

Response Reported Slow To Artificial Arm Campaign

MONTREAL (CP)—Response to an appeal for $30,000 to acquire the rights to a motorized artificial arm has "not been too fantastic" up to now, Dr. Gustav Giger, president of the War Veterans Institute of Montreal, said here.

Dr. Giger saw the artificial arm during a recent trip to the Soviet Union and was told he could acquire the Canadian rights for $20,000. But he said response to an appeal for funds has mainly been in small amounts. The appeal was made at a press conference July 24.

He said most people expected the institute would launch a fund-raising campaign. "It was hoping there would be one major contributor, as in England," he said in an interview. "It hasn't happened up to now."

In England, where an appeal was published, one anonymous donor put up the money to buy the rights. There have been isolated contributions, including $1 from a woman whose husband lost an arm in the war.

Dr. Giger said his institute could develop a motorized limb, but it would take "enormous" amounts of money and two to four years of work. It would be cheaper and faster to buy the Soviet model and improve upon it.

The arm would cost a patient about $300. He said models have been developed in other countries but that none have been tried outside the laboratory because they are too cumbersome.

The Soviet model was practical because it used transistors. The Russian limb is driven by a motor based in the hand and controlled by electric signals picked up by electrodes in contact with the arm and neck muscles. The signals are magnified by a translator amplifier which controls the motor. The same principle, he said, could be used to develop a hand.

Canadian Firm Begins Opening Mine In Maine

BLUE HILL, Me. (AP)—A Canadian-run mining operation began here today when H. A. Governor John H. Reed firing the first blasting charge to open a new mine.

The governor called it "a significant step in the development of the state and the economy of the state and he expects this will be 'the greatest mineral development in our history'."

The shaft will be sunk on property acquired by the Black Hawk Mining Company, a subsidiary of Denison Mines, Ltd., Toronto, in quest of copper, lead and silver ore beneath this old Maine seaport town.

In a brief ceremony, State Secretary Paul A. MacDonald presented Black Hawk's Maine mining license to the company's president, John Kostuk.

Black Hawk plans, if exploration of the ore deposit bears out preliminary tests, to erect a mill here for processing the ore.

State geologists have said the deposit's value probably will run into the tens of millions of dollars.

Paper Speculates On Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Evening Star has said the Warren commission will devote much of its forthcoming report to rebutting speculation about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy resulted from a domestic or international conspiracy.

The report of the seven-member commission headed by U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren is expected to be made public Sept. 14, although it will be presented to President Johnson a week or two earlier. The Star said.

The story said detailed reports will appear in two sections of the report. The Star said the commission is aware of doubts, especially in Europe, that a lone assassin was solely responsible for the shooting of Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., last Nov. 22.

The Commission Will Give an Analytical Consideration of All Elements of the Assassination

The commission will give an analytical consideration of all elements of the assassination and the subsequent slaying of accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald by night club figure Jack Ruby. The Star said. It said the bulky report now runs to 600 pages, plus 18 volumes of transcripts of testimony and depositions from witnesses. The report will analyze speculation about both the possibility of a right-wing conspiracy within the United States or an international left-wing conspiracy. The Star said.

The commission, it added, now is going over drafts of every chapter of the report to make sure all conclusions are fully documented and all questions fully answered.
