A DEEP LAID SCHEME.

To Disrupt the Liberal-Conservative Party.

GRITS IN DISGUISE.

Mr. John J. McGillivray Shows Up the Tactics of the Patrons—The Liberal-Conservative Farmers of the Country Should not be Hoaxwinded into Furthering Grit Schemes—Mr. McGillivray Hits Back.

We clip the following from The Mail and Empire:

To the Editor of The Mail and Empire:

Sir—In my last letter my aim was to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that the one great desire of the leaders of the Patrons is to destroy the Government at Ottawa, and in doing so I summoned to my assistance only the use of kindly and gentle language, and for so doing I am treated through the columns of the press with a diatribe of personalities and nasty invectives, and in language and gross in their nature.

Now, Mr. Editor, I don't like to trouble the press with matters personal to myself, and never have, yet I must crave your indulgence a little in that respect; but before doing so, permit me to give you some further facts in relation to the attitude of the Patrons in some of the other ridings of the province which have come under my notice during the last two weeks.

The Patrons have recently met in North and South Perth, and in the former, which is represented in Parliament by a Liberal, they conclude not to put a man in the field, but in South Perth, which is represented by a Conservative, they conclude to place a man in the field.

In Mr. Cargill's constituency, which he has always carried by a small Conservative majority, they nominate a Conservative against him.

In Oxford the nominee of the Patrons attended the Reform Convention (a nice place for him), and publicly stated that he would not run against Sir Richard Cartwright, the nominee of the Reform party.

In East York the Secretary of the Patron Association for the riding actually attended the Clear Grit Convention and seconded the nomination of the Clear Grit nominee, Mr. Frankland, and has been doing all he can, ever since, to get the Patrons' support for Mr. Frankland, and against Mr. Maclean, the present Conservative member for the riding.

In West York, which is overwhelmingly Conservative, and where no Clear Grit could have a possible chance of success against the Hon. Clarke Wallace, a Patron is put in the field, in the hope of wresting the seat from the Government.

In Lennox the Liberal party, in the hope of defeating Mr. Wilson, the present Conservative member, have withdrawn their candidate, Mr. Allison, from the field; and in East Hastings, which is overwhelmingly Conservative, the Liberals conclude to support the Patron candidate in the hope of defeating Mr. Northrup, the present Conservative member for the riding.

A short time ago we read of Mr. Pardo, the Patron member for Kent, attending a convention of the Liberal party and thanking them for their support, and ere many more moons doubtless you will find this non-partisan Patron supporting Mr. Campbell, the nominee of the Liberal party for the Commons.

In East Peterboro the other day the Liberals met and nominated—who do you think, Mr. Editor? Why, nothing less than the president of the Patrons for the riding, Mr. Lang, who, by the way, was a former Grit M.P., and doubtless they thought that, Patron or what not, they could trust him again.

In one of the Waterloos (I think the south riding) we find the Patron retiring rather than do injury to the Liberal candidate in this old-time Reform riding.

A few days ago a meeting of Liberals was held at Stirling, for the purpose of appointing 75 delegates to the Liberal Convention, and their instructions from the meeting were that they be at liberty to either support a Liberal candidate or support the Patron, as they might see fit.

Surely no one will contend on reading the above, and seeing what is going on around about us on every hand, that there is not a contract of mutual support or an understanding very nearly approaching that between the leaders of the two parties.

Mr. Gillespie, the nominee of the Liberal party for North Ontario, said the other evening at Owen Sound that the Patrons had taken their policy, and it is only a day or two since Mr. Henry Glenning, the well-known Granger and Patron, of Brock, said that he had not to make much of a somersault in leaving the Liberals and uniting his fortunes with the Patron movement; and really the statements of both these men in the light of recent events strikes one with a great deal of force as to their truthfulness.

DEATH OF WILLIAM BLACKETT.

