TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENT YESTERDAY

Miss Anna O'Brien of O'Leary, and Mr. Edward Moore of Kensington were in hospital last night following an automobile accident on the Malpeque Road five miles from Charlottetown yesterday morning. They were suffering from bruises and shock, hospital authorities said.

A coupe driven by Cliff Young of Toronto in which Miss O'Brien and Moore were passengers was forced off the crowded highway, according to Young, and it crashed into the ditch. The car, bearing an Ontario license plate, was badly damaged. The accident occurred on what is known as Hall's Hill.

All day rumors of accidents continued to be heard all about the city. As the day wore on the rumors became increasingly serious. But a check of the various supposed accidents proved they were only "mist". So it was ascertained from Royal Canadian Mounted and other sources the day passed without serious accident, except for the one on the Malpeque Road referred to above. True there was the occasional dented fender or other minor mishap but even those were not frequent. It was a tribute to those in charge of policing arrangements, to the officers on duty and to the drivers of motor vehicles.

There appeared to have been little or no need for the services of first aid workers in the city, although ample provision was made to take care of all emergencies. "Lost" school children were frequent but the little tots were gathered into the local police station and awaited there with happy girls until their parents, teachers or others of their acquaintances rescued them. Scouts, Rangers and Guides did their bit in locating many lost children.

A Birthday To Remember

King George took a great interest in Mr. John Duffy, aged butler at Government House yesterday. It was Mr. Duffy's 73rd birthday and he said his best present was his conversation with Their Majesties. After the Royal Couple had been introduced to more than 80 of Prince Edward Island dignitaries, King George strode up to the butler and asked him how long he had been at Government House. "Fifty-two years, Your Majesty." "Fifty, that's a long time. How old are you?" "I'm 73 today Sir."

Epileptic Wrote Pepsyian Diary To Aid Research

By GUY E. RHOADES, Canadian Press Staff Writer. LONDON, June 14—An elderly, introspective bachelor who suffered from epilepsy has been disclosed as an unsung hero of medical science, but only his doctor knows his name. "Mr. X," the central character in an article in The Lancet by Sir Arthur Hall, kept a "Pepsyian" diary for 37 years, describing his fits as well as he could remember them and recording the times of their occurrence. From the diary Sir Arthur, eminent professor of medicine in the University of Sheffield, was able to build a complete history of one case of epilepsy from the time when "Mr. X" was 37 years old until his death in 1931 at the age of 64.

An official statement from the Royal train already has said the King and Queen have been touched most deeply by the way in which the people of Canada and of the parts of the United States visited have received them. The informality and genuineness of the welcome demonstrated, they feel, that their reception has sprung from the hearts of a free people.

Enthusiastic "Sendoff" For Royalty

On the departure of the Sovereigns, the enthusiasm of the crowd in its expression of loyalty knew no bounds. They broke through police barriers at the Marine Wharf and surrounded the royal car. It might have been an anxious time for officials, but the presence of a large group of "bereted" returned men helped to ease any apprehension that was felt. All in all it was a rousing send-off.

A body of veterans determined to catch a last glimpse of the King and Queen at close quarters and to give them a "royal" sendoff led the surge through the police platoon and more than half of them were running down the wharf before the surprised constables rallied and stemmed the tide.

Meanwhile, civilians were infiltrating through an adjacent lumber yard and in half a minute a mixed body of men, women and children were racing after the royal train.

Their Majesties alighted from their car and good naturedly met the exhibition of spontaneous loyalty. They walked slowly down the wharf, flanked by the shouting enthusiastic crowd.

The Queen personally shook hands with every man of the motor cycle escort and with the boys of the Boy Scouts, who were much appreciated for their sterling services during the tour.

Then the Royal Party boarded the Skeena at a Prince Edward Island red letter day was over. The King and Queen stood on the deck of the warship in full view of the crowd as they were cast off and the ship drew away slowly from the dock. The prolonged cheering of the crowd and the blast of ship sirens was a "bon voyage" of loyal subjects here.

Short Scenes From The Royal Visit

Just before the two destroyers were slated to move into sight of Charlottetown harbor, the streets of the city were alive with masses of people. Veterans of the Great War marched to their positions along the royal route led by a Scottish pipe band; fraternal societies, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, and the special police units were moved into position.

School children of the province were provided for by the provincial committee in case of rain. Instead of having to stand at their appointed place along the royal route waiting for their Majesties to appear, they were made to shelter 6,000 of them in the city schools and Prince of Wales College.

A group of guests at the Government House luncheon heard King George say this when he tripped on the stairs while descending and tumbled slightly: "That's hell!"

Visiting newsmen expressed themselves as agreeably surprised by the warmness of welcome on the island people. They were also loud in their praise for the fine decorations which bedecked the Royal route.

Island militia units were out in force yesterday and their fine appearance drew compliments on every side. The P. E. I. Highlanders, Col. C. Thompson, O. C.; P. E. I. Light Horse, Col. L. T. Lowther, O. C.; P. E. I. Medium Brigade, Col. E. S. Fielding, O. C.; P. E. I. Artillery, Col. J. Blake, O. C. and R. C. N. V. R. Lieut. Commander J. J. Connolly lined the royal route at various points and came to the Royal Salute as the Sovereigns passed by. Total strength of the militia yesterday was estimated around 800. School cadets were also on parade.

Variety is the spice of life and the Island Province lived up to its reputation of providing something different—yet not a high degree, the result is a tone as near perfect as man can produce, according to the inventor. Mr. De Marky says the action of the instrument is as fine as the best concert pianos. He can control the volume with the touch of a pedal and play anything from the wispiest instantaneously. Outwardly the new instrument can be distinguished from an ordinary piano.

