Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition. I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." Jacob Wilcox, St. Thomas, Ontario.

"Putting aside the question of uniformity which may have been observed in the ordinary dress of the past, we have seen a large number of these articles—perhaps two a month, which would be a light grey one."

And it is a habit of his never to wear a coat two seasons running, even if it has only been used two or three times by him. He in the year perhaps six or seven in the year, his total of "frocks" may be set down roughly at twelve.

In dress suits he is supposed to be particularly extravagant; but this is not really the case. Any man about town has five or six dress suits a year. The Prince may have a dozen, but the story told in a contemporary recently that he had one a week is pure nonsense.

When the Prince is going to Newmarket he often wears a "ditto" suit with a light covert coat over it. In "ditto" suits, perhaps, his total wardrobe of the uniforms and frocks which are worn by the Prince is a year and considers that heavy.

It is certain that he never wears one of these suits for more than three or four times, and his stock of them is tremendous. Of shooting suits for the autumn he has an immense variety, using a different style of dress for each of the months to that adopted for ordinary work with the dogs. Here alone for country dress he can scarcely spend less than a hundred pounds a year.

Those large scarfs which are now worn with a frock coat often cost half a guinea. There are scores of up-to-date youths who have fifty pairs of gloves per annum; three dozen shirts would be regarded as an absolute minimum; he never wears a pair of gloves twice, and in this, and in the matter of boots, he is unquestionably the best dressed man in the kingdom.

WAS PRETTY QUICK WORK. Divorce and Marriage Accomplished in Missouri in Thirty Minutes.

An event recently transpired in Union, Mo., which knocks the socks off Sioux Falls, S. D., for p. p. d. divorces and marriages. The story is as follows: It seems that Mary L. LeBlanc, who lived in Grubville, a crossroads town in Frank in County, was deserted by her husband, Thomas F. LeBlanc. She grew tired of waiting for his return. She came to Union the other day and employed Col. M. Maupin as her attorney to secure a divorce, says a correspondent of the St. Louis Republic. A big case was in court, and during a recess of a few minutes Mrs. LeBlanc, who is a highly red-headed woman of 25 years, and was dressed in red calico, appeared with her attorney and was before the judge in ten minutes.

But she was not to remain Mary LeBlanc. She had a husband downstairs in the courthouse, and there she was granted a divorce. The judge assumed her maiden name, Mary Isabelle Lewis.

THE WONDERFUL OUTFIT OF THE PRINCE OF WALES DESCRIBED.

In a chatty letter to the Prince of Wales and his clothes, a writer in Cassell's Saturday Journal says:—As a matter of fact, the first of the "European" coats, and a great deal of money with his tailors. It should be remembered, however, that such a suit for the Prince of Wales is not a military uniform—and this total is almost accurate.

When we remember that a cavalry outfit may cost £50, as a low estimate, and that subalterns enjoy a line regiment rarely begin with a lower disbursement than £100, the amount that the Prince's outfit may have cost him is easily to be gauged.

The Prince, of course, possesses a fine most of the latest fashions, but as a Field Marshal, he is obliged often to renege the terribly expensive outfit suited to that rank; and it is this fact which has caused the Prince's military ceremonial, and at royal weddings, or other great occasions of state. In addition, he possesses many naval uniforms and his dress of a large number of German, Russian and Austrian regiments.

"Putting aside the question of uniformity which may have been observed in the ordinary dress of the past, we have seen a large number of these articles—perhaps two a month, which would be a light grey one."

And it is a habit of his never to wear a coat two seasons running, even if it has only been used two or three times by him. He in the year perhaps six or seven in the year, his total of "frocks" may be set down roughly at twelve.

IS THIS YOUR DAUGHTER?

She eats little. She looks like a ghost. Her blood has turned to water. She is languid in mind and body. Her symptoms are very like those of consumption.

Yet she is only a young girl, just entering womanhood. "Standing with reluctant feet. Where the brook and river meet."

Al! I had that is one of the most critical periods in life. It is then, in countless cases, that parental neglect or lack of knowledge is responsible for the permanent ruin of the daughter's health, if not for her too often untimely death. If at an age when she should be distinguished by activity of body, activity of mind, and joyousness of spirit, she suddenly grows weak, depressed, nervous, hysterical, listless, sometimes suffering severely from pain, and appearing to have lost all her ambition in life, then unless prompt measures are taken to renew the vitality of her blood and so lead to a restoration of nerve force and bodily and mental energy, and give to nature that assistance which is within the reach of all an agency whereby a complete cure in all such cases as the above outlined may be brought about.

Of all the wonderful cures wrought by Hood's nerve and stomach tonic, none have been more remarkable than those in which the perfect nerve restorer and invigorator, and blood and flesh builder, as well as a valuable stomach tonic and aid to digestion. It is especially adapted to the diseases peculiar to women, such as nervousness, nervous headaches, neuralgia, hysteria, pale and sallow complexion, suppression, anaemia, depression, loss of memory, or any nerve weakness of heart or brain arising from worry, overstrain of mind or body, or excess of any nature. It gives tone to the nerve and stomach, vigor to the mind and body, and strength to the blood, restoring the bloom of health to the pale and delicate.

Hood's Nerve and Stomach Tonic can be obtained from all druggists and dealers at fifty cents a bottle or six bottles for $2.50.

GLADSTONE IN RETIREMENT.

His Views as to the New Woman and Other Matters of Interest.

"I should like so much," I explore. "to hear how Mr. Gladstone passes his days—just the program of one of the days which tell me, h. r. r. The Grand Old Man smiled. And it is something to have lived for so long, he scarcely a smile away, we usually walk, a red porcelain lamp were: so daily in luminated with a clear radiance w. h. n. so white is the h. v. d. face, so b. h. l. i. n. the deep set eyes.

"If you are really good enough to be interested in so small a thing," he said, "it is easily told, and in a few words. During our trip abroad the high orders were merciless. He felt so to be taken in bed, at the late hour of half-past eight. All necessity for such a way of life has been given me, away, however. We rise about half-past seven, attend morning service at the village church, to which, as it is scarcely a mile away, we usually walk. After that we breakfast, although, I am ashamed to say, I have sometimes of late felt the necessity for a cup of coffee or coffee, which is usually given me at the rectory if I require it. I do not know that I would recommend the habit, but I am myself very fond of it. It was thus that I read, a couple of months ago, the life of Prof. Owen, with extreme enjoyment and profit. I have found my time very well spent, attempts at literary labor, and therefore I can scarcely refer to it as work when I say that I spend some hours before luncheon in writing. I am presently engaged upon a new edition of Bishop Butler, who, to my mind, was one of the noblest men and wisest writers who ever blessed the earth with his life. This work, if I may call it so, has brightened my few holidays for the past ten years. I have heard that another book on much the same lines is soon to be ready for publication, probably before my own can possibly see the light, but I do not for this reason allow myself to be discouraged. I shall persevere until the end is reached.

"You sometimes read novels, do you not, Mr. Gladstone?" one of us asked. "Yes. I allow myself some light reading usually each day after dinner. I think the two, perhaps, which have seemed to me the most worthy of reflection during the past year have been 'Rother Waters' and 'The Year of Jubilee.' Both seemed to me strong and able works, which ought to live when many of their contemporaries are forgotten."

"It is wonderful that you find time to do so much," I said, amazed.
