Russian Ships May Try Keeping Montreal Open

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Pickersgill said here the government will provide no special facilities to help Russian ships keep the St. Lawrence River open to Montreal this winter.

John E. Lloyd (L—Halifax) asked for measures to equalize the competitive position of the ports of Halifax and Saint John, N.B., if cargo ships with strengthened hulls and Russian icebreaking ships are used in the St. Lawrence, which normally is closed for winter traffic to Montreal.

Mr. Pickersgill said he had received reports that attempts were to be made by shipping interests to maintain Montreal harbor open, but his department planned no exceptional steps to help.

Thomas M. Bell (PC—Saint John-Albert) asked for an assurance the government would give the Russian vessels no help at all. Mr. Pickersgill said he could not give such a blanket assurance because some ship might be in distress and would need emergency help.

Mr. Lloyd said that Canada had a considerable investment in Halifax and Saint John port facilities and the government should have some responsibility for seeing they are used and and return some interest on the investment.

Mr. Pickersgill said a study is under way into means of developing the Atlantic coast ports.

Redoubled Efforts Urged To Increase Sales To U.S.A.

HALIFAX (CP) — The president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association says Canada must intensify her sales drive in the rich United States market if she is to reduce a huge imbalance of payments.

A. A. Cumming of Toronto said here Canadians must redouble their efforts to sell in the U.S. while reducing purchases in that country "or at least holding the line on them."

He said the key to Canada's international balance of payments problem is the deficit recorded each year with the U.S., her chief trading partner.

The deficit in 1963 was a "fantastic" $1,158,000,000, he said.

Addressing a meeting of the Nova Scotia branch of the CMA here, he said this imbalance can be attributed to the fact that Canada is still buying in the U.S. hundreds of products which "we could and should make in Canada."

"Indeed, the position at this moment is as bad as it has ever been. . . . This is a problem with which we must deal sooner or later, for this merchandise trade deficit with the U.S. is Canada's fiscal Achilles' heel."

Mr. Cumming, who is also president of Union Carbide Canada Limited, said Canada can do little about the annual dividend outflow to U.S. investors which now exceeds $600,000,000.

MUST NARROW GAP

"We can, however, if we are so minded and determined enough, do a great deal more than we have done to close, or at least narrow, this merchandise trade gap with the United States."

He said a "formidable effort" is called for on the part of Canadians. "Unless we are eventually again compelled . . . to resort to governmental restrictions and controls on imports, which none of us want to see, we absolutely must redouble our efforts to sell more in the States . . . ."

He said Canada's favorable trading position with countries other than the U.S., notably Britain, has "allowed us to view the whole problem less seriously and urgently than it merits."

He said if a "Buy Canadian" program is to have any meaning it must have nation - wide application.

If several "buy provincial" programs competed against each other "we would have a truly chaotic situation."

Mr. Cumming, a native of Nova Scotia, said he believes more can and should be done to exploit the natural advantages in Eastern Canada.

The key to stable and increasing economic prosperity in the Atlantic provinces, as in other provinces, is an "expanding factory skyline."

Shelepin Joins Elite, Seen Man To Watch

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—As the post-Khrushchev power structure begins to clarify, the man to watch in the younger generation of Soviet leaders is Alexander N. Shelepin.

Stalin used him to control Russia's youth as boss of the Young Communist League (Komsomol). Khrushchev used him as head of the Soviet secret police, the KGB.

Now 46, Shelepin has joined the small elite circle of men who belong to both the key units within the Communist party, which controls the Soviet Union—the presidium and the secretariat. He also is a deputy premier.

Shelepin was elected by a secret Kremlin meeting of the party's central committee Monday to full membership in the committee presidium, its directing nucleus. He already was a committee secretary.

Only three other men now are on both the secretariat and presidium. One is Leonid I. Brezhnev, who took over from Nikita Khrushchev a month ago as party first secretary. The others are Nikolai Podgorny and Mikhail Suslov. None has a significant government job while Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is only on the presidium.

