

A Tale of Beauty.

Oh! well I remember that festive hour, In a land that's far away, In youth, I succumbed to beauty's power.

To its dear resistless sway! A fair one gazed, on the brilliant crowd, For a gorgeous pageant was thine, Nor dreamt she once, where thousands stood, The fairest was she, of the Fair!

Oh, she was bright, as the new blown Rose, And sweet, as that lovely flower, This heart full well of her beauty can tell;

And the spell, of that witching hour! For the smile, that played, round her curling lip,

Thro' the bosom electric flew, As sparkling bright, her eyes flashed light, Of the violet's deepest blue.

And, adown her neck, the auburn rich, In vagrant tresses did roam, Her neck, like the seamew's snow white wing,

Or the wild-waves dashing foam! Her steps of grace, I did lingering trace, As she followed the gandy train, Oh, when shall I meet her sylph like form

And her radiant smile again?

Again we met in a sacred fane, A galaxy gay were there, Like an angel bright, she was robed in white,

And orange flowers decked her hair, A ring of gold, one hand adorned, To a youth she gave the other, They knelt, by the holy altar's rail, She was now the bride of another!

McALBYN. Ch'town, July 30, 1883.

Kitchen Progress.

Even in the kitchen inventive genius has gained a strong foothold, entirely usurping the primitive methods practised by our grandmothers in the performance of their domestic duties.

Mechanical contrivances of all kinds supply what in former years required dexterity. Griddles themselves, do the cake turning. Eggs are beaten by a crank; the coffee bean is not only roasted and ground by machinery, but the drink made by a clever contrivance that considerably whistles when the beverage is done!

A child, nowadays, may successfully fry Saratoga potatoes. An open-work basket is set in a pan of fat, with the article to be fried in it. The pan is furnished with a high handle with a hook in the middle. The instant the thing to be cooked has assumed the delicate golden brown appropriate to viands cooked in this way the basket is lifted and hung upon the hook to drip and dry. There is no marbling of the symmetry of outline of the fragile delicacies, no spattering of grease in the endeavor to fish them out, and there are no last ones to burn while waiting their turn to be taken out. Then the new broiler, which permits the article to be tightly shut in, obviating all danger of depositing it upon the floor, or in the fire, but catches every drop of juice that may exude. When the broiler is turned over, the juices are thrown back upon the meat, which thus bastes itself. To those unsuccessful ones who have not yet arrived at the solution of the problem of how to cook a chop over a quick fire, without burning the fat, those broilers will bring success and relief from their perplexities. Those fond of nicely shaped griddle cakes will rejoice over a griddle made with an hinge in the middle. One side has a number of circular depressions into which the batter is dropped. When the cakes are done on the under side the griddle is simply folded over on itself, which deposits them on their other side on the opposite half of the griddle, leaving the empty places ready for more. Then there are ironing boards covered and ready for use, and the various articles, light and serviceable and unbreakable, like buckets and basins and foot-tubs made of papier mache. In consequence of these improvements, household need no longer be dreared by the unskilful.

Joaquin Miller on Canada. MORE SOLID HAPPINESS HERE THAN IN THE STATES.

Joaquin Miller, the Poet of the Sierras, writes a characteristic letter to the Quebec Chronicle of people and things in Canada. He says of himself:—"I have been roaming industriously up and down Canada now for two weeks, and as one of the general results of my observations I am bound to bear testimony that there is more solid happiness to the square mile in Canada than in the United States. Then again he says of this country:—"In fact, this is a land of room, and it is a land to be filled up in time entirely with people; a land of tremendous possibilities. For reasons I have not space to explain, I count it forty-fold more desirable than Mexico, toward which America has set her face of late."

A Good Day's Work.

The editor of the Berlin News, wants to know if he can take the cake. In his respect of this one-day's work of his:— On Friday, 20th inst., he spent from five to seven in going over several dozen exchanges, and making selections for the paper. Seven to nine were spent in breakfast, looking after farm matters and getting to the office. From nine to two he wrote three columns of copy, including two first-class editorials, read proofs, and made up forms for the daily.

He then walked over a mile home, and with the aid of a boy, not quite ten years old, and a hired man, hauled into the barn seven loads of hay. These were all from three quarters of a ton to a ton in size, and the work was done by actual labor without the aid of any patent pitchers or unloaders. This is a regular fact, and all the editors in Canada have the floor to say if they can beat this record.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:—"78 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882. MESSRS. J. C. AYER & CO., GENTLEMEN: Last winter I was troubled with a most unaccountable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-mentioned disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good. Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect capability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists, price $1, six bottles for $5.

MONTEREAL, May 14, 1883.

DEAR DOCTOR,—Just a few lines as promised by me. I am more than pleased with the "Liver Pad" I got from you when in Charlottetown, and am conscientiously saying that it is the best thing I ever saw or heard of. It has done for me what all kinds of medicine and different physicians could not do for me—i. e., removed a very nasty body eruption, which had given me a great deal of annoyance for more than two years; and, more than that, I have not been troubled with a single headache since I have used it. Before wearing the Pad I was troubled with severe headache continually; and that very objectionable feeling of "sluggishness" and dullness has entirely left me—in fact I am a new man, to what I was before wearing it. I am truly thankful to you for what you have done for me, and I hope that you may be long spared to the benefit of the public. Believe me, Yours sincerely, FRANK ELLIOTT. DR.
