Tuberculosis League Gives Splendid Service

"The provincial tuberculosis league has provided splendid service in supplying a special service which enabled all positive tuberculin reactors and all persons over the age of 40 to have free x-rays at clinic centres in the province." Hon. Hubert McNeill, MD, minister of health, said yesterday in announcing that the tuberculin testing and x-ray clinics in the province have been discontinued for the 1962 season.

According to Dr. McNeill, during the past summer 114 school districts, chiefly in Kings County, were surveyed and the number who attended these clinics was 10,283. Four people were found to have active tuberculosis and are now under treatment at the Provincial Sanatorium. Sixteen others will be kept under observation as a result of the clinics.

The minister said that most of the new cases of tuberculosis discovered through tuberculin testing this year were found in the extreme eastern section of the province; consequently, in the future this area will have to be re-surveyed frequently.

Commenting on the clinics, Dr. McNeill said, "an interest in tuberculosis must be re-created throughout our population, we must maintain constant vigilance; although the death rate has dropped tremendously, the number of new cases discovered over the past three to four years have remained almost constant, therefore our preventive program must not be relaxed."

Barley Growing Experiment Reported Very Encouraging

Results of an experimental barley-growing project carried out in Prince Edward Island this year were surveyed and the number who attended these clinics was 10,283. Four people were found to have active tuberculosis and are now under treatment at the Provincial Sanatorium. Sixteen others will be kept under observation as a result of the clinics.

Registration High For Adult Education Classes In Tignish

TIGNISH — Adult education classes in the elementary school, public speaking and home economics got underway at the Tignish High School auditorium. Thursday evening. A large number of adults registered for all three classes.

Sister St. Elizabeth C.I.A. home economics teacher for the Tignish classes welcomed adults to her class, from as far away as Alberton.

Urban LeBlanc from the extension department of St. Dunstan's University outlined a program he proposes to follow in parliamentary procedure and public speaking, and urged the group to encourage more young men and women to join in these classes.

"We lack leaders he said because people do not have enough confidence in themselves to take on the responsibility of leadership, and the same people have to carry on from year to year."

The adult education classes are sponsored by the Tignish Home and School Association, with Valmore Arsenal, president.

Commission Plans License Hearings

Hearings are being planned by the Public Utilities Commission on applications for licenses by provincial motor carriers.

The commission recently warned unlicensed carriers that they could lose their business if licensed firms.

A letter to this effect was sent out to known unlicensed carriers with the result that response to the letter will lead to hearings on license applications.

Dates of the hearings have not yet been scheduled.

Truck Breaks Bridge Rail

RCMP were called to Fullerton's Marsh near Mount Herbert last evening as the result of a half-ton truck crashing through the bridge railing into the marsh.

When police arrived, they found the truck sitting right-side up, but the driver and any other occupants were nowhere to be found. At the time of the accident the tide was low.

Examination of the vehicle and site produced no evidence that anyone might have been injured, and police were expecting to be in touch with the owner this morning.

Trades Act Is Presented

An apprenticeship and tradesmen's qualification act has been presented to the provincial apprenticeship committee for consideration.

W. S. McMurty, director of apprenticeship in the departments of education and labour said yesterday that the new act deals with administration of an apprenticeship system and establishes a system of examinations for the granting of trades qualifications certificates.

According to Mr. McMurty, the act is still in the form of a rough draft and will be put in shape by a lawyer for presentation to the government at the next session of the Legislature.

In authorizing yesterday's announcement regarding the new apprenticeship and trade qualification act, Welfare and Labour Minister Henry Wedge said that a registration system for the Institute of Apprentices is about to be set up and already two apprentices have been engaged by Chandler Bros. in Charlottetown, the first under the new system.

Referring to the liaison between the division of public health nursing and the division of tuberculosis control, Dr. McNeill pointed out that through the meticulous checking of contacts of active tuberculous cases, that public health nurses during the past three years have been instrumental in discovering 20 to 30 per cent of those requiring sanatorium treatment.

