Students' Excursion
 On Thursday afternoon, September 27, 1951, the Teacher Training students of Prince of Wales College, accompanied by their principal, Dr. Frank MacKinnon, their teachers, and Dr. and Mrs. Shaw, enjoyed an excursion to Green Gables and surrounding country.
 The entire Teacher Training group left the College by bus at 2 P.M. Upon arriving at Green Gables the students were separated into groups and toured various points of interest, including Green Gables, the Haunted Wood, and Lovers' Lane.
 Following this tour the group went to Cavendish picnic grounds where a hot supper was served under the supervision of Miss Doris Anderson of the Home Economics Department.
 After supper, the group withdrew to the recreation hall and a short impromptu program, under the direction of Mr. Earl Nicholson, was presented. Talented students and teachers took part in this program and the singing of "The King" ended a very enjoyable party.

Career Of Noteworthy PEI Educationist And Diplomat Reviewed By Chief Justice

Following is the text of the address delivered by Hon. Thane A. Campbell, Chief Justice, at the unveiling of the monument at Freetown on Sunday to the late Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman: "We are met here this afternoon, under the auspices of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, to do honour to the memory of a truly eminent son of Canada, a native of Prince Edward Island and of this country.
 "Until two and a half years ago, the work of the Board in this Province was in charge of Professor D. C. Harvey, himself a native of Prince County. It was largely due to his research and efforts that preparations for this monument were set on foot, and I had hoped that he would be here to deliver the dedication address. Unfortunately, pressure of his work in Nova Scotia has prevented Dr. Harvey from being with us, and the task of addressing you has fallen upon me as his Prince Edward Island successor.
 "It was on a portion of this farm, about a half-mile in the direction of Mill Valley, that Jacob Gould Schurman was born on May 22nd, 1854. He was descended from United Empire Loyalist stock and from Dutch ancestry, though his parents Robert and Lydia (Gould) Schurman were both born in this island. His father and mother were hard-working people and devout Christians, and Jacob was brought up on their fine farm, with its notably well-kept home, in this thriving district of Upper Freetown. He had two older brothers, and as the years went by two sisters and three younger brothers were added to the family.
 A Brilliant Student
 "Jacob entered the village school at the age of five, and soon displayed the qualities of an earnest, thoughtful lad—a quick and diligent student. At the age of ten he was sent to the farm, and followed what was then an effective stepping-stone to a liberal education in this island, by becoming a clerk in the general store of the late David Rogers at Summerside. There he remained about three years, gaining valuable practical business experience, and at the same time studying at Summerside High School.
 "He was then successful in winning the first of the P. E. I. Government Scholarships, and entered Prince of Wales College at Charlottetown in 1870. After two years' study at that institution, he went to Nova Scotia, where he attended Acadia College at Wolfville, from which he graduated in 1875.
 "He then entered the competition for the coveted Gilchrist Scholarship, awarded by the University of London and open to students of all Canadian colleges. By dint of persistent hard work, combined with his native ability, he was successful in winning this scholarship and proceeded to London, England, for the further prosecution of his studies.
 "In 1877 he became a Bachelor of Arts of London University, winning the highest honours, and being awarded two more scholarships, with the aid of which he spent the next year studying at the University of Paris and Edinburgh. In 1878 he received from Edinburgh University the degree of Doctor of Science in Mental and Moral Philosophy.
 "Whereupon, in a competition open to England, Scotland and Wales, he was elected to the Hibbert travelling scholarship for two years. His essay for this competition was entitled "Kantian Ethics and the Ethics of Evolution." It attracted wide-spread attention among students of philosophy, and was published by the Hibbert Trustees in 1881.
 At German Universities
 "Schurman spent most of his time under the travelling scholarship in Germany, at the Universities of Heidelberg, Göttingen and Berlin. There he not only pursued his philosophical studies under many of the great teachers of the day, but he acquired a scholarly and fluent mastery of the German language.
 "He decided to return to Canada and enter the teaching profession. The great breadth and variety of his intellectual attainments are indicated by the nature of his first two professorships, that of English Literature, Political Economy, and Psychology at his alma mater Acadia, 1880-82; and that of English Literature and Metaphysics at Dalhousie College in Halifax, 1882-1886.
 "In 1886 he became Professor of Philosophy at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.; and from 1892 to 1921 he was President of that University. By the end of his presidency, he had received honorary doctorates from eight universities in America and one in Scotland, and had written numerous books and contributions to home and foreign periodicals. His outstanding scholarship, combined with his vigorous enthusiasm and administrative ability, enabled him to raise Cornell to a recognized position among the best educational institutions in America.
 Interest in Politics
 "Although Dr. Schurman's activities during this period were mainly educational, he displayed a keen and active interest in the political affairs of the United States, of which he had become a citizen. Instead of enjoying personal travel and relaxation in his sabbatical years, he accepted commissions of difficulty and importance under numerous presidential administrations.

