

Blind Sculptor Finds His Handicap Only 'Inconvenient'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — "Blindness," says George Cohen, 39-year-old Montreal salesman-sculptor, "is not a handicap. It is just an inconvenience."

He recently supported this contention by making a bust of Dr. Allen B. Dumont, United States television pioneer and scientist, after a sitting by Dr. Dumont that lasted little more than a minute. Mr. Cohen worked here before newspaper and television cameras and newspaper and magazine reporters and photographers.

He started modelling the bust after a "look" with his hand. An hour later, to refresh his mind about detail, he took a second and final look which lasted only a few seconds. From this brief sitting and a small amount of dictation from a friend, he completed the bust.

Sewing Machine Belt

The sewing machine belt can be tightened by slipping one or more large rubber bands over the small wheel of the sewing machine and the belt will be kept taut until the work is finished and permanent repairs can be made.

Sponges

To clean a soiled sponge, rub a fresh lemon thoroughly into it and then rinse it several times in lukewarm water, and it will become as sweet as when new.

Bolled Eggs

If the eggs are dipped in cold water before placing them in the boiling water, the shells will not crack.

That Baby Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

REPLANTATION OF SECOND OR PERMANENT TEETH

AS youngsters it was not unusual to see playmates who had lost their front teeth from an accident or because the teeth dropped out to make room for the second or permanent teeth. Because the permanent teeth came in due time, parents did not worry about the loss of the first or baby teeth.

What about the permanent teeth? When the front permanent teeth are lost by accident it is an entirely different matter, a serious matter, in fact. When the grinders (the bicuspid and tricuspid molar teeth) are lost, there is little or no chewing of food and mixing of the saliva (the digestive juice of the mouth) to prepare the food for further digestion in the stomach and small intestine. However, the loss of the front (incisor) teeth means that the individual loses his sharp or cutting teeth to bite his food. Also the loss of these front permanent teeth means that his face is disfigured and he may develop an inferiority complex until he gets a suitable denture.

What many of us do not know, or have forgotten, is that these permanent front teeth, if knocked out, can sometimes be replanted and settled firmly into their sockets again.

In Dental Digest, Drs. John I. Ingle and Pierre Dow report the case of a twelve-year-old boy who had two center front teeth knocked out in a play field accident. He was immediately referred by his dentist to the endodontic clinic of the University of Washington School of Dentistry. X-rays showed no fracture of the bony sockets.

The father of the patient had kept the two teeth in his coat pocket; both teeth were covered with lint and tobacco when presented at the clinic; both teeth had started to decay and one tooth was chipped on its surface.

"In preparing these teeth for replantation, the following measures were completed:

1. The teeth were immersed for 15 minutes in a glass cup containing aqueous Zephiran solution.
2. One of the central teeth was removed from the solution and held in a Zephiran-soaked 2 by 2 inch gauze sponge, and the underlying membrane was removed by scraping with a knife.
3. While continuing to hold the roots of the tooth in a sponge, the treatment is begun."

As there are up to 20 more steps taken, including a splint left in for a couple of days, the whole method of treatment cannot be discussed in this article. However, at the end of six days the entire area is completely healed and there is firm reattachment of the gums to the teeth.

have returned from a late evening party?

A. No, not even for a few minutes. If he is unmannerly enough to insist, she must give him a firm "no."

Q. Should one who is in mourning send holiday greetings to intimate friends?

— It is all right if one wishes to do so. However, it is not imperative, nor is it expected.

MacLeod-Molyneaux Wedding

Rev. A. F. MacLean officiated at the marriage of Inez Aldona Molyneaux, and Walter James MacLeod at Trinity United Church, Charlottetown, recently.

The bride, attired in a light blue suit, was attended by her sister, Edith wearing a navy suit. Mr. Sterling MacLeod, cousin of the groom, was best man. A reception for 35 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Molyneaux. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. A. F. MacLean and responded to by the groom. Later the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to St. John, N. B. They will reside in Charlottetown.

The Way To Bethlehem

"Is this the way to Bethlehem?" The Wise Men asked the Roman Lord.