Died at Annandale, Lot 56, on the 21st March ult, William Blackett, at the advanced age of 102 years. William Blackett, grandfather of the deceased, came to this province shortly after the revolutionary war of 1776-78, probably about the year 1781, and settled on a portion of the land on Lot 56, near Annandale, reserved for American loyalists. His son, John Blackett, married one of the resident French women, and with his father and wife would seem to be the three between 16 and 60 mentioned in the census of 1788. The deceased, William Blackett, who would then be about five years of age, being the one male under 16; and Mrs. Michael Taylor, of Milton, Mass, and Mrs. George Lewis, over 60 years dead, being two of the females under 16. The other of the males had not been able to trace. Early in the nineteenth century John Blackett rented a hundred acres of land from Lord James Townshend near where his father first settled, which descended to his son, the subject of this sketch, who, through many years of harsh and privation, reclaimed the land from the forest and made it one of the most valuable farms on Lot 56, although much retarded by the long agitation for escheat, he being one of those who, over fifty years ago, suffered the pains of imprisonment in George-town jail, besides paying a pecuniary penalty of twenty pounds (then a very large sum for an ordinary farmer to raise) for assisting or sympathizing with the late James Douglas in the time of the rebellion, which he considered the very unjust demands of the proprietor or claimant of the land on which he lived, and the justice of whose contention was recognized by the Legislature some years after, by the adoption of a resolution recommending that 200 acres of land on Lot 43 be granted to the heirs of James Douglas in consideration of his unjust exactions from his farm on the occasion referred to. Somewhere about the year 1820 William Blackett married Sarah Brown, daughter of Joseph Brown, an old English soldier, and who had the reputation of being a very pretty girl at a time in the history of Prince Edward Island when pretty girls, like Topsy, just grew, and was a servant with Edward Abel, the agent of Lord James Townshend at the time of the visit of the warship described by Captain Maryatt in his Naval Officer; and it is said that Pat Pierce, the author of Abel's subsequent death was hidden in her father's house during the week which elapsed between the time of the stabbing and its fatal termination, and by whom he had a large family, most of whom, with their children and grandchildren, are settled around within a few miles of the old homestead, and dozens of his remains to their resting place in Bay Fortune churchyard.

Mr. Blackett was an intelligent, industrious and generally steady man, ever making an enemy during his long life, and walked on his own house to Annandale, a distance of nearly three miles, a few months before his death. In his younger days he was fond of shooting, and dozens of wild geese annually fell victims to his patient vigils and deadly aim. And the writer can remember before the days of steel pens, getting into a bunch of his quills, clarifying them by a good fire since forgotten, and sending them to the then Colonial Secretary, Mr. Haviland. Fishing was also a favorite occupation, and the summer after he had attained his hundredth year, he caught over $500 worth of mackerel and took them to market himself.

MEETING AT GRAND TRACADIE.

A large meeting was held at Grand Tracadie on April 4th, at 6 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of discussing the political questions of the day. It is needless to say that the large and commodious school-room was crowded with eager and attentive listeners. Mr. Michael Ready was appointed Chairman, and the undersigned Secretary.

After a brief speech from the chair, Mr. Alexander Martin (Valleyfield) was invited to address the meeting, and on concluding his remarks, he was followed by Mr. Martin, who spoke with clearness and force against the National Policy. He showed that Canada to-day had the same policy which is adopted in almost every civilized nation, proving clearly that a policy other than the present one would be ruinous to Canada. He then took up the policy of Free Trade, as it is in England, showing that it is not beneficial to the farmers of that country. On the contrary they have suffered greatly as a result of it, as much of their necessities are highly taxed, such as tea, coffee, spices, &c. As Mr. Martin pointed out to the electors the rapid increase of debt during the Liberal government he was frequently met with rounds of applause. Continuing, he reminded the audience of the great public works constructed by the Conservative party, which has placed Canada in such a position that she is not only a credit to Canadians, but the honor of the British Empire. (Cheers.) Mr. Martin closed his speech with a forcible appeal to the electors, especially the young men, to abandon the party of failure and depression, and support the party which has proved true to the country.

Hon. Senator Ferguson was the next speaker. In a speech replete with sound reasoning he dealt in a masterly manner with the political questions of the day. He spoke of the high credit of a country and the great public works constructed by the Conservative Government with scarcely any increase of the debt per head. He referred also to the various policies of the Opposition, showing how often they were divided and tripped by the National Policy. He ably referred to the pork question, census returns and other matters before the electorate, and supported his views by giving three rousing cheers for the Queen, with a repetition of the same for Alexander Martin, Esq., and Hon. Senator Ferguson.

The heirs of W. J. Wood, a Canadian, have come into possession of a mining property in Aspen valued at $10,000,000, after long litigation. It was claimed that Wood, who located the Emma mine, was defrauded of his interests, and at the time of his death he did not know how valuable it was, and his heirs signed away their claims to it for almost nothing.