 "In 1899, McKinley appointed him president of the first United States Philippine Commission, whose duty it was to chart the Government's administrative policies in the possessions newly-acquired as a result of the Spanish-American War. He passed about a year in the Philippines, supervising the interim administration and making a thorough study of conditions; he wrote comprehensive reports, which the Government published in four volumes.
 "By Taft in 1912, he was appointed Minister to Greece and Montenegro, a position which he held during one year's leave from Cornell. During that year he tactfully protected American interests through the period of two Balkan wars.
 "Schurman's political allegiance was to the Republican Party, of which he was an ardent adviser. He never consented to become a candidate for any political office, either locally or nationally, because of his academic connection; and partly, perhaps, because the United States constitution closed the door of the Presidency and Vice-Presidency to one who was born in a foreign country, even in the country of the voluntary exile of his ancestors, had it not been for that rigorous constitutional exclusion, Schurman's high qualities of mind and heart might have won him a candidacy, and a successful candidacy, to the White House itself.
 Elected To State Convention
 "In 1915 he was elected a delegate to the State Constitutional Convention, which was set up in New York. His colleagues elected him first vice-president of the convention, of which Eliken Root was president and Al. Smith a prominent worker. It has been jokingly remarked that he held during one year's leave from Cornell, which he had held for nearly twenty-nine years. "Almost immediately President Harding called him to the post of Minister to China. The transition from the academic phase of his career to the diplomatic was complete. In the course of his four years as Minister to China, he travelled tens of thousands of miles in that great country, and included trips to Korea and Manchuria. He visited every Chinese seaport, and many remote mountainous regions. He personally inspected every one of the twenty American consulates in China, including that in the most distant Province of Yunnan, in whose capital city he was received with gala festivities at the Christmas season of 1923.
 Ambassador to Germany
 "But the culmination of Schurman's diplomatic career was his Ambassadorship to Germany, to which he was appointed by President Coolidge in 1925, which he held until 1930. For this post he had many outstanding qualifications, in addition to his intellectual and administrative competence. His earlier studies at the great German universities had given him an insight into the nobler sides of the German intellect and philosophy.
 "His mastery of the German language, which he spoke almost as fluently and idiomatically as he did English, enabled him to make effective contacts with, and to win general admiration from all classes of the Germans of that day. Though he was 71 when he went to Germany, he was still the personification of energy and enthusiasm, while his training and experience lent to his dignity and mellowness to his official relationships.
 "In presenting his credentials to the German President, Schurman delivered a formal speech, in which he said that he was personally animated by cordial sentiments originating in his youthful studies in Germany, and sustained by prolonged social intercourse. He also expressed a profound admiration for Germany's past contributions to civilization and a firm faith in the ability of the German people to surmount their pressing difficulties.
 Welcomed By Von Hindenburg
 "Von Hindenburg, in reply, welcomed the new Ambassador as a former student of three German universities, as a servant of world reputation, as president for many years of the famous Cornell University, and as one having an especially full appreciation of American-German cultural and spiritual relations. He referred on the other hand, to the honest intentions of the German people.
 ST. PETER'S A. Y. P. A.
 St. Peter's Cathedral A. Y. P. A. had its first party of the 1951-52 season Thursday night Oct. 4th, when, after much scrambling around and a few delays, the group arrived at Shama's cottage at Lewis Point for a hamburger party.
 Old-time and modern music was provided by Albert Weatherbie at the gramophone, and lots of hamburgers and coke were issued by the lunch committee, Marjorie MacPherson and Ann MacCabe.
 The party wound up with a reminder from the President, Helen Acorn, that the bowling season would start Tuesday night at 7 P.M. at the Y. M. C. A.

