BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

THE PLAYFUL ONE

A little play in every day
Will drive your worries far away.
—Little Joe Otter.

Little Joe Otter isn't little. Of course he was little once, and that is when everybody called him Little Joe. The name stuck as names have a way of sticking. This is why many folks seldom hear their own names all through life. They are called by nicknames.

Little Joe is a member of the Weasel family, and that is quite a family. Some of the members do not look at all alike. Shadow the Weasel is the smallest member of the family. Then there are Billy Mink, Jimmy Skunk, Pekan the Fisher and Sprite the Marten. Of all these none gets so much fun out of living as does Little Joe Otter. This is because he has learned how to play, and he does a little playing every day.

Little Joe is a great traveler. He loves to go visiting. He travels from one brook to another and goes up and down each. He goes up and down rivers for long distances. He visits ponds and lakes. No one knows better than does Little Joe the best fishing places. This night he had come down Laughing Brook to the pond of

He travels from one brook to another and goes up and down each.

Paddy the Beaver, deep in the Green Forest. One of the twins of Mrs. Lightfoot the Deer saw him when he came swimming out of Laughing Brook into the pond.

"That's a funny looking Beaver. See what a round head he has," said one of the twins to the other.

"That isn't a Beaver," said Mother Lightfoot. "That is Little Joe Otter. I wonder where he has come from, and I wonder where he is going."

"Perhaps he isn't going anywhere. Perhaps he'll stay," said one of the twins.

"If he does," replied Mother Lightfoot. "Paddy the Beaver and Mrs. Paddy won't like it much. No, sir, they won't like it."

"Why?" one of the twins wanted to know.

"Because sometimes Little Joe makes trouble for them. I think they are a little afraid of him. Anyway, that is what I've heard," explained mother.

Meanwhile, Little Joe had climbed out on the bank. Now he was coming along the shore toward them. His legs were rather short, but he moved quickly and gracefully.

"Good evening, Mrs. Lightfoot," said he as he drew near. "I suppose those are your children. They are as fine a pair of young Deer as I have seen anywhere in my travels."

"Are you going to stay here a while?" asked Mrs. Lightfoot.

"Not for long," replied Little Joe. "It is a nice pond, but there is no place for a slippery-slide. There isn't a steep enough bank overtop with the queen. This maneuver put South in difficulties. If he took the trick with the king, West would have a heart left to lead when he got in with a diamond or a spade; whereas, on South's actual duck East was able to shift at the second trick to his top club.

South's club jack was covered by West, who then returned his remaining heart. This time East put up the ace, and realizing that his own hand was dead, he again shifted to his partner's club suit. It did not matter now whether South played the ace or the ten—West was sure to clear his clubs, and South had no play for his contract when West turned up with a diamond stopper.

If East had failed to play his heart queen on West's jack at the first trick, declarer would have had an easy time of it by holding up the heart king, as he did.

Contract Bridge

A MATTER OF TIMING

Successful defense in the following deal depended on perfect timing

North dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

♠ K 5	♠ 8 8 4
♥ 7 3	♥ A Q 10 8
♦ A K 9 7 4 3 2	♦ 5 2
♣ 4 3	♣ 8 6 2

♠ Q 10 6 ♠ 8 8 4
 ♥ J 6 ♥ A Q 10 8
 ♦ J 10 8 ♦ 5 2
 ♣ K Q 9 7 ♣ 8 6 2
 ♣ ♣ 8 6 2
 ♠ A J 7 3 2 ♠ 8 6 2
 ♥ K 9 4 ♥ A Q 10 8
 ♦ 6 5 ♦ 5 2
 ♣ A J 10 ♣ 8 6 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠	1♥	1♠	2♣
2♦	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♦	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

It may be thought that North overbid in making his three consecutive calls, but the fact is that he was correct throughout. Indeed, his three-diamond bid over South's two notrump was not a show of "additional strength"—it was actually a warning that North himself, aside from a very long diamond suit, had little to contribute to a notrump contract. With solidity in diamonds, or more outside values, North would have raised the two notrump to three.

South, however, could not be blamed for persisting to three notrump.

West's opening lead was the heart jack, and East shrewdly
