her lap was a plate of food. Without hesitating, Fat Johnny reached over and helped himself. Then he sat up very straight on the box until he had finished eating what he had taken.

"Does he eat anything but bread?" asked Farmer Brown's Boy.

Aunt Sally laughed. "He eats everything," she said. "He loves cake. When I have apple pie I always share it with him. It would be easier to say what he doesn't eat than what he does eat." She reached over on the table and picked up a big piece of cake. She held it out to Fat Johnny. "Would you like a piece of my birthday cake?" she asked softly. "It is my 90th birthday today." She turned to Farmer Brown's Boy. "You never thought to see an old lady ninety years old sharing her birthday cake with a Woodchuck, did you?" she said.