man people, who are bent upon a real peace.
 "It was not until after the war that Schurman was over-optimistic as to the ability of the German people to maintain their 'bent for peace' which Hindenburg stressed in 1925. It was a viewpoint shared with a large portion of the Anglo-American world. And it is a matter of satisfaction to realize that the United States could have sent to Germany during those important years no representative more competent to foster, and give a real chance to the development of, German-American peace and friendship, than was Jacob Gould Schurman.
 "Nor did Schurman the diplomat entirely divest himself of educational interests. In 1927 he succeeded in raising a fund of $500,000 from American contributors, for the erection of a new building at Heidelberg University. The building, known as Schurman Hall, was dedicated in 1931, and the sponsor was honoured with the freedom of the city, a very rarely conferred golden state medal, and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.
 "It was no doubt to Dr. Schurman a shock and a portent of ominous events when in 1935, under Nazi auspices, a startling change was made in the facade of Schurman Hall. The original inscription 'To the Eternal Spirit' had been changed to read 'To the German Spirit'; the surmounting statue of Athena had been replaced by a golden swastika and a German eagle. Theodor Schurman was in Germany that year, it is said that he did not attend the celebration marking the 50th anniversary of the founding of his beloved Heidelberg.
 Return From Germany
 "On his return from Germany in 1930, Schurman's official career came to an end, at the age of 76. In his latter years he made his home at Bedford, in Westchester County, New York, the county of which his ancestors were residents before the American revolution. He spent much of his time there among the memories of his notable and varied career. But he was still active in attending the numerous clubs to which he belonged, and in advising the Republican Party as one of its valued elder statesmen. He was particularly vigorous in his opposition to a third Presidential term, (making numerous speeches at a very advanced age—a viewpoint which since his death has been translated into the United States' constitution.
 "During these latter years Dr. Schurman paid visits to many of the world's Hitler's Germany in 1936, to India, to the Philippines, to China, to Japan. It is not publicly known to what extent these journeys may have been officially commissioned, but it is certain that on returning he conferred with the President and repeatedly made his experience and observations available to the Government during the period of his retirement.
 "He retained his youthful energy and enthusiasm almost till the end. Finally he became ill in May, 1942, and died of a heart attack on 12th August of the same year, at the age of 88. He lies buried in the church yard of St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal Church at Bedford.
 "In 1884 Dr. Schurman was married to Barbara Forrest

WINNIPEG, (CP)—A volume believed the oldest Ukrainian book in Canada was recently donated to the University of Manitoba. Entitled "Pomyanyk" and written in 1484, it contains obituaries of prominent European Slavs.
 Munro, daughter of George Munro of New York City. Mrs. Schurman predeceased him in 1930, and is buried in the same church yard. They had four sons and four daughters, of whom I (believe) two sons and two daughters are still living. George Munro Schurman, a business executive, resides at Bedford Hills, N. Y.; while Jacob Gould Schurman, the other son, is a Judge of the Court of General Sessions of New York. One of Dr. Schurman's brothers, our good fellow-citizen, Maynard Freeman Schurman, and one sister, Mrs. Ada Baker Schurman, are also still living.
 "In the Church of St. Matthew at Bedford, is a marble tablet setting forth the words: "In loving memory of Jacob Gould Schurman (1854-1942) for twenty-eight years President of Cornell University and for ten years Minister and Ambassador of the United States; and of Barbara Forrest Munro (1865-1930) his beloved wife by whom he was marvellously helped." "The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, by this memorial of stone and bronze, seeks to perpetuate the memory of one of Canada's truly distinguished and eminent sons.
 "I have great pleasure in asking His Honour, Lieutenant-Governor Provis to unveil the monument in memory of Jacob Gould Schurman."
