DECISION TO PART FOREVER.

Two Lovers Have Their Last Meeting and Make an Astonishing Discovery.

He wore a yachting cap and carried himself straight; she looked like a queen in her old picture in her soft blue empire gown. He was tall and slender; she small and divinely dimpled.

"Yes, it is very, very wrong of me to meet you here," she said, after one of the pauses. "Poor Jack, he loves me so very much. His miserly money never could do with me, I assure you, but I really thought I cared for him until I—"

"O, really I must go home now!" she made no movement to turn back, however, he ground his heels into the gravel and tugged viciously at his moustache.

"Still, it is for the last time," he said, "and I really think we might go on a little way. Yes, I, too, thought I cared for Laura, in spite of the fact that she is an heiress, until I met you and learned what love really is."

"O, I am a wicked, wicked girl!" she cried tragically. "You must go away and forget me, but some time when you and Laura are happy and you visit my lonely grave you will—will lay a flower upon it."

The white parasol was waving wildly in the air now, and the sunshiny showed a glistering tear upon her cheek. "If only I had not been in such haste," he groaned, but now I cannot withdraw it would break her heart. I told her that I could not leave the office this afternoon."

"And Jack, poor Jack! he would not survive the knowledge that I was false to him. I told him that I was going to the dentist's this afternoon. Of we must part."

"Yes, forever, at once." "And they turned into a more unfrequented path. "Ah, look!" she cried, motioning towards an absorbing pair on a bench a little way off. "They can afford to be happy. No hasty vows bind them to others whom they cannot love—"

"Emotion choked her; she tottered and he supported her with his arm. "True," he said in a deep voice. "They have waited until their hearts really spoke before forging fetters for themselves, we alas—"

"We must say good-bye now," she said, and stepped in the path, and somehow his arms went around her and their lips met. The parasol lay like a great white flower, unheeded on the grass.

"O, what have I done?" she cried, breaking away from him and starting forward. "Poor Jack! Poor Laura!"

He followed her rapid footsteps. They were near the coupé on the bench now, but they neither saw nor heard them; he had his hand on her shoulder, and his head was on his shoulder; a ray of sunshine stole down through the trees and pointed a saucy finger at them; a bold sparrow hopped to their very feet.

Suddenly the advancing girl stopped and pointed at them. "Why, it is Jack himself!" she cried. "The perfidious wretch!"

"Good heavens!" he almost shouted, "so it is—and the girl with him is Laura!"

Beauty's Hair.

(Herr Rothkopf at the piano.) Miss Tarkling sings: "I want no stars in heaven to guide me, I want no sun, no moon to shine above me. While I have you, sweetheart, beside me—"

The Law Still Supreme. Crafty Client—I'd like to get some legal advice from you. Learned Lawyer—Certainly; what is it?

"What's the best way to collect a bill that's been running for a long time?" "Well, the first thing, of course, is to demand the payment of it."

"Thanks, then, will you kindly settle this little matter of $15 that you've owed me now for nearly four years?" "Fifteen dollars?"

"Oh, then we're just square." "How is this?" "My fee for the advice I just gave you comes to just $15."

Lacked Business Sagacity. Father—Yes, I admit that our boy ain't lazy. He's smart as can be when it comes to finding traps and running errands, but he doesn't seem to have any business sagacity at all.

Trouble Ahead. "I wonder what the matter with the pocket of this new coat of mine," said old Bingo on Sunday morning. "I can't seem to get my hand in it."

A Cowardly Fain. A stomach-ache's the meanest, I'd say. Most cowardly of all the pains I know. To strike a man at all beneath it.

The Sparham Case. KEMPTVILLE, July 24.—Much interest is felt by residents of this place in the case of Mr. W. F. Sparham, of Ottawa, to whom reference was made in an Ottawa despatch of the 17th inst. Sparham is believed to have been cured of his illness by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Parents Must Have Rest. A President of one of our Colleges says: "We spent many sleepless nights in consequence of our children suffering from colds, but this never occurs now! We use Scott's Emulsion and it quickly relieves pulmonary troubles."

A SPLENDID RECORD.

A Provincial Industry Triples Its Business in Last Three Months.

Some three months ago this journal informed its readers that a new provincial industry, that of the Hawker Medicine Company, of St. John, had completed its first year's business, and that it had shown a development of trade and a record of sales that was not only gratifying but really astonishing.

Another three months has now elapsed and the company have balanced their accounts for the six months. The results show that in the last three months they have trebled the business of the first three; they have almost doubled their working staff and work has been carried on in the packers room till 11 o'clock every night in order to fill orders promptly.

From all parts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and P. E. Island, from Newfoundland and the various parts of the United States, orders have rolled in. The business is now firmly established. The experimental stage is past. Repeat orders come in constantly, showing that where once the remedies are introduced, they win permanent favor with the people, who know as soon as they have given any of them a trial that these standard remedies are all that they are claimed to be.

