Local and Other Items.

THE FORESTERS.—The High Court of Prince Edward Island will meet on August 13th at Charlottetown.

LICENSES REVOKED.—It is said that seven of Toronto's leading hotels have been deprived of their liquor licenses.

RISE FROM ITS ASHES.—It is said that Windsor bids fair to be more substantial and more beautiful than before the disastrous fire. Magnificent brick buildings and handsome wooden buildings are being erected, 230 of which are either completed or under way.

SOME RHUBARB.—Mr. Burgess Wallace, of Aylesford, sent to this office a monster rhubarb stock grown by Mr. Ward of that village. The stalk is 9 inches in circumference and from the bottom to the tip of the leaf measures 4 feet 7 inches.—Bridgetown Monitor.

THEY COME HIGH.—George Romney's paintings continue bringing high prices in England. A portrait of the Marchioness Townshend has just been sold in London for $28,000 and one of Mme Susan Jonenne for $15,300. Van Dyck's "Prince Rupert," once belonging to Joseph Addison, brought $2,700 and his "Prince Maurice" 73,000.

A PROFITABLE INVENTION.—It is said that Miss M J Freel, of Toronto, has patented a belt pin for holding the feminine shirt waist to the shirt, which invention is thought to be worth several thousand dollars. Man wants but little here below, but there seems to be a fortune in supplying the many wants of women.

COWS POISONED.—Two milk cows owned by R. H. Scott, and one by Patrick Donovan, of Canterbury station were poisoned last week by eating Paris green, which is supposed to have been placed in a field above the village by some malicious person for the purpose accomplished.—St. John Gazette.

A PLEASANT OUTING.—If you are fortunate enough to attend the League of the Cross picnic at Middel on the 28th you will spend a pleasant day. Arrangements have been made for a large number of visitors besides a great many boys, and there will be an ample supply of refreshments on the grounds. The band of the Society will also be on hand and furnish music throughout the day. There will also be races in which the boys always compete in large numbers. Don't miss it or you will regret it. Announcement later.

MISTRESS AND SERVANT.—The native servant in Hawaii, says the Argonaut, used to address their mistresses as they heard other members of the household address them, not infrequently calling them by their first names. An English woman determined on her arrival to Honolulu that her servants should never call her Mary, and instructed them carefully in the presence of her husband. One day, when she had visitors, her cook put his head in at the drawing-room door, and politely inquired, "What vegetables for dinner today, my love?" He had heard her called that, and seemed proud of remembering not to say Mary.

Food Value of Beer.

So early as 1725 Benjamin Franklin, the practical philosopher, when working as a journeyman printer in London, drank water, and tried to convince a fellow-workman that the bodily strength could only be in proportion to the grain or flour of the barley dissolved in the water of which it was made; that there was more flour in a pennyworth of bread; and therefore, that if he would eat it with a pint of water it would give him more strength than a quart of beer. Liebig, the great chemist, years afterwards made a similar statement, which has been proved and demonstrated times without number. Many people entertain the notion that as beer is made out of barley, it must be nutritious, not aware that nearly all the nutriment is wasted in the process of brewing. It is a mistake to suppose that beer is 'liquid bread,' and that fermentation resembles the process of cooking. Cooking makes no change in the substance cooked, but simply renders them more easily digested; but brewing alters the very constitution of the barley, involves a vast waste of food, and out of nutritious grain manufactures a poisonous beverage. There is, besides, the testimony of the most distinguished medical men that even moderate indulgence in intoxicating liquors is injurious to health. In 1847, a medical declaration signed by upwards of two thousand physicians and surgeons engaged in every branch of the profession, testified that total and universal abstinence from alcoholic liquors and beverages of all sorts would greatly contribute to the health, the prosperity, the morality and the happiness of the human race. In more recent times we have the individual testimonies of Sir Henry Thompson, the late Sir William Gull, and the late Sir B. W. Richardson, that indulgence in alcoholic beverages in quantities deemed moderate is injurious to health. Sir William Gull, when giving evidence before the Select Committee of the House of Lords in July, 1877, said, "There is a great deal of injury done to health by the habitual use of wines in their various kinds, and alcohol in its various shapes, even in so-called moderate quantities, and that to people who are not in the least intemperate. Above all there is the danger of many following the example set by people who drink, which leads many into temptation, and finally into habits of drunkenness, which ought to weigh with all who desire the highest welfare of the people, and especially with ministers of religion.—League Journal.

A Real Live Store is My Store

Day and night the work goes on getting ready, keeping ready, and still the stock looks topsy turvy before a day is two-thirds gone.

Home people and visitors are here every day in throngs. Dry Goods of all kinds was never so easy to buy. Maybe prices are too low to be healthy. Maybe we'll all be happier when conditions lead to higher prices. But the fact remains that dollars never had such buying power as now, and that no where else do they buy so much as at