As they passed through Jerusalem As Holy Scriptures all record.

Southward the star led, Wise Men went

Sure and conscious of their goal, To Bethlehem they were intent.

It was the mission of each soul.

Two thousand years have passed away

At Christmas Tide in the Land of Shem;

Myriad worshippers ask today "Is this the Way to Bethlehem?"

Such in God's overarching call More precious far than gold or gem,

It comes to each, it comes to all, "Seek ye the Way to Bethlehem!"

Turn back, O man, from roads of wrong

That lead where all great souls condemn

And walk in faith and hope alone The way that leads to Bethlehem!

—Pliny A. Wiley, Wichita, Kansas.

BORED EVENINGS

ANSWER: With 18 months to go before you can be married, the problem is quite likely to resolve itself. There's a good deal to be said on your parents' side. Quiet evenings at home may appeal to you at present, when everything is tinted with the rosy glow of romance, but in the solid reality of married life, these evenings, which now seem romantic, will be just boring. Perhaps your love is so strong that you really will be able to make a satisfactory adjustment; the chances, however, are against it. Another sign that isn't too good is the fact that your young man apparently expects you to make all the concessions. There's no inkling that he is prepared to go to more than a "very few" socials; this will be cut to none at all after you're married. If at 17 you are compelled to spend every evening at home, I think

Socially Inclined Fiancee Warned Marriage May Mean Dull Time

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been going steady with a boy of 20 for the past year. I'm 17. We have fine times together; he's very pleasant and considerate. We hope to get married as soon as he graduates from college, which will be in a year and a half. He has his faults, but to me they are trivial and I know they won't effect our future happiness.

However, my mother feels we are not suited to each other. I am the social type, and he is not, but we are happy together, anyway. Before I met this boy I went to parties, but we attend few social functions together, since he would rather spend quiet evenings at home. My parents have been letting me see him only on week ends and they are quite cool to him when he calls.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I make labels stick fast to tin?

A. The label will stick if it is first brushed over lightly with either a cut onion or melted paraffin. A little brown sugar added to paste has the same effect. Gummed adhesive tape also makes a good label for tin.

Q. How can I make an anti-freeze solution?

A. By using fifty parts denatured alcohol, ten parts methanol, thirty parts glycerin, and ten parts water.

Q. How can I improve the flavor of grapefruit?

A. Try sprinkling a little salt on the grapefruit and see if it doesn't bring out the full flavor.

Morning Smile

A teacher took over a new class. "What's your name?" she asked one little boy. "Jule," he replied. "Not Jule," she said, "you shouldn't use contractions or nicknames. Your name is Julius." She turned to the next boy. "What's your name?" "Billious," he replied. "Billious," she replied.

We're on the "home stretch" now, ladies, for making Christmas foods and making plans for special family meals this week. Spring Brook W. I. will be making the suggestions for you this time—their first recipe is for a rich pie which can be colorfully garnished to attract the eye. They also have recipes for a walnut cake, mock cherry pie, pineapple fruit cake and a tasty, nourishing dish for Boxing Day lunch.

HEAVENLY PIE

¼ lb marshmallows, ¼ cup milk. Put this in double boiler and let melt. Cool.

Then whip ½ pint cream until stiff, blend with first mixture. Line an eight-inch pie plate with plain pastry and cook.

Add top mixture, garnish with red and green cherries, chill and serve.

you'll have a change of mind and heart before the boy graduates. In the meantime, mollify your parents with only your week-end dates (the lad's studies will keep him occupied most of the other evenings, anyway), and see how long love will survive. If you are right, you'll both know by comment that you are truly meant for each other, and I think your parents will agree that, after so long a trial, you know your own mind.

Q. Is it necessary for a woman who is seated to rise when being introduced to another woman?

A. She may or may not rise, unless the person to whom she is being introduced is a woman of dignity, position, prominence, or perhaps older and married, in which case she must rise. It certainly cannot offend, and sometimes the woman so honored is highly pleased at the attention.

Q. Should a young girl invite her date into her house when they