Indeed, this last might readily be assumed without a trial, and judging solely from the character of the gentlemen who form the Hawker Medicine Co., as they are numbered among the leading citizens and most honorable and successful business men of the province.

The Hawker Medicine company are now patenting their remedies in Great Britain and will presently extend their operations there, as well as more extensively to the United States. About the middle of this month Thomas Rankine, who so successfully introduced the Hawker remedies in Newfoundland last spring, will start and traverse the western part of Canada, from Montreal to Vancouver, in the interests of the company.

With such a record as that of their first six months now closed, the Hawker Medicine Co. are evidently destined to achieve a great success. They control standard remedies, which have received the endorsement of leading physicians in Canada and the United States, as well as the fervent praise of sorely afflicted people who have by their means been restored to health.

Their place of business is at 104 Prince William Street, St. John, N. B., where they have the most extensive and elaborately fitted premises of the kind in the Lower Provinces.

William Hawker, the original inventor of the remedies, has been a druggist in St. John for 30 years, and had long proved the value of the different remedies before the present company was organized. It is to be pleased that this journal records the company's wonderful success.

Worse Than Dynamite. Hardly a month passes but we read of terrible explosions and loss of life from natural gas.

One writer has raked up Chinese history wherein it appears that any leak in the line when the famous Chinese was building, before the use of gas wells was discovered, a terrible explosion took place.

The big wells in some way got the start of the little ones, so that enormous volumes of air were sucked down into those subterranean magazines. When the air reached certain proportions the whole thing went off like a leaky gasoline stove.

The result was horrible in the destruction of lives. The same writer predicts similar conditions underlying the great natural gas belt of this country, from Toledo, through Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, whereby that whole vast region might be ripped up to the depth of 1,500 feet, leaving a chasm for the waters of the great lakes to pour down into, blotting out every living human in the now densely populated valley from the face of the earth.

That writer might easily have shown further that throughout our whole country, not only in densely populated regions and cities, but in country and village houses as well, natural gas far more dangerous than is found in the lake regions, are carrying off not only "pig-tail" Chinamen, but our own families and friends during the hot waves of July and August.

Sections of people are dying daily from typhoid fever, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera morbus, and infant summer complaints; all caused by poisonous gases and ferments, far worse than hydrogen gas or dynamite in their explosions.

Fortunate is the latter danger can all be averted by the use of a simple old fashioned remedy, Johnson's Anodyne Lincture, used internally, as explained in a pamphlet sent free to anyone by E. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass. No matter if you have used this remedy before, it will pay you to get a bottle and read the directions, or send for the pamphlet just to learn how to use it economically.

Experience Has Proved It. A triumph in medicine was attained when experience proved that Scott's Emulsion would not only stop the progress of Pulmonary Consumption, but by its continued use health and vigor could be fully restored.

F. G. BLACKLOCK, of Cape Spencer light station, tried all kinds of remedies for rheumatism, that had left him almost unable to walk, and at last got Dr. Manning's German Remedy. Before he had finished a bottle he could walk without a cane.

This marvelous painkiller is a positive cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, sprains, strains, bruises, colic, chills, cramps and all pains and aches, either internal or external. An invaluable household remedy. Sold everywhere. Price 50 cents.

OTHER cough medicines have had their day, but Puttner's Emulsion has come to stay, because it is so nice and so good.

Mothers, Does the housework tire you? If so, ask yourself the reason why.

Is there a means by which the WEARINESS and the WEAKNESS and the DREAD can be removed?

Do the words of friends and the experience of others influence you? There is reason why they should. They are constituted as you are. Relief to them is relief to you.

The case of Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, of Milford, St. John, has many a parallel. Consider it.

This lady, whose portrait appears above these lines, suffered four years from that common complaint, Dyspepsia—accompanied, of course, by its train of ill—flatulency, constipation, nervousness, loss of appetite.

And she tried eight physicians during that time. Last autumn she was induced to "experiment" with a popular local remedy—"Groder Syrup." Of this medicine she says: "It has helped me as nothing else ever did; it made my work lighter and easier because it regulated my stomach and GAVE ME NEW LIFE."

Does such evidence appeal to you? It should. There is health and healing in this remedy for Dyspepsia. Disordered stomachs are the direct cause of countless ills that kill.

The Telephone Company

P. E. ISLAND.

Parties using the telephone would be talking much more satisfactorily if they would observe the following rules:—

1st. Speak with the mouth about four inches from the transmitter.

2nd. Speak in a moderate tone of voice, too loud, and distinctly.

3rd. Place the telephone so as to cover in ear just as if you wished to shut out all sounds. Do not press too hard on the ear.

It is possible to talk and be heard when standing back two or three feet from the transmitter, if you shout loud enough, but it is a pleasant matter of conversation, and unnecessary, and is a useless waste of strength and lungs, besides being very annoying to the person on the other end of the line.

ROB. SMITH, Manager.