Wired to a public address system, the "Bonabel" was used today to fill the formal gardens of Government House with music. Guests who had never heard the bell-like tones of the piano before were at a loss to understand what kind of instrument it was but all agreed it was Royal music for a Royal occasion.

AMPLIFYING PIANO PLAYED AT GOVT. HOUSE

Performance Given By Mr. Paul De Marky On Newly Invented Instrument. Music for their Majesties! Oswald Michael's invention, the new Sonabel amplifying piano was played in the Government House yesterday and it was before Royalty at that.

Through the efforts of Lieutenant Governor DeLois, Mr. Michael and his "Sonabel" were brought to Charlottetown for the entertainment of King George and Queen Elizabeth at the Stratford House, the famous Montreal pianist, was engaged to play it.

Singing the ethereal beauty of their own and they sounded on ears that never heard them before. Mr. De Marky featured "Ballade" a composition written by William Keln Rogers of Charlottetown.

While the Royal party and the rest of the Government's guests dined, Mr. De Marky played seven selections. His first was a waltz, "Spring Voice" from the Straussian Scherzo in C sharp minor by Chopin. In Allegro from Opus 7, by Beethoven. Fantasia B Major, by Liszt. Etude Minor by Chopin. "Dreamer's tale" by Peterkin. La Campanella by Liszt, and Elvira's arrangement of the Queen Elizabeth requested Mr. De Marky to play the Blue Danube.

Mr. Michael, a Montreal French-Canadian and a professor of music at the University of Montreal, says the tone of his instrument amplified the natural and not synthetic.

The piano, he explained has no sounding board and the vibrations of each string are picked up by a microphone and amplified. It is as simple as that.

Because each string and microphone can be tuned and balanced to a high degree, the result is a tone as near perfect as man can produce, according to the inventor.

Mr. De Marky says the action of the instrument is as fine as the best concert pianos. He can control the volume with the touch of a pedal and play anything from the wispiest instantaneously. Outwardly the new instrument can be distinguished from an ordinary piano.

Wired to a public address system, the "Bonabel" was used today to fill the formal gardens of Government House with music. Mayor Foster Is Entertained At Banquet

His Worship Ernest A. Foster, Mayor of Charlottetown was presided last night with a beautiful silver tray by members of the City Council to commemorate the visit of Their Majesties, the King and Queen to Charlottetown, June 14, 1939, at a dinner at the Queen Hotel. Mayors from other incorporated towns in the Province were included in the list of guests.

Coun. B. Roy Holman, deputy mayor presided while Coun. R. C. Chandler gave the address of presentation and Coun. J. E. Blanchard handed the gift to Mayor Foster.

His Worship, taken completely by surprise, expressed his deep thanks for the gift and the sentiment it expressed. He had warm words for the members of his Council and City officials for the efficient manner in which they carried out their duties in connection with the Royal visit. He believed that not even the rain marred the visit. He mentioned particularly Coun. McIntyre who looked after the children. They expected about 6,800 and there must have been 15,000. His Worship declared.

Only one toast was honored, that to Their Majesties. Short addresses were made by Mayor J. E. Campbell of Summerside, who expressed his great pride in being a Scotman after seeing Her Gracious Majesty yesterday. And so far as the King was concerned he was "proud" to be a British subject and being presented, Mayor Campbell made a hit with the dinner party when he improvised a song.

large purple hat and pearl jewelry. Mrs. Bardett wore a pink brocaded chiffon dress with a large pink hat. Those serving at the tea which was held in Government House after the departure of Their Majesties—about seventy of the younger guests all wore long dresses. Blues perhaps predominated but many other lovely color combinations and soft subtle fabrics were in evidence. A most colorful reception and memorable event.

The dinner concluded with the singing of the National Anthem. As the group broke up the gathering sang "And Lang Syne." Piano music was furnished throughout dinner by Mr. Albert Blanchard. In addition he accompanied the several impromptu solos which were rendered. The silver tray presented to Mayor Foster bore the following inscription:

Presented to Ernest A. Foster, Mayor, to commemorate the visit of Their Majesties, the King and Queen to Charlottetown, June 14, 1939.

Dear to Scottish hearts to sing "Bonnie George Has Gawn Awa". The whole party entered with gusto and feeling into the chorus "Will He No Come Back Again?" Mayor Campbell was followed in turn by Mayor J. J. Condon of Georgetown, Mayor S. E. Burke of Alberton, and Mayor George McIntyre of Montague. Then came City Recorder K. M. Martin followed by Coun. A. A. Hennessey, and Major W. A. Smith, City Police Court Clerk, who had the distinction of serving in the same unit overseas as His Majesty King George VI. Major Smith was believed to be the only man in the Province yesterday to enjoy that distinction. Other members of the City Council followed, including Coun. J. E. Blanchard, Coun. Heath McIntyre, Coun. Henry Laphorn and Coun. J. T. McKee. Other speakers included Chief of Police A. Birnie, Corporal Graham of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in charge of "A" section of the Royal motor cycle patrol, which accompanied Their Majesties across Canada, Frederick Large, City official, Charles J. Mitchell and Vere Beck representing the press. Speakers generally could not find words sufficiently eloquent to express their feelings for the Royal couple. A new loyalty and a better democracy would result from the visit. Speakers also had words of praise for the magnificent way in which Mayor Foster represented the citizens of Charlottetown. The dinner concluded with the singing of the National Anthem. As the group broke up the gathering sang "And Lang Syne." Piano music was furnished throughout dinner by Mr. Albert Blanchard. In addition he accompanied the several impromptu solos which were rendered. The silver tray presented to Mayor Foster bore the following inscription: Presented to Ernest A.
