Montague Man Has Kitchen Stove For 67 Years

This is the story of a kitchen stove whose history goes back some 67 years. And all that time it has been in continuous operation. The owner is Mr. George Rourke of Montague North, and was purchased in 1884 at J.D. Bell's, a general store which was operating in Montague at that time. Not only is the stove still functioning and in wonderful condition, but also the same stove pipe which was purchased with the stove.

Perhaps some would like to hear something of the life of this gentleman who owns this masterpiece. To begin at the beginning, Mr. Rourke was born in 1859, 92 years ago on his homestead, Montague North. He was only a young man when he became a member of the Baptist Church, and married Miss Katie Martin, of Queen's Road. It was shortly after they were married that he bought the stove.

A number of years after the death of his first wife, Mr. Rourke married Miss Bella MacLeod of Uigg. One daughter was born to this union, who besides her father was left to mourn when in 1905 Mrs. Rourke passed away.

In 1913, Mr. Rourke married his present wife, Mrs. Lowther, who was formerly from the western part of the Island.

When necessary Mr. Rourke walks to Montague, some three to four miles away.
