The Transvaal War

BETTER GUNS.

At the banquet of the Iron and Steel Institute given at the Hotel Cecil, Sir W. C. Roberts-Austen presiding, Mr. George J. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, responding to the toast "Army and Navy," said the Government fully recognized that the finer the troops sent out to battle for the country the greater was the obligation to provide for them the best means of success. Therefore, he continued, they had not forgotten and must not forget, the manufacturers of armour plate and of implements of war and the other scientists whom they had pressed into the ranks to aid in solving the terrible problem they had to face. "We have formidable competitors," he said, "in Herr Krupp and in the works at La Creusot and in the United States, but we may rely upon the inventive genius and the pertinacity of English manufacturers and scientists to secure results which are so vital to the British Empire." Mr. Goschen emphatically denied the statements made in the French Chamber of Deputies regarding the quality and propelling power of British guns, declaring that these would hit harder and had greater bursting power than the French. He announced that the Government had decided to appoint a scientific committee of enquiry to examine all smokeless propositions, and all desirable modifications of the existing guns, adding:—"And the Government is not going to be strangled in the coils of red tape in this undertaking."

WHAT THE BOER IS.

Writing from Kimberley to the Daily Mail, Julian Ralph, the American author, expresses some pretty plain opinions on Boer honor and integrity. He says:

As I sit here the air of every British community and household throbs with the jubilation of the moment.

About five months or more of almost continual check, defeat and slaughter, victories have piled themselves upon us. Kimberley and Ladysmith are free, and Cronje, the chief guerrilla opposed to us, is in our net. Bloemfontein has been occupied and the Free State Boers are retiring to the Transvaal.

We are saying that the war will soon be over. The hope is parent to the assertion, but it is only hope, for we know nothing of the Boer. Those who have lived here longest with him in peace have deceived the us the most about what sort of a man he would prove in war. All that we do know is that he is neither brave nor honorable. He is obstinate, crafty, semi-savage, clever in gaining and in keeping ambush, but he has never yet shown himself brave.

We all hope that the people at home will not leap to the conclusion that the war is nearly over, or that the back of Boer resistance is broken.

It might easily prove a dire calamity were England to lie back tired from exertion.

THE AMERICAN PRO BOER PRESS.

It is due to our American cousins to recognize that many papers and magazines in the United States have published full and fair statements of the facts concerning the South African war.

The yellow journals that advocate the Boer cause are so extravagant and unscrupulous in their denunciation of Britain that it would be a waste of words to offer any serious reply to their gross misrepresentations. But beside these extreme sheets that are trying to make party capital out of the African war there are a number of organs of public opinion which have allowed their sympathy with the fighting qualities which the Boers have displayed in their struggle for racial ascendancy to make them caricature or suppress important facts favorable to Gentlemen.—While driving down a very steep hill last August my horse stumbled and fell, cutting himself fearfully about the head and body. I used MINARD'S LINIMENT freely on him and in a few days he was as well as ever.

Sherbrooke.

Britain, and glorify the Boers as being what they really are not. This anti-British attitude is not caused by the facts and merits of the conflict. The war has only furnished the occasion for displaying a jealous animosity that was ready to break out when any pretext offered. These attacks on a friendly, kindred nation are unjustifiable, unprovoked and mischievous. They can serve no good end.

A MOBILE ARMY.

Lord Roberts has not hampered his advance with more infantry than he needs. He had two divisions, Tucker's and Pole-Carew's, when he crossed the Zand recently, and the only infantry within call was the Highland Brigade at Winburg, and another brigade within supporting distance. He had at least three divisions on the line of communication, but prepared the advance toward Kroonstadt with two, rather than five, divisions, and in this way reduced the strain upon the transport system. He had four cavalry brigades and a large body of mounted infantry and heavy naval guns and Royal Garrison Artillery, in addition to a great force of horse artillery. The contrast between this reconstructed army and the army corps which went to South Africa with Gen. Buller is striking. A large mounted force with guns of long range has been substituted for an infantry force with guns of inferior range and a few cavalry supports. Lord Roberts has converted the British army into a mobile force admirably adapted for operations against the Boers. The march from Bloemfontein via the Thaba N'Chu line to Ventersburg has been made with remarkable celerity and every halt has been brief.

