

N.H.L. Referees Subject To $25 Fine When Lax

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
MONTREAL (CP)—Through a new regulation that has been kept hush-hush all season, National Hockey League referees are subject to fines when deemed lax in cracking down with misconduct penalties.

Several of the players insisted that Udvari told Richard in effect: "I'll see that you are fined instead of me."
Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens said he thinks the regulation is "a sign of weakness."

It was learned also that management of clubs can complain to NHL headquarters of laxness of referees in imposing misconduct penalties. The complaints are then discussed by Voss with the referees before any action is taken.

Montreal Canadiens have just returned from a road trip during which Maurice (Rocket) Richard was given misconduct penalties in two successive games. They were inclined to think the action of the referees was precipitate and unusually hasty.

They said Richard drew a misconduct in New York, from referee Frank Udvari, for asking why a minor had been imposed.
