

Too Dignified by half.

Writing lines is the penance Harrow boys do for all their sins, in and out of school. If a boy is late for school, he writes lines, if he misses "bill," he writes lines. If the lines are not done at a stated time, the number is doubled. There was one clever boy who escaped writing half the ordered quantity; and the master tells the story of how he did it to this day. He was an untidy boy and was often taken to task for his carelessness and disorder. One day his master, who had very dignified and impressive manners, and who always said "we" instead of "you" when talking to the boys' found occasion to reprove him.

"We do not look very clean," he said, with much severity. "We have not washed our hands this morning. Have we?"

"I don't know about yours," was the impudent boy's answer, "but I've washed mine."

"Ah!" said the master, "we are very important to-day. We will have to write a hundred lines before the next 'bill'."

When "bill" time came, the master sent for the boy.

"Have you written our lines?" he asked.

"I have written my fifty," the boy answered very promptly, handing him in his paper; "but I don't know whether you've done your half."

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Doan's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

The youthful idea of school has many illustrations. "Where are you going?" "To school." "What do you go for?" "To wait for school to be let out."

I HAVE BEEN SICK—with pleurisy and pneumonia. It left me with a very hard, hacking cough. All the physicians and medicines did me no good. A friend advised me to try Doan's German Syrup, one bottle of which did me more good than all the doctors and medicines I have tried; and I shall recommend it far and near. Mary A. Brockwell, Springfield, Mass. Trial bottles 10 cents.

"Professor," said a graduate, trying to be pathetic at parting, "I am indebted to you for all I know." "Pray don't mention such a trifle," was the not very flattering reply.

This was written on the fly-leaf of a book on moral science: "If there should be another flood, for refuge hither fly; though all the world should be submerged, this book would still be dry."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting." THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 292 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now made, and one who only to give a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."
