Bailed Out While Piloting Plane At Supersonic Speed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Faster than the speed of sound the fighter plane blasted downward at an 80-degree angle. Its controls were locked.

Test pilot George Smith, 31, turned off his fuel, opened the speed braker and pulled his helmet visor over his eyes. With his right hand he pulled up on the armrest of his seat, automatically ejecting the canopy. Two seconds more and it would have been too late.

On Feb. 26, 1955, Smith became the first pilot to bail out of a plane travelling supersonically and live. He lost consciousness and didn't come to until five days later in a hospital, where he stayed six months.

It has been estimated that Smith was subjected to a decelerative force of 40 times the pull of gravity as his parachute snapped open. There was bleeding in all parts of the body as the pull increased George's weight from its 215 pounds to the equivalent force of 8,000 in a split second.

RING SHAKEN OFF

His arms flailed with such force after he left the plane that his wristwatch, gloves and signet ring were shaken off. For several days Smith was blind because of bleeding in the eyeballs and damage to here in.

Smith recalls very little of his jump. Only now has the security classification secret been removed from it after medical experts studied the case. The pilot and the air force told the story today.

At 35,000 feet altitude above the ocean the controls jammed on his F-100 Super Sabre. George ejected himself and the rush of air going by at nearly 800 miles an hour made a tremendous noise which he described as sounding like a continuous barrage of heavy guns.

It is believed that he bailed out at about 6,500 feet. In just two seconds more his parachute wouldn't have had time to open.

RESCUED FLYER

Los Angeles businessman Art Berkell, lawyer Mel Simon and the later's 15-year-old son were fishing off the southern California coast on a day when it had been raining and most fishermen stayed home. Berkell saw a geyser of white and foaming water shoot up about 200 yards aft of their fishing cruiser. The boy saw a limp figure floating from the end of a torn parachute.

Berkell had been a navy air-sea rescue man in the Second World War. George Smith became his 276th rescue.

The test pilot's shoes and socks were gone. Hs clothes were in ribbons. He was bleeding from cuts on his forehead, chin and feet. It appeared that a third of his parachute canopy was torn away in striking the water. His helmet and oxygen mask were gone.

He was soon transferred to a coast guard cruiser and then to a hospital.

SEVERE SHOCK

At first Smith was in so severe a shock that his pulse was barely audible. After months of treatment he has gained back to 175 pounds, his eyes remain a bit sensitive to flare and there is a slight lack of color perception. But his vision is again 20-20. Damage to his liver means he can never touch anything containing alcohol.

Smiths bail-out gave the air force and medicine valuable information which could save countless pilots in the future. What does the test pilot want to do now?

On Aug. 23, he passed the Civil Aeronautics Administration physical examination regaining his commercial flying certificate. So he wants to fly a plane at 2,000 mph.

SPRINGFIELD W.I

The forty-second annual meeting of Springfield W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Reginald Haslam Nov. 2 with the president presiding. Roll call was answered by nine members paying their fees. Minutes of the last annual and the October meeting were read and approved and two guests welcomed.

The president in her address noted a successful year's work making special mention of the co-operation of the members, the sale of histories and the interest and educational value of the planned yearly programmes. Annual reports were received from the treasurer and standing committees and correspondence was read and discussed.

Miss Muriel Haslam and Mrs. Clarence Haslam volunteered to collect for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. It was voted that, we work as a group for U. S. C. and donate two premium blankets, become group members of the Music Festival, and also of the Drama Association.

The only change in officers was that of secretary and Mrs. Muriel Haslam was elected to that office. The following members had a perfect record of attendance during the past year: Mrs. Andrew Hughes Mrs. Keith Mayne and Mrs. George Dunning.

Mrs. Crawford Sinclair, Mrs. Clarence Haslam and Mrs. William Haslam volunteered to attend to the Children's Christmas treat. Suggestions for the 1956 program were passed in and Mrs. Keith Mayne, Mrs. George Dunning and Mrs. Gerrit Loo were appointed to plan same. It was decided to suggest a cushion cover as the District Convention project. Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. George Dunning.

Mrs. Andrew Hughes, convenor then read an interesting paper relating to Institute work and conducted the program which consisted of three excellent original poems on work accomplished during the year. Mrs. Norris Sinclair and Mrs. Ivan Lambe, the judges, awarded the prize to our poet laureate, Mrs. William Haslam with Mrs. Keith Mayne and Mrs. Crawford Sinclair receiving honorable mention.

A pleasing highlight of the program was the presentation of Life membership pins and certificates to Mrs. Andrew Hughes and Miss Muriel Haslam in appreciation of their faithful services to this branch through the years. The citation in poem form was composed and read by Mrs. Keith Mayne.

The special guest of the evening, Mrs. Ivan Lambe, was also presented with a gift, a table lamp, and regret at her departure from our midst expressed in a poetical address by Mrs. William Haslam.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Island Hymn and lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.

Spells Out Price For Guaranteed Annual Wage

TORONTO (CP)—Lionel A. Forsyth president of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, said Monday that if workers want a guaranteed annual wage they must increase production and give up their right to strike.

He told a Canadian Club luncheon the GAW "cannot be attained without continuous and uninterrupted production."

"In an economy of minimum hours and guaranteed security of remuneration, there is and can be no place for strikes or other wasteful and uneconomic work stoppages."

Canada's present high standard of living has been reached by putting the future "in pawn to the present."

"To suggest this drain on our future can be met by less work and more leisure is an economic heresy I am loathe to accept," he said.

Mr. Forsyth, whose corporation and subsidiaries employ 30,000 workers, said it is time for both labor and management to accept fully their economic obligations.

SAYS LABOR PROFITS

He suggested labor has taken the greatest profit from increased mechanization without assuming responsibility for assuring maximum production.

Some sections of management are continuing an "infantile' system of labor relations in which they try to overwhelm unions by a show of economic strength. Both sides should start "practising the gospel of acceptance of obligation instead of the assumption of privilege."

Organized labor is "perhaps the greatest single force in our politico-economic organization," but it is threatened with self-destruction if it continues to press only in one direction without accepting its responsibilities.

Canada's potential can be realized "only by one of the nobler four-letter words in our language—work," he said.