WASHINGTON POLICY.

Respecting the statement telegraphed from Pretoria to the effect that the foreign representatives in that capital have jointly notified President Kruger that he would be held personally responsible by their governments for the safety of the Johannesburg mines, it can be stated that the United States consul general, Adelbert Hay, did not in the representations, if any such join were made. While citizens of the United States are believed to be peculiarly interested in the Johannesburg mines and the department of state is naturally disposed to do everything within the line of propriety to protect their interests, it will adhere to its uniform policy in such matters of acting singly.

JOHANNESBURG MINES.

The Cape Argus publishes a report from Johannesburg, said to have been suppressed in the cross examination of Acting Mining Engineer Munick, that in the recent mysterious Dempsey case Munick testified that preparations had been made to explode 25 mines and that on the authority of State Secretary Reitz he (Munick) had already bored shafts in eight. "Well informed foreigners in Pretoria," says the correspondent of the Cape Argus, "now consider the mines safe. The Transvaal officials have issued appeals to the people to protect property

ASTHMA CURED PERMANENTLY.

Why Do You Suffer Night After Night, and Keep Dosing With Temporary Relief Remedies? Clarke's Kola Compound Will Relieve Your Suffering. It Cures Permanently.

Mr. S. Till's case was a most obstinate one, but this marvelous remedy worked the wonder. Was cured with six bottles. Here is his letter in his own words. Mr. S. Till, 142 Dorchester street, St. John, N.B., writes: "I have had a great sufferer from asthma for nearly ten years. Many months, night after night, I have been so bad that sleep was impossible, and at times I thought I would choke. I used different asthma remedies and doctored with the best physicians in St. John, but my trouble became worse each year. About a year ago I purchased three bottles of Clarke's Kola Compound; then I took three more, and since completing the treatment with this remedy have not had a single attack. I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Clarke's Kola Compound, which I know has no equal for asthma. Since being cured I have frequently recommended this remedy to others in our city, and they all speak very highly of it." Clarke's Kola Compound is the only permanent cure for asthma yet discovered. Over a thousand complete cures are recorded in Canada alone. All druggists sell it. Write for book telling all about Clarke's Kola Compound, to the Griffiths & Macpherson Co., Limited, 121 Church street, Toronto.

and, although preparations were made to destroy the principal mines wizer, counsuls now prevail. State Engineer Konke declined to resume his duties unless the dynamite was removed; and the government agreed to his demands.

GRATITUDE AND THE WINDS.

The London Globe commenting upon the attitude of cordiality displayed by the New York aldermen toward the Boer delegates, in spite of the 'unanswerable opinion of Alderman Brice' (Councilman Stewart M. Brice), asks: What would have been the sentiment in the United States if, during the late war, the Lord Mayor of London had offered a public welcome to the delegates from the Philippine Islands asking for European intervention in behalf of their independence? Continuing, the 'Globe' says: 'Our conduct then appeared to evoke intense gratitude, but the value of such gratitude becomes obvious when blown to the winds on the approach of a presidential election.'

A despatch from Karee Siding, near Bloemfontein, reports Trooper Clarence Cowan, one of the Canadian Regiment, accidentally shot himself. The name of Clarence Cowan does not appear in the official list of the Royal Canadian Regiment of Infantry, the Mounted Rifles, the Canadian Battery, or the Strathcona Horse.

It is understood that when the British, under Lord Roberts, reach the Vaal river a proclamation will be issued annexing the Orange Free State.

With Years WISDOM.

The answer to that old query, "What's in a name?" was not hard to define in the case of one justly celebrated Family Remedy that had its origin away down in Maine, which proves that with age comes wisdom about

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

An old lady called at a store and asked for a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment; the clerk said "they were out, but could supply her with another just as good." The engaging smile that accompanied this information was frozen stiff when she replied:

Young Man, there is only one Liniment, and that is Johnson's.

Originated in 1810 by an old Family Physician. There is not a remedy in use which has the confidence of the public to a greater extent. Could a remedy have existed for nearly a century, except that it possess extraordinary merit?
