Aylmer Catsup

When you serve... makes foods tastier

A pure catsup, like Aylmer, is wholesome eating for the children, say nutritionists. For Aylmer makes it "home-style" — from Canada's finest, red-ripe tomatoes. Children love its "true tomato flavor" and need Vitamin C.

Pioneer Days

These young shepherds bottled-iced their charges, washed them once or twice each week in their mother's wash tub and then, when they were perfectly dry, tied a dainty ribbon about their necks.

The children laid claim to the orphaned lambs but alas! when fall came and they were big enough for the butcher, off they were marched with their brothers and sisters to the market and the broken-hearted youngsters would cry out their grief on mother's lap.

Driving the sheep to market was an eventful day. First, the flocks were assembled at some central place from where the long trek to the city began. Often for a mile or more, the highway was literally filled with an army of white marchers, bleating to their comrades, or perhaps mourning because cruel Fate had separated them from their little ones.

Behind the flocks walked the drivers, while on either flank a few well-trained shepherd dogs kept an eye for roadside gaps and broken fences, through which the most adventurous sheep were sure to try to escape.

It is estimated that there are over 640 million domesticated sheep in the world, Australia leading all countries in numbers and the quality of wool produced.

What a pity these weed-destroying and profitable animals have become so scarce in this Province. What a pleasant picture it would be to be able to drive over our many little winding roads and see again the gentle sheep feeding quietly on a thousand hillsides, and watch the lambs running races across the lush meadows.

Among The Farmers

Federation Of Agriculture News

Eventful Week

The past few days has been, perhaps the most eventful, in the short life of the Island Federation. On one hand membership support has been rolling in from every part of the province. There have been more districts reporting over ninety per cent membership than less. Farmers are realizing they have a fight on their hands not only for publicity but, for a fair deal. At last they seem to be shouldering the responsibility and taking up the challenge.

On the other hand farmers generally in their efforts to improve living and marketing conditions have met with scorn and opposition from several quarters without even being given an opportunity to discuss or clarify their recommendations.

We leave it to the individual farmers judgment as to whether harder work, greater production and more surpluses will improve his circumstances. We wonder how many people believe the economy of farmers in the province can be supported on radishes, cucumbers or berries. Is there some way wrong with having twelve farmers who represent directly their twelve thousand neighbors in the same industry, take time off to study and present their problems and suggestions to their Government? There have been many interesting answers to this question but they are not of news value.

Production vs Marketing

It will be recalled that Dr. Laidler who made an economic survey for the Government of the province a few years ago, expressed the opinion that farm production on the Island depended on adequate and orderly methods of marketing. It is a well known fact that when farmers have a surplus of a reasonable market and price, production and efficiency will increase.

We admit that there can and should be greater efficiency among our farmers. However, we must admit that there always was and always will be inefficient people in every line of business.

People casting reflections on farm efficiency should study just how efficient general business, railways and government departments are operated. Better marketing conditions and not government controls, subsidies or criticisms will encourage greater efficiency.

Abattoir Project

Because they were given no opportunity to answer questions or clarify some of the recommendations in the Brief, your directors have been misunderstood and many suggestions have been misinterpreted.

It was clearly stated that this matter of an abattoir or custom killing plant for the province was still in the stage of investigation. Facilities are not available at the present time to provide a needed service to our dealers and co-operatives who have developed their own export livestock trade in order to maintain and cater to our natural markets in Newfoundland and Cape Breton, marketing services must be made available to supply those people with the kind and quality of the products they demand. There are many points to be considered in this matter but, a solution to the problem can only be reached by the aid of the agencies interested, working together. A meeting is being called in the near future to follow up the many suggestions already made.

Meet Produce Dealers

A committee from the new dealers marketing association met with our directors Tuesday morning to discuss potato marketing problems. Although they could not supply any definite aims or objectives for their organization, it was generally agreed that all interests should and must work together if a better system of potato marketing is to be found.

There are many details to be worked out before this potato marketing problem can be solved or before a Board scheme can be presented. However, if the vote is favourable, by working with the other provinces and with the co-operation of everyone concerned here, workable regulations can be arranged.

Membership Returns

Although ballot returns are flowing in, there are a few scattered districts where no action has been taken. The importance of this ballot cannot be stressed too strongly. If the farmers are to grasp this opportunity for organized marketing which has been approved by government officials and farm organizations right across Canada, then we must take action immediately.

It is not enough for people in a district to work hard if they do not encourage their neighbors to do likewise. It is up to the farmers right across the province if they are to accept this challenge now. All ballots from each district must be mailed in the official envelope provided for that purpose on or before next Monday.

Ottawa Meeting

A Dominion Conference with Mr. Gardiner and his marketing experts has been called by the Canadian Federation in Ottawa next week. Representatives from producers and government in each province will discuss this whole problem of marketing regulations. We must have uniform legislation and as much cooperation as possible between provinces if these schemes are to succeed.

Both government and federation representatives will be attending from the Island.

Copies of Brief

There are still available several copies of the brief which was presented to the Legislature on Tuesday. Those who are interested can obtain a copy by writing direct to the Federation office.

Home Cold Storage Locker

The following plan is taken from the Ontario Farm Forum Newsletter.

"This locker has a 15 cubic capacity. The box is made of two layers of matched lumber separated by 1-2 in. of rock wool on sides and bottom for insulation. The cover has 3 in. of rock wool insulation and opens over 2-3 of the top of the box. Insulation is separated from lumber by moisture-proof paper. Inside of box is lined with galvanized iron and lighted by a 15-watt bulb operated by an automatic switch on door. The unit used as a 4-can Gem milk cooler and a variable thermostat which has a range from 10-15 degrees F. Considering cost of electricity at 3-4c per K.W.H. the cost of operation is less than 1c a day."

This plan has been okayed by the Engineering Department of the Ontario Agricultural College. They add the following: "For zero freezing, however, the range of temperature should be from 0 to 10 deg. F." Electricity costs would, of course, be higher in the Maritimes.
