A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

WHILE taking this opportunity of thanking our numerous customers for the liberal manner in which they have patronized

OUR NEW STUDIO,

we would inform them that we have now increased facilities for the production of first-class work, and are prepared to make PHOTOGRAPHS of a Style and Quality that has never been before attempted in this City. We have on exhibition, at our Rooms, a large number of Photographs of every variety, including the

the most beautiful style of Photograph known, possessing a softness and delicacy of coloring that has never been equalled. This elegant picture has become deservedly popular elsewhere, and cannot fail to become so here. Though the finish of our Photographs cannot be excelled, we would direct attention to the beautiful which we make. They possess a highly enamelled surface, and are practically indestructible, and will retain their freshness and beauty for any length of time. If they become soiled they can easily be cleaned, as they will not lose any of their beauty by being wet. This valuable quality, combined with their remarkable elegance, make them very suitable for presents; while the difficulty of their production will prevent them ever becoming so common as to lessen their value. Our patrons can have one or all of their Photos finished in this style—an advantage which cannot be obtained elsewhere.

We give special attention to making Groups of Families, Societies, Schools, &c. Our pictures of children are sufficient evidence of our success in this difficult branch of our art.

Our ENLARGEMENTS, finished in India Ink, Pastel, Gray, Oil and Water Colors, have made a favorable reputation for them selves throughout the Lower Provinces.

Parties intending to have Photographs made will find it to their advantage to sit early, as the number of our customers makes some delay in the delivery of the Photos unavoidable. We prefer to have our sitters come by appointment.

Photographs can be obtained for less money elsewhere; but in this case we ask that quality be given the preference; assuring the public that they will find our charges very moderate.

ADDRESS,

W. L. COTTON,
Manager Examiner Printing and Publishing Company.
Ch'town, Dec. 6, 1877.

Rate of Interest.

A BILL to assimilate the laws respecting the rates of interest in the various Provinces has been laid before the Dominion Parliament. It provides that "The rate of eight per centum per annum shall be, for the whole Dominion of Canada, the legal rate of interest," and that "any rate of interest not exceeding eight per centum may be paid in advance or otherwise." The Bill will not likely pass.

Military Appointments.

No two military appointments could give more satisfaction in England than that of Lord Napier, of Magdala, as commander-in-chief of any expedition to be sent out in case of war, and Sir Garnet Wolseley as chief of staff. Both men have had considerable military experience. The former was born in Ceylon in 1810, served with distinction as brigade-major in the Sutley campaign of 1845-6, and in 1849 was made lieutenant-colonel for meritorious conduct at Guzerat. During the whole of the Sepoy mutiny he was in active service, and again distinguished himself in the engineering operations which he conducted against Lucknow, and subsequently as brigade-commander at the siege of Gwalior and the battle of Pooree. In 1860 he took part in the Anglo-French expedition against China with the local rank of major general, and here again achieved special distinction in the operations preceeding the capture of Peking. He became colonel of the Royal Engineers in 1862, and from the year previous until 1865, when he was appointed commander of the Bombay army with the local rank of general, was a member of the council of the Governor-General of India. He was promoted to the full rank of lieutenant-general in 1867, and given command of the expedition to Abyssinia for the release of the British prisoners held by King Theodore at Magdala. In a brief and brilliant campaign, one of the greatest engineering achievements on record, he captured Magdala, and returned to the seaboard without the loss of a single man. In 1870 he was appointed commander-in-chief of the forces in India, with the local rank of general. For his brilliant achievements he has thrice received the thanks of Parliament. Sir Garnet Wolseley was born in County Dublin, Ireland, in 1832, and served in Burmah, in the Crimea, in India during the Sepoy mutiny of 1857-58, and in China in 1860. In 1867 he was sent to this country, where he remained for several years. In 1874 he ended the Ashantee war as chief commander. His recent statement in the Nineteenth Century of England's condition for war is very reassuring to Englishmen at this time, more especially as the estimates are said to be under rather than above the real strength. From the appointments above referred to, the strenuous efforts to make her armament as perfect as possible, and by the tone of the Government papers, it is evident that England is determined to fight Russia rather than that peace should be made on the terms published. From Russian sources it leaks out that the terms as published in England are not the ones to be decided upon. In the meantime nothing definite is known; all attention is devoted to the preparations being made.

Cassidy, the colored man, charged with indecent behaviour to a little girl in Halifax, has been convicted and fined $40, or 90 days. Charges of similar conduct to two other children will be brought against him. On his person, when arrested, were found a number of cards bearing the following:—"Fair lady, may I have the pleasure of accompanying you to your place of residence? If not, may I have the extreme felicity of sitting on the fence and seeing you go by?"

In 1873 the revenue of the Dominion P. O. Department was $1,308,000 and the cost of management $1,553,000. Last year the revenue was $1,441,000 and the cost $2,075,000. Increase of revenue 11 per cent.; of cost 33 per cent.—and of such is Reform!

A BANK TREASURER MURDERED.—At Dexter, Me., on Friday evening last, J. W. Barron, Treasurer of the Savings Bank at that place was found lying in the vault of the Bank, handcuffed, gagged, and with a rope around his neck. He was insensible, and remained so until half-past five o'clock next morning, when he died from the effects of several wounds on his head. His murderers evidently were incited to the crime because he would not open the safe at their command. The scoundrels secured less than $1000 by their foul deed. Up to Saturday evening no clue to the murderers had been obtained.

