Double Ring Ceremony Unites Happy Couple

Arrangements of pink and white gladioli decorated the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer on August 30th, when Lillian Theresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Quinn, Waterville and John Mark, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Quilty of South Shore, were united in the sacrament of holy matrimony.

Reverend C. Moreau, C.S.S.R. officiated at the double-ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The organist was Mr. Alex MacLean and Misses Coleen and Florence MacAleer sang hymns during the mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her floor length gown of white silk organza with V-neckline accented by embroidered lace motifs. She wore a finger-tip veil of silk illusion and carried a white missal decorated with red roses.

The maid of honor Miss Mary Elaine Trainor, wore a ballerina length gown of turquoise net over taffeta with matching hat and mitts. She carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers.

The bridesmaid Mrs. Clifford Hogan, wore a ballerina length gown of pink net over taffeta with matching hat and mitts. She carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers.

Mr. William Quilty, brother of the groom, was best man. The guests were ushered by Mr. Earl Quinn and Mr. Clifford Hogan.

The mother of the bride chose a navy lace over taffeta dress with matching picture hat. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Walter Quilty, aunt of the groom, wore a rose ficotina crepe dress with matching hat and white corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception for approximately one hundred and twenty guests was held at Central Royalty. The bride's table was centered with a four-tier wedding cake.

Mr. William Brown acted as toastmaster. Reverend C. Moreau, C.S.S.R. proposed the toast to the bride. Miss Ernestine Hughes was in charge of the guest book.

The couple then left on a honeymoon trip to Nova Scotia. For travelling the bride chose a pink check suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Out of the province guests were: Mrs. James Dowling of Moncton, N.B. Miss Patricia Dowling of Moncton, N.B. Mr. William Quilty of Toronto, Ont. Mr. Melvin Curley of Boston, Mass., Mr. Harold Curley of Toronto, Ont.

Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Mary Elaine Trainor, Charlottetown and by the community of Waterville at the home of her brother, Mr. Earl Quinn, in Lake Verde, on both occasions she received many beautiful and useful gifts.

On the return from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Quilty were given a reception at their home by their friends in South Shore. At this reception Mr. Clifford Hogan read the addresses and Mr. Thomas Murphy made the presentations from the community. Mr. and Mrs. Quilty are now residing in South Shore. —Photo by Craswell.

Current Magazines Offer Rich Browsing

If you enjoy a sunny window and leafing through a variety of magazines at the Charlottetown Library as I do, you will wish to read through the entire articles that I can deal with only briefly, here.

THE MAN'S FAULT in the September "Atlantic," Agnes de Mille, famous dancer brings comfort to all frustrated housewives. In her article, "Artist or Wife," she says, in effect (though not in these words) to the woman who feels she might have been a great singer, writer, artist, moving-picture star etc., etc. It isn't your fault that you're stuck here with the dishes and the children. Man always was and still is Master and his has been, and still is, his will to keep his woman chained to the kitchen, tied to the crib. If she tries to achieve anything outside the home he treats her as Freak-So—since she wants nothing but to please her Master, she stifles, suppresses, denies All Her Talents!

ALASKAN SAGA—A magazine "Think" contains an unusual number of fascinating articles. Published in New York, by the International Business Machines Corporation. This magazine will be a must on my reading list. One article, "Alaskan Saga" (by Frank J. Taylor) tells many things we never learned in school about "Seward's Folly" the purchase in 1867 of all Russia's holdings on this continent by the then Secretary of State of the U.S. for $7,200,000.

Alaska, now the 49th state in the U.S., has fabulous riches for Canada as well as the U.S. Also it is now "the westernmost anchorage of the DEW—Distant Early Warning line" that protects both great countries against surprise attacks from the air.

You will wonder at the possibilities of this great area—586,400 sq. miles only 2 percent of which has been surveyed—and at the thrilling struggle for power and furs that went on between ruthless leaders some 100 years before its purchase by the U.S.

MODERN WHALERS—Another exceptional article in "Think" magazine is "Modern Hunters of Moby Dick" (Ivan T. Sanderson). Though there are now floating factories, pressure cookers high velocity harpoons used in this ancient industry—it still takes men like the particular skipper described by the author thus: "The Skipper of a Catcher-ship—a seaman superb—just about the most hard-boiled, rugged, shrewd breed of man in the world today."

HEREDITY MOST IMPORTANT—Those who are deeply interested in the field of mental disease will find there has been a startling change in tracing the cause of the disease to heredity rather than environment in the authoritative article in the winter issue of "Queen's Quarterly" by Dr. Dehis White, member of the medical faculty of Queen's University. If this is so, our entire attitude and treatment of mental disease, must change.

ELLEN'S DIARY

African Violets And Woodcarving Are Hobbies

The harvest-dawns break so prettily. Dimly twilight rests on the morning hills. And suddenly appears the rift of light which heralds another new day. Gently it rises and spreads above the dusky woodlands.

What a miracle it is! The silver screen of night turns to amber shades and rose and before long the sun, a bit sober now, climbs above the dark spires and roundins of trees. The day is born!

And watching we invariably think of the sick rooms where the night-lights go out. Will the ill one, restless and wakeful through the long night find at last a healing sleep, as we have often seen them do, in the peace and stillness of the dawn? Or an adult laid aside temporarily from such paths as we turn to follow?

We enjoy that "haze on the far horizon" of the sunny harvest days. It goes well with the present untroubled pace of the housewives at Alderlea, now that their husbands dine and sup away. One may sit on the sheltered verandah and book or mending neglected let one's fancy wander.

Until with a start we recall James' parting reminder of morning: "His chuckling 'I don't know Ellen, if I'll be able to last the day. It's fairly stiff work we go at...'"

And today "if they happen to come Ellen, and the first ones stray away as they sometimes do, you might go in the sty and lift them back beside her. Gently, so they won't complain. You needn't be afraid of her! She's as quiet as a kitten."

As good fortune would have it our day was without such concern. James himself was present when between the dark and the daylight of evening our herd was increased by the arrival of the first of the autumn litters of piglets.

"A nice litter-plenty" James observed counting noses.

"And I never saw healthier animals—or smarter" the younger farmer said.

In the busy-ness of the harvest-time, it seems that the traffic by day on this road of ours is lighter. But delivery vans pass, the milkman too on his round, the milkman to pick up or return the cans to the farmers' gate, the cream-man on his day; the gasoline man with his colorful load, an angler's car, and strangers.

September vacationist came by Alderlea recently. An interesting pair. He an Island lad of once, drawn back from the New England State of his adoption, to revisit remembered scenes in this land of his birth; she an American lady of charming accent, so pleased to have him enjoy the holiday with his kin and friends. Restored now, he keeps comfortably busy with his hobby of woodcarving, making delicately wrought and beautiful items of this handicraft with an artist's eye and a gifted touch.

"My hobby?" she smiled. "I guess it must be raising African Violets! I enjoy doing this... oh, just to give to friends or often to help raise funds for some worthy cause. It's an interesting pastime and they bring happiness somewhere."

Good and kindly folk these. May they have nice holidaying and at its close, a safe journey home!

Until tomorrow — — — Diary, Good-night.
