

That Body Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TREATMENT OF ACNE (PIMPLES)

Because acne (pimples) afflicts our young people just at the time they are most sensitive about their appearance...

In former articles I have mentioned various methods of treatment by medicines and diet, and reassurance as to the final outcome of acne...

Dr. Dexter, in treatment of 100 clinic patients, used the following treatment and states that this same method could be used in the physician's office...

Q. How can I make a good cleaning compound for washing painted walls? A. Dissolve one ounce of soap flakes in 16 ounces (one pint) of water...

Q. How can I soften a paint brush which has become hardened? A. Place the brush in a pan and cover it with vinegar...

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Emotional factors were carefully considered and efforts made to relieve sources of tension. Five patients referred to psychiatrists showed rapid recovery under psychiatric treatment...

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

Q. How can I dye feathers? A. Use acid or basic dyes. Remove the natural grease or oil before dyeing by washing in a weak soap or ammonia solution.

The Stars Say - -

By Genevieve Macchia

For Tomorrow

THE auguries are propitious, especially for those who work with concentrated efforts, for the friendly support and substantial cooperation of those in influential places...

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find firm ground under their feet, by dint of hard work, concentrated plans and clever "know how," thus winning endorsement from higher-ups...

How Can I!!!!

By Anne Ashley

Better English

By D. C. Williams

Answers

1. Say, "It was he who walked across the bridge."

2. Pronounce "an-thro-pis" accent on second syllable.

3. Elasticity.

4. Disposed to be taught; easy to manage.

5. Stimulate.

What The Well-Dressed Canadian Waitress Will Wear

Very latest in waitress uniforms is displayed by Doreen Harvey, left and Irene McInnes at the Canadian Restaurant association's annual convention.

Top Paris Styles In London Shops Prices Way Down

(By Muriel Narraway)

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March (CP)—Many of Britain's wage-earning women, smartening their wardrobes for this year's festival of Britain...

Designed by Desses at a cost of 50 guineas ($750), this dress will be sold on Britain's home market this summer for £6 16s. 6d. ($20.45).

Day and cocktail dresses, suits and coats, each designed individually by one of the five famous French designers at an original cost of anything from 37 to 79 guineas, will be reproduced at a third less of the original cost.

The difference in price is made possible by an affiliation between leading French designers and a British departmental-store partnership.

Under the plan original French designs, not included in the couture fashion collections, make their debut on the racks of British stores, at prices acceptable to the average pocket.

Produced by the Couturiers Associes, these clothes are so minutely copied even fashion press and buyers find it hard to tell copy from original—unless they get a close-up of materials and finish.

At a recent fashion show, the first since the start of the association last October, designs displayed all the Paris chic—with none of the fantasy. The line is basically good and fundamentally plain.

Interest lies in the French flair for smartly-draped scarves, neatly-placed bows, draped handkerchiefs and smart sashes.

Several-cut wool business dresses in black and navy are transformed completely by addition of colored, stiff silk scarf-stoles and cheery April ties.

Speaking on the success of the new venture, Marcel Dhorme, formerly of the Chambre Syndicale De La Haute Couture, and one of the moving spirits in the association, said: "Our aim is simple. We want to bring French couture prices within the range of the average woman."

Referring to the simplicity of design in the recent showing, Dhorme added: "The Couturiers are artists but at the same time business men. Eccentric clothes make their publicity, but their everyday liveliness is in the simple, lithe Parisian dress or suit, becoming and easy to wear."

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Good Scales

A man who discovered the joys of fishing rather late in life became even more insistent than ordinary anglers upon recounting his triumphs to sceptical acquaintances.

Enraged by their thinly-veiled hints that he was a liar, he bought a pair of scales, installed them in his library, and made his friends watch while he actually weighed the fish he had caught.

One evening a neighbor burst in excitedly and sought permission to borrow the scales. He was back in ten minutes, his face flushed with delight. "Congratulate me," he cried. "I am the father of a 24 lb. baby boy."

DEAR MISS DIX: When I was a young man my father used to say to me: "Son, when you find yourself getting especially interested in a girl go around to the kitchen door to call on her; then you will see her as she really is without her company clothes or manner."

I followed this advice even to the extent of boarding with the mother of the girl I wanted to marry and the results have been very satisfactory. I pass along the tip to the youth of today.

ANSWER: I'd tell him to take the car and drive as far away from the other direction from me as he could go and never come back. A man who is irresponsible and lacking in all sense of a husband's and father's obligations is not worth bothering about.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

As nearly as I can analyze my feelings toward him, they are a combination of respect, admiration and a desire for security, coupled with a dash of romance. I do not have to marry because I have a good job and can support myself, but I feel the need for companionship. Do you think such a marriage would be reasonably happy?

ANSWER: Why not? Every marriage is more or less of a gamble, but age takes no more risks when it enters the holy estate than youth does. In fact, the odds are in favor of age because years of living and experience in dealing with people have taught the mature man and woman self-control, the technique of getting along with others and not expecting perfection in mere human beings that the boy and girl lack.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

GOOD RISK

Middle-Age Marriage Will Avert Old-Age Loneliness

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51. Have never been married. Now I have a proposal from a widower who is twenty years older than I am. His children are all married, so they would be no problem. The only thing against him is his age, yet he is very active mentally and physically, in excellent health and could easily pass for a man of 55 or 60.