THE steamer Nova Scotian, which arrived at Halifax on the 27th, from England, brought John Nicole, Chief Constable of St. John's, N. F., who has in custody Wm. Molloy, formerly captain of the schooner Eugenie McMillan, which was cast away at Bay of Islands in December last. Molloy is charged with having wilfully lost the vessel for the purpose of defrauding the insurers and with having sold the hull and appropriated the money. Molloy left Bay of Islands in a sailing vessel bound for Sligo, Ireland. A despatch sent thither caused his detention, and Chief Constable Nicole went after him.

Two girls born at St. Benoit, Quebec, united as Siamese twins, weigh 20 pounds. Large offers for exhibition have been made but the parents will not part with them.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

(From our Special Parliamentary Correspondent.)
FEB. 23, 1878.

The most important measures of the Government have not yet been discussed. Nothing has been done with the Bill to enable the Postmaster General to open other people's letters at his own discretion or with the still more wonderful Bill to prevent hog reeves and other local officials or broken-down Dominion officials, who have been superannuated because unfit for service, from becoming members of Parliament—and so a source of danger to the State. The Premier has asked for an additional "Government Day"—in order, I presume, that these great measures may be "duly and deliberately considered."

Meantime the House is employed in discussing the route for the Canada Pacific Railway, the proper mode of letting public contracts, and such dull work. We may well afford a few moments' relaxation from the severe mental toil of listening to what the "honorable members" say upon such dry subjects, to "look about us." The "House" is bright with the light of a hundred jets of flame; and the gorgeous hues of its stained, but not storied, windows have faded. Its spacious galleries, stretching on every side, are not "thronged with spectators." A few hundred persons only sit listening, or gazing vacantly into space, wishing "the fun would begin," or chattering, may be, about the Governor General's grand ball, or last night's lecture on the "coming woman," for there are ladies in the gallery. Do you see that dark, fine-looking lady, dressed in simple black and white, in the front seat of the Speaker's Gallery opposite? That is Lady McDonald. She is a great politician—almost as great in her own sphere as her husband is in his. Ah, the honorable gentleman addressing the House has just mentioned her husband's name—and she is, all at once, deep in conversation with her companion! That lady in amber-colored silk and white gloves is Miss McKenzie—evidently a strong-minded lady; and at her right is Mrs. Anglin, a charming woman—so 'tis said. The belles and the beaux of the capital, delight to congregate in the Speaker's gallery—and be admired by their less favored sisters in the "ladies gallery" opposite; by the nicely critical and discriminating editors and reporters opposite; by the venerable, but still gallant, Senators to the left of them; by the miscellaneous citizens to the right of them, by the contending Commoners in front of them—who, from the weary business of the state, occasionally look up and smile, as eye meets eye, in friendly recognition. The mace—that talismanic bauble—is on the table, and the Speaker is, of course, in his chair. Before him sits the Chief Clerk and his two subordinates—one to read and write English, the other to read and write French. A little further on, the "Hansard" reporters exercise their marvellous art; and as the quickly flowing words fall from the lips of wisdom, catch them up and store them up for the instruction and delight of future generations. On the Speaker's right, are the Ministers—not in their Windsor uniforms—who, by their fatal impolicy, have led Canada, step by step, to the "most calamitous and disgraceful situation to which a once flourishing country can be reduced." Behind them sit their followers, whose rage of defamation and audacity of falsehood would overwhelm Her Majesty's Opposition in vilification, and corrupt act of the "paity" appear pure as the driven snow, and clear of taint as the air of heaven. A fatal principle pervades the ranks of this "paity." It is a perfect indifference to the violation of principles and engagements. This principle is so mingled in the blood, marrow and very essence of the "paity" that when one of its leaders laughs to day at what he asserted yesterday, it is considered the natural order of things. See, there, close to the Speaker's chair, is Huntington. A large, bold man, smooth, regular features and ponderous voice,—great—and great only—at using big sounding words:

"In every theme his wondrous art,
Heaven's awful thunder
Or a rumbling cart."

Beside Huntington sits Laflamme—awaiting the decision of the Courts; and next to him, with his cap on, is McKenzie, a man of good intentions and good principles—who has not firmness enough to avoid inconsistent or dishonorable actions when incited to them by the vampires who surround him; who has feeling enough to be ashamed of political crimes, yet lacks the courage to refrain from perpetrating them if his party be thereby strengthened or his partisans obliged. Behind the Premier sits Blake, who is regarded by all good Grits such as an Indian medicine man is regarded by his tribe; and to his left is Coffin, at once an object of derision to his opponents and of melancholy pity to his friends. That man with the sparkling head, and air of smooth respectability—that is Dymond—Mr. Dymond, of North York—the Parliamentary editor of the Toronto Globe. He is industrious and painstaking; but not very popular. The feeling with respect to him is expressed in the words:

"I do not like you, Dr. Fell,
The reason why I cannot tell.
But this, I'm sure, I know full well,
I do not like you, Dr. Fell."

To the left of the Speaker sits Langevin, Pope, Sir John McDonald, Tupper, Masson, Mitchell—household names—the leaders of
