FOR SALE.

RARE CHANCE

The property occupied by J. J. Gay and son situate in the village of Pownal, 7 miles from Charlottetown, is offered for sale. The proprietors have carried on a large market garden nursery, and seed business for thirty years, and the purchaser will no doubt obtain a large share of the local trade. The premises comprise a large dwelling house, store, warehouse, barn, shed, orchard, and about 13 acres of the most fertile land on the Island. This land has been manured year after year, for so long that as an old man said the other day: "It is all a bed of manure and could be hauled for top dressing." This would be an ideal spot for a country merchant or it would be admirable for a summer resort. The situation is one of the most beautiful on the Island. Good bathing, fishing, boating, shooting and within easy distance churches, post office school, telephone and shops all at the door.

WAIL OF A FLAT DWELLER.

Mr. Werkenday's Remarks on New York Apartment Bathrooms.
 "A long and bitter experience in apartments forces me to observe," said Mr. Werkenday, shivering as he hopped on the oilcloth of the bathroom with his bare feet, "that the architects who plan the ordinary flat of commerce do not bathe. I don't judge this from their appearance, because they are a particularly clean and nice lot of men. But I cannot believe that any one with the least respect for the importance of the bathroom could treat it with such architectural stepfatherliness.
 "It always is shoved away in a dark corner as far from the bedrooms and as near the parlor or dining room as possible. It always is dark and ventilated by an airshaft up which there blows perpetually a dismal draft that has something on its mind and groans about it all the time. It ought to have something on its mind, for it is a sure killer. Then, of course, the bathroom, being the only place in the house where one takes off all his clothes and gets wet all over, is the place which most frequently has no heating appliances.
 "Again, why do so many architects build the washstand in the hallway instead of in the bathroom, where it belongs? I don't know whether they think that a man enjoys taking his bath in sections or whether they act on the theory that he ought to take it gradually, preparing himself for the bathtub by degrees.
 "I asked an architect once why he did it. 'Well,' said he, 'we hardly ever do differently except in private houses.'
 "Has only the privateer, then, as the Europeans call him, the right to take a complete bath in one room, or has evolution produced a species of flatters who naturally are incapable of doing it?
 "I suppose that the smallness of bathtubs is explained by the lack of room. Of course every flathouse bathtub is too small for any one except an infant, and I have noticed, not without some awe, that in each new flat into which we move the bathtub is smaller than it was in the one preceding. As I am growing stouter each year, a genuine misfortune for one whose finances make a third or fourth flat necessary, I am sure that if we make two or three more 'moves' we will, on this scale of bathtub decrease, find a bathtub into which I will not be able to get at all."—New York Press.

Meeting the Emergency.

"What did that man want?" asked the druggist.
 "A pint of whisky," said the new clerk, who was on trial for a week.
 "Did he have a prescription?"
 "No."
 "Well, what did you do?"
 "I wrote one for him."
 "Consider yourself permanently engaged."—Cleveland Leader.

Unnatural.

"Unnatural child!" moaned the mother and bowed her head and wept miserably.
 Indeed it was doubtful if the girl could be made longer to pass for a child at all, she was that unnatural—her innocence particularly being stilted and forced.—Detroit Journal.

Love of Money.

"Well, no one can accuse me of marrying for money."
 "But Miss Maxwell has money, has she not?"
 "Yes, but only enough to pay off my debts. I call that marrying for love."
 —Judy.

An Even Thing.

"Yes," said the minister, "stormy weather keeps almost as many people away from church as fine weather."
 "What do you mean?"
 "Why, in fine weather they go out on their bicycles."—Nuggets.

Naturally Enough.

Perry Patetic—You are a singer, I don't think. Your voice sounds like the wind blown across a empty jug.
 Wayworn Watson—Why shouldn't it? I ain't had a drink fer two days.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Accounting For It.

"Sich elegant black eyes, Mrs. Murphy. Where does he get them from—from you or Mr. Murphy?"
 "From Mr. Murphy, of course. That's where I got my black eyes from."—New York Truth.

Not Her Fault.

Mistress—Bridget, I am tired of your carelessness. Only look at that dust on the furniture. It's six weeks old at the very least.
 Bridget—Shure it's no fault av moine. I've been here only t'ree weeks.—Up to Date.
