CARIL FUGATE, 14, appears in a state of shock as she is interrogated by sheriff's officers at Douglas, Wyo. She accompanied Charles Starkweather on a reckless 500-mile automobile flight from Lincoln, Neb., where the two were wanted by authorities in connection with nine grisly killings. Among the dead were Caril's mother, stepfather and their two-year-old daughter. (AP Wirephoto).

Youthful Gunman Says Girl Not Responsible For Killings

By JOE MCGOWAN
DOUGLAS, Wyo. (AP)—Charles Starkweather, 19, gunman accused of 11 slayings in Wyoming and Nebraska, will be returned to Nebraska for trial.

Wyoming authorities, who also have filed a murder charge against the bespectacled youth, agreed Thursday to waive their claim and allow Nebraska to extradite Starkweather.

Meanwhile, Starkweather ate heartily in his jail cell and seemed unconcerned as officials decided what to do with him.

Upstairs at the county jail was his girl friend, pretty Caril Fugate, 14, of Lincoln, Neb., who broke away from Starkweather just before his capture Wednesday near this eastern Wyoming town. She ran screaming to an officer that Starkweather was crazy and "just killed a man."

Nine persons were killed in Nebraska this week, and Montana salesman near Douglas Wednesday. In addition, detective Eugene Heninger of Lincoln said he thinks Starkweather was involved in the slaying of a Lincoln filling station operator, Robert Colvert, 21, Dec. 1.

The maximum penalty for murder is death in both states—the gas chamber in Wyoming and the electric chair in Nebraska. But Wyoming Governor Milward Simpson is opposed to the death penalty and said if Starkweather is convicted in Wyoming and sentenced to die he would commute the penalty to life imprisonment.

Heninger said in any case the girl will be returned to Lincoln where a murder charge is on file against her.

Heninger said Starkweather admitted he killed Caril's mother,

FORCED GIRL

Starkweather has said the girl had nothing to do with the killings and that he forced her to go with him.

The Nebraska slayings besides the Bartletts were: August Meyer, 70, a Benet, Neb., farmer; Robert Jensen, 17, and his girl friend, Carol King, 16, Benet high school students; C. Lauer Ward, a 47-year-old Lincoln businessman, his wife, Clara, 46, and their housekeeper, Lillian Fencil, 51.

Heninger said Starkweather told him "I got mad at people" and that people "were acting funny."

At Lincoln, Starkweather's father, Guy Starkweather, said the boy is likely to go blind within a year because of a head injury and this may have caused him to go berserk.

AMONG THE FARMERS

Federation of Agriculture Newsletter

DAIRY FARMERS
The Dairy farmers of Canada concluded their annual meeting in Quebec City last week by approving a statement of policy from which extracts follow:

"A year ago it was being said that an intelligent approach to the problems of the dairy industry would probably bring some general improvement in farmers' returns during 1957. Dairy farmers of Canada has been pleased to note that continuing high demand for dairy foods plus various kinds of farm legislation have indeed improved the picture.

"However, in spite of some general improvement there should be no tendency toward over-optimism. Rather, leaders in government and the dairy industry stress the necessity for taking the long term, as well as the short term view of the problems and policies if the industry is to remain in balance. Greatest stress is laid on the necessity for farm organizations to remain constantly alert so that the gains of 1957 are not lost in 1958.

FLOOR PRICE
"Whereas Dairy Farmers of Canada appreciates the past efforts of the Canadian government to stabilize the butter market with a floor price of 58 cents a pound effective until April 30, 1958 and

Whereas the principle of floor prices for agricultural products implies periodic adjustments to fit shifting economic factors, and

Whereas present costs are exerting undue pressure on producers, Resolved that the Canadian government be asked to set a new floor price for butter of 64 cents a pound effective May 1, 1958; and further that carrying charges be added to the resale price of government held butter.

"Whereas concentrated milk producers appreciate the action of the Canadian government in establishing a floor price of 17 cents a pound for spray process skim milk powder and 14 cents a pound for roller powder, and Whereas these prices have given a measure of relief to producers in this section of the industry.

Resolved that the existing support price for skim milk powder be allowed to remain at least at the present levels; and further that existing import controls governing skim milk powder be maintained.

DR. HANNAM
A welcome visitor with the D Farmers was Dr. Hannam who in his address to the convention noted encouraging signs and improved prospects. Dr. Hannam made a number of predictions and enumerated some of the policies which he felt should help dairymen.

The position and outlook for the dairy industry is better today than it has been for years. The dairy farmers position is still considerably below parity, b

a. The supply situation for milk products is more favourable. b. The demand for milk products is good — fairly strong. c. Improvement in national policies during the past year have been substantial and gratifying. d. The outlook for the year ahead is promising — more so
