian Highlander.

SKELETON CREW

It is not known where the ships, now at sea, obtained their crews. It is believed they may be operating with a skeleton staff of officers, not affected by the strike.

Last weekend the company ordered a plane carrying West Indian seamen to Montreal to turn back north of Bermuda.

The company announced last week it hopes to resume service between Canada and the Caribbean by the end of the month.

The possibility of the vessels going directly to the West Indies was given added weight by the fact no special requests for pilot services have been made at Halifax. However, because the vessels are unloaded they could enter the harbor without pilots.

Commissioners Of Parkdale Decline Panel Discussion

The following statement was given to this paper last night by Ian Webster, chairman of the Village Commissioners of Parkdale:

"The Commissioners of this Village have been invited to take part in Panel discussion on C. F. C. Y.-TV of the pro's and con's of the question which will be answered by a sixty per cent majority vote on November 27th.

"We respectfully decline this invitation and the one to have a preparatory informal meeting of the Metropolitan Committee.

"So that no one may misconstrue our decision, we wish to make public the following statement:-

"We are prepared at any time to be party to any discussion on this matter, but only so long as we are free to express our own opinions, collectively or singly, and whether such opinions are in agreement with the thinking of the Metropolitan Executive, or even with one another? but we will not be party to any such meeting, where the questions and answers are to be rehearsed, and could confuse the issue as well as the public, even more, if that is possible.

"We wish also to publicly state that the two Commissioners who are members of the Metropolitan Committee do not, and did not agree with the report submitted by the Metropolitan Committee. Before signing this report we expressed our disagreement, but we were assured that signatories were not necessarily in agreement with the report itself but only that this was the report; with this understanding, and acting in good faith we signed.

"At this time may we point out only one of the reasons that all of the Commissioners of the Village disagreed with the report. In the first place sub-committees were set up to deal with each of the many problems involved, and it was our understanding that these, and indeed the whole setup was a fact-finding organization. To this end then, these committees were created. At this time we should state that the Mayor and Common Council of Charlottetown, as well as the employees at city hall were most co-operative in giving accurate and complete information to any and all of these sub-committies when asked. The committees worked hard, gathered many pertinent facts, and submitted reports to the Metropolitan Committee.

"May we now refer to the report submitted by the sub-committee for police. The second last paragraph states in part:- expenditures for the year 1956 was $67,000.00. Our estimate for police With the consumption of the metropolitan district it would be necessary to increase this to $100,000.00.

"Now refer to the report of the Metropolitan Committee:-

"On page 13, paragraph 8, we read;- "An additional amount of $15,000.00 in Charlottetown's police estimates should be adequate to cover the added expense of these four men, and the additional operating expense which would be incurred by extending the coverage of the City Police force to Greater Charlottetown."

"It can readily be seen then, that the Metropolitan report does not present the facts submitted by this sub-committee for police, but is in error to the extent of almost two hundred per cent. We therefore by reason of this and other, erronious statements, do not accept the report, for again we point out that it was supposed to be a fact finding committee and a factual report."

Outlines Purpose And Aims Of Canada Council

"The Canada Council has been working extremely hard, and its efforts should prove a great challenge and a great contribution to Canadian life," stated Dr. Frank MacKinnon in an address delivered at the weekly supper meeting of the Alpha Y' Mens Club in the Y. M. C. A. last evening.

After explaining the necessity of state participation in cultural activities, Dr. MacKinnon outlined the work of the Canada Council of which he is a member. He emphasized, that the Council must have the co-operation and active support of the people who work in the Arts, of the local authorities and of local groups, and above all the energetic and enthusiastic public opinion behind all its activities.

The Council is financed by $100,000,000. One-half of this amount must be used for university capital grants and one-half for other activities. Consequently, the Council must do with the interest of $50 million dollars to pay for all its activities.

"It is too early to describe in elaborate detail the work of the Council, "said the speaker." It is expected, however, to examine carefully the ways in which it may encourage university construction to help the arts, letters and humanities. Already, it has publically announced grants to three institutions in different parts of the country.

"The Council is also interested in assisting activity in art, music, ballet, literature, architecture and associate fields. It is also interested in encouraging producers, composers, and designers and the like. It is concerned with the maintaining of standards in all these activities and in making as many of these activities as accessible as possible to people in different parts of the country."

The guest speaker was introduced by Richard Matheson and Neil MacLean extended the thanks of the Club to Dr. MacKinnon for his instructive address.

A hearty sing-song was led by John Evans with Mrs. Keith Rogers at the piano. Ray Barrett and Les Gillespie were welcomed back to the club after a period of absence. Club President, Roy Smallman, conducted a short business session and announced plans for the annual church parade of the Y's Men and for the celebration next week of the thirty-second anniversary of the Alpha Y's Mens Club. Jack MacNair, Club Attendance Chairman, gave a short report complimenting the club members on the excellent attendance record to date this year.

Mission Band Holds Service

"A minimum of 1,000 Blood Donors will be the objective for the two days of Red Cross Blood Donor Clinics to be held at the Clover Club in Charlottetown on December 4th and 5th.' Mr. Fremont Archer told The Guardian. He went on to say that "A 'knotty problem' submitted at a meeting of the Charlottetown Blood Donor Committee is how to encourage more donors to attend the two afternoon and one morning Clinics and so avoid the over-crowding which sometimes occurs at the evening sessions."

In an effort to provide a partial solution, Mrs. James Haslam who is a new member on this Committee, volunteered to interview the management of business establishments in the hope that they may be able to arrange to have staff members given time off to attend the Clinics during the morning or afternoon.

80 AN HOUR

The Chairman explained that the Mobile Team can easily put about 80 donors through in an hour, and went on further to say that since the objective for the number of hours during which the Clinic functions is set on this basis, it is practically impossible to achieve this quota if the attendance is not maintained throughout all the hours designated.

Mr. William Hayward and Mr. J. R. Finlay agreed to contact the different firms in the city with regard to including a mention of the Clinics in their regular advertising during the next two weeks.

Junior Red Cross members in the Charlottetown Schools will be asked to take home a Blood Donor pamphlet to their parents a day or so before the Clinics as a reminder. All former donors will be sent the usual notification cards, and those who have received transfusions during the past six months will be asked to urge friends and relatives to report as donors.