PODGORNY IS SECOND

In the top command, Podgorny now seems to be functioning as second man to Brezhnev, the way first Frol R. Kozlov — partly paralyzed by a stroke — and then Brezhnev were once Khrushchev's No. 2. Suslov, the old Stalinist who voiced the criticism that toppled Khrushchev at the last central committee meeting, appears less active. Ill health might be a factor.

Shelepin is more than a decade younger than the other three leaders. He is the first of the generation born after the Bolshevik revolution to gain the elite status.

This status and his youth make Shelepin the man most likely to succeed to eventual ranking as No. 1, if he continues to show his adroitness for doing the right thing within the high command.

Shelepin is something of a rarity in the present leadership, however, because he has been strictly a party professional.

Brezhnev is a steel engineer turned party organizer. The central committee is loaded with engineers and other technicians trained in the first rush of Stalin's industrialization.

Born into what some sources identify as a middle-class family — but official biographies maintain, in the best Soviet tradition, was a working - class family — Shelepin attended the Moscow Institute of History, Philosophy and Literature. It was the time of Stalin's purges and Shelepin moved into suddenly created vacancies in the institute's Komsomol organization.

HAS WAR SERVICE

After brief military service on the Finnish front in the Second World War, he began working in the Komsomol headquarters and joined the Communist party in 1940. In 1952 Stalin made him first secretary of the Komsomol.

Khrushchev left him there until 1958, using him to dragoon "volunteers" into the bleak work of opening up the virgin lands agricultural area and colonizing remote parts of Siberia. Then Khrushchev made Shelepin chairman of the committee of state security, known from its Russian initials as the KGB.

No longer the independent instrument of power that Stalin used for the purges, the secret police are still a powerful arm of government.

Both Shelepin and Pyotr Demichev, who was given candidate status on the presidium, were elected party secretaries at Khrushchev's instigation in 1961. Shelepin was given the most important secretarial assignment of heading the committee for party and state control, a vital tool in intraparty struggles.

Now Brezhnev has promoted Shelepin to new prominence.

Reuther Has Auto Workers World Plan

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, unveiled a plan Monday to harmonize wages and working conditions for nearly 2,000,000 automobile workers in the non-Communist world. Headquarters for the international union will be Tokyo.

Reuther took the wraps off what he called "the grand plan for reducing cross differences in living standards among international auto workers" at the fifth world congress of auto workers unions.

Speaking as congress chairman, the U.S. labor leader told the 110 delegates from 30 countries his plan did not call for "one big international union or for joint collective bargaining."

"What we want is greater cooperation among all of us so those auto workers who are not receiving a just part of the wealth they produce will achieve a higher standard of living bases on harmonization of wages, working conditions and social benefits.

"Absolute equalization can never be achieved."

Opening lead—king of clubs.

Many mistakes made in defense are directly traceable to a lack of partnership cooperation. Just as it takes two to tango, so it also takes two to find the best line of defense.

A good defensive pair can help each other tremendously by the use of ordinary signaling conventions. Confidence in what partner is doing is the keynote to good defensive play. If the defenders pay no attention to one another's signals, they are bound to have an occasional disaster.

Take a hand like this one, where East- West were not in rapport. West led the king of clubs, on which East played the deuce. As in any good partnership, the deuce asked West to stop playing the suit. It was a negative signal.

West shifted to the ace of diamonds, and again East played the deuce. It should have been clear to West by now that East did not want diamonds or clubs played next, and that East, by implication, was requesting a shift to a spade. Obviously, if East wanted diamonds or clubs continued, he would have played a higher card than the deuce on at least one of the first two plays.

But West, undaunted, led another diamond, and with this play handed declarer the contract. South ruffed the diamond and played a club, and it then became impossible to prevent declarer from taking two trump finesses through East and thus making the contract.

South could win the spade in dummy at trick three and take a heart finesse, but he would then have found it impossible to return to dummy for a second trump finesse. If he attempted to do so by leading a club, West would win the trick and play a spade to nip the plan in the bud.

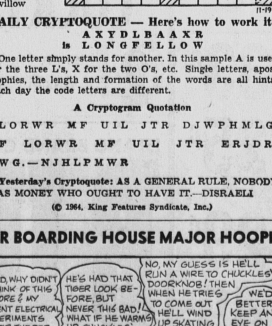
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L N G F E L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