He also spoke of the voluntary workers who canvassed their districts and assisted at the clinics this year.

ARCTIC WONDER

Winter in the North has its compensations, especially in the beauty of the Northern Lights. The pulsating bursts of electrical charges, known scientifically as aurora borealis, are never seen so brilliantly or colorfully as in the North.

Food Plant's Operations Causing Dissatisfaction

By FRANK WEEKS
Albion Bureau, The Guardian
Strong expressions of dissatisfaction with the frozen food plant in Eastern Prince were voiced in O'Leary Thursday night at the annual meeting of the Prince County Federation of Agriculture.

"We are selling out completely to outside interests, and have no say in the operation of the plants," one member said. Instances where growers received a bill instead of payment for their crops have also occurred, a second speaker maintained. "For people in O'Leary are fortunate the plant didn't locate in your area," he concluded.

George MacDonald, provincial president, in his annual report cautioned farmers to think hard before working to have a processing plant come to their district.

There should be some means of bargaining with the company, he said. Contracts favor the company; they take what they want and pay what they should. He said that the company should not be allowed to grow any crops rather than be grown by bona fide farmers, Mr. MacDonald continued. Farmers should not be paid two months after their crop is delivered. They should know what they are going to get, and the company should take all acreage grown.

The following resolution was approved:

Whereas it has been reported that, in some cases, growers of crops for processing received bills, rather than payment, for their crops, be it resolved, in the opinion of at this meeting, that such is entirely wrong in principle, and any contract which permits it should not be tolerated, particularly where public funds are invested in such plants. An amendment to the original resolution asked that future plants be controlled and operated by farmer-producers.

The Prince County president, Edson Drummond, in his annual report, invited criticisms and suggestions. It is said to see so many vacant farms, he said, while extending a plea for more farmers to join their federation.

IN NAME, ONLY
"We have a potato marketing board in name, only," Kenneth MacLean, a board member stated. There has been no meeting since May 2, although we need a board more than ever. It is ridiculous to sell potatoes for a cent a pound. We have every right to get two cents, Mr. MacLean stated.

"The collection of the levy was contested in the courts and I throw out, and it now remains for the legislature to bring legislation up to date," he concluded.

During his annual report, the provincial president, Mr. MacDonald, described the attendance of federation representatives at a host of agricultural meetings in all parts of Canada. These included CFA meetings, conference on education in Montreal, marketing meetings, beef and dairy association meetings, fluids milk association, tobacco growers, and the presentation of the federation's annual brief to the legislature, which was warmly received.

A decline in cattle rustling and also cattle losses from spray materials was noted by the president. "The removal of the six cents tax, and no hospital premiums, are greatly encouraging to farmers," Mr. MacDonald stated.

A. Lincoln Dewar addressed the meeting on beef marketing, and also dealt with the problem of over-production of dairy products. There is 240,000 pounds of butter in storage, he stated, which poses quite a problem for the government. A successful future in the beef industry was predicted by Mr. Dewar.

ARDA DESCRIBED
Hertford Daley described the Agricultural Resources Development Act, how it came into being, and what it is designed to accomplish. A reversal of the trend to push agriculture out of the economy is a purpose of ARDA, Mr. Daley said. Rural people, through this program, have an opportunity to save the small farm with federal assistance.

Eric Hammill, Emerald, was elected president, with Beecher Dennis, Arlington, first vice-president, and Albert Linklater, Linklater Road, second vice-president.

Mr. Hammill, Mrs. Leo Farrell, Lot 16, and Beecher Dennis were elected to the provincial board.

Five new directors were appointed: Gerald Gamble, Casimpeque; Charles Rogers, Coleman; Mrs. Leo Farrell, Lot 16; Allan Clow, Freetown; Albert Linklater, Linklater Road.

A vote of thanks to the ladies of Bloomfield United Church for a delicious lunch was moved by Raymond Hardy. The meeting was held in the auditorium of O'Leary regional high school.
