Ripe Tomatoes And Corn

Tomatoes in this province are very slow to ripen, in spite of the unusual hot weather prevailing this summer. This we believe can be accounted for, and is due to the lack of moisture. Corn has also suffered. However we are pleased to be able to announce that we now can include, ripe tomatoes and corn to our list of vegetables which we sell direct to the consumer, and our prices are very reasonable.

This is owing to the fact that we save the expense of delivering the goods, and pass the saving on to the consumer.

Hitler Rejects

ondre, French Ambassador to Germany, responding to a call, was received by the Fuehrer Chancellor Hitler.

"The chief of the German Government requested our Ambassador to transmit a declaration to the French Prime Minister.

"In that declaration Herr Hitler made known that he could no longer tolerate such a situation as existed in Poland and that he would deplore for German blood and French blood to be spilled as a result of measures which he would be led to take to regulate the situation.

"M. Daladier, advised by M. Coulondre of this declaration, at once sent to Herr Hitler a message in which he recalled France's profound attachment to peace as well as her fidelity to her publicly contracted engagements with other nations.

"He recalled also that no Frenchman had ever pressed harder than he himself to establish between the German people and the French people cordial relations and sincere collaborations for the maintenance of the peace of Europe.

"M. Daladier offered his personal guarantee of the disposition shown by Poland for a mutual recourse to methods of free conciliation.

"He affirmed that no man with a heart could understand why a war should start without at least a new direct effort at a peaceful arrangement having been made between Germany and Poland.

"He declared himself ready to do all in his power to make such an effort possible.

"M. Coulondre was received late in the afternoon of Aug. 26 by Chancellor Hitler who declared that he could not accept the proposition that Mr. Daladier had suggested.

"This oral response was confirmed by a written communication which was delivered to the President of the Council of Ministers by Herr Brauer, Charge d'Affaires of the German Embassy in Paris."

UNITED STATES PRESS PRAISES PEACE EFFORTS

President Is Warmly Commended For Appeals To Stave-off War.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—Editorial writers in the United States drew hope of peace yesterday from the concert of voices raised in its behalf from all parts of the world.

While the appeal to the principals in Europe's crisis from Prime Minister King of Canada came too late for editorial appraisal, newspapers praised those made by other Government heads and especially that of the United States President.

President Roosevelt received accolades from unusual sources. Bitterly anti-Roosevelt newspapers in New York applauded his efforts to halt the movement toward conflict in Europe.

The Herald Tribune (Republican) said that the President's position was clear—"that another world war will be disastrous for the United States whether or not this country becomes directly involved."

"Americans are faced once more with the lesson they refused to learn in the Great War—that a nation armed to the teeth and bent on war. . . can be checked only by use or threat of force greater than its own. Mere pleas . . . count for nothing. Yet such is the temper of the American people they are glad the President made his appeals."

Also commending the President's appeals, the New York World-Telegram (Independent) said it is yet much too soon for optimism, but "certainly it is not too much to say that until guns actually start firing there is still a chance—peace remains a 'lovely hope.'"

The Times (Independent) thought the concentration of human effort to prevent war "during these days of suspense" gave hope for peace. "Evidence accumulates that the German-Soviet pact. . . was (Hitler's) last gamble. Evidently he turned to 'the enemy' only after his friends had declined to follow him, and this step represents the true measure of his own desire to avoid the war he has invoked."

The Washington Star (Independent) said:—

"If in fact German Chancellor is willing to accept one of President Roosevelt's proposals for settlement. . . and if his minimum demands do not compromise Poland's sovereignty, controversy can and will be adjusted without resort to arms."

The Washington Post (Independent) said:—

"Hitler's idea, these last few days, has undoubtedly been to shake the nerve of those he would destroy.

". . . But he has perhaps forgotten that in times of stress men think. And the more men think, the more intolerable seems the system for which the Fuehrer stands."

King And Brothers Attend Service At Westminster Abbey

LONDON, Aug. 27—(CP)— King George bowed his head in prayer for peace today.

Leading his people in response to an appeal by the Archbishop of Canterbury for intercession "that even now the crime and horror of war may be averted," the King slipped quietly into Westminster Abbey for morning service and knelt unobtrusively in the choir stalls.

Accompanied by his brothers, the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent, and attended by three secretaries, all in sombre day clothes, the King drove to the Abbey from Buckingham Palace.

Prayer was offered "for all those to whom the tremendous responsibility of government has been committed, our King, our Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary and all who are working with them for the peace of the world."

The King's intention to attend the morning service had been kept secret, and few in the crowded church recognized him as he walked down the aisle with his brothers to their seats.

HITLER

explained his reasons for changing his plans toward Poland early Saturday, when it was expected the troops would begin to move.

Some time after the announcement was made, Propaganda Ministry officials explained that the meeting did not qualify as an official sitting of the Reichstag. The members, numbering "a few hundred" of the 800-odd deputies, had luncheon with Hitler, the propaganda Ministry spokesman said. They minimized the importance of the session.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS

Many deputies had been in Berlin since yesterday, to be on hand if the Reichstag were suddenly convoked.

Today they met Hitler at 2 P. M. (10 A. M. O. D. T.) in the great "Ambassador's Hall" of the Reich Chancellery, had lunch with him, and heard his speech.

About 6 P. M., the following announcement from the D. N. B. said:

"The Fuehrer spoke today in the Ambassador Room of the Reich Chancellery to the assembled deputies of the German Reichstag.

"The deputies gave the Fuehrer a stormy ovation following his outline of the seriousness of the hour."

Throughout Sunday, meantime, general mobilization proceeded in Germany in preparations for the eventuality of a possible war over the German-Polish dispute.

Insist War Avoided

Yet persons who may be credited with being well-informed insist a war had been avoided.

In the general picture of Germany as seen on the surface, everything pointed to preparation for war.

After this noon, no German trains crossed the borders of other countries. Belgium and Paris-bound through trains, for instance went only as far as Cologne.

Private automobiles were requisitioned and driven eastward in long columns. Food and clothing ration cards were distributed and restaurant menus were ordered curtailed. Anti-air raid measures were made compulsory in Upper Silesia, now designated an "area of military operations."

The persistent optimism in certain quarters was based on the fact that Hitler did not strike against Poland early Saturday, as it had generally been believed he would.

Diplomats Busy

In the principal foreign embassies of Berlin the staffs worked just as though it were a weekday. Ambassadors and ministers conferred frequently with each other, trying to glean information.

All, together with the members of the German Government, were agreed that any moves depended upon the return of the British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson expected tomorrow.

Along the hot streets of the capital groups of men trudged along carrying their kits, with a sergeant in uniform at their head, their wives or children walking by their sides with smaller packages and suitcases.

Before dwellings in the resident sections, groups of neighbors held in their hands the new ration cards just distributed.

They seemed stunned at this evidence of the seriousness of the situation. Hitherto they had believed, on the basis of what they read in the press and heard on the radio, that the conclusion of the pact with Russia had banned all danger of war.

Through trains to the Scandinavian countries and to the Netherlands ceased to operate this afternoon.

Airplane passenger service was cancelled.

Restaurants, amusement parks and the typical German beer gardens in the vicinity of Berlin, otherwise jammed on Sundays, were empty.
