Matters Pharmaceutical

I've come down with indigestion
Though I really don't know why; ;
All I know: If I'm deprived of
Helpful drugs, perhaps I'll die.

I've a pain — appendicitis —
Please forgive me if I harp —
But I want those drugs to aid me;
For that pain, it sure is sharp!

Or I slip and cut my elbow;
Iodine — mercurochrome?
But I'd die of an infection
If no drugstore's near my home.

'Tis enough to tell my story —
It's a subject in my hair; ;
I won't live in town or hamlet
If no drugstore then is there.

In our progress scientific
Nothing's of importance more
Than to have the care and comfort
Of the pharmaceutic store.

'Tis but minor acclamation
When we sing this song of praise;
For the research pharmaceutic
Heads the progress of our days.

The WEEK at S.D.U.

In order to be worthy of the name "gentleman", there are several qualities which we must cultivate and develop in our youth. First we must practice the spirit of loyalty. This consists in loyalty to our country and our Church. As students, we must be loyal to our College and superiors. Secondly, we must realize our sense of duty. Each one of us, regardless of what we may be doing in life, has specific duties. Here, we have numerous duties from getting up when the bell rings in the morning to retiring when it rings at night. Thirdly, we must be helpful in service. Not only should we be striving to help ourselves, but we should also think of helping those around us. We may help them as individuals, or as a community, in participating in community projects. Fourthly, we must assure ourselves of moral and social upbringing. For this, we at St. Dunstan's can turn to our professors to thank. With our cooperation and their instruction this quality is well taken care of. Lastly we must be industrious. This quality is entirely up to ourselves. We should realize that no one can succeed unless he works. If we are faithful in practicing and perfecting these qualities, we will have gone a long way in becoming a gentleman.

The first general meeting of the student body was held on last Sunday evening. The new president, George Cameron welcomed everyone, both old and new, to St. Dunstan's, and Cody Myers was at his post as secretary-treasurer. The president of each organization on the campus was called upon to say a few words to the students. Each explained what his organization meant, its aims and purposes, and asked for the full cooperation of the students for the coming year. Other questions concerning the student body were discussed.

"Hurrah for the Saints!" "Hurrah for the Saints!" were the cries which echoed through all the buildings at the College on the Hill on Wednesday evening climaxing an eventful week of football on the campus. To start at the beginning, the Intermediate Saints defeated the P.W.C. team 19-0 in their opening game for the Island Intercollegiate title. The defeat was quite understandable, because P.W.C. have nearly a completely different team from last year, and the Saints' team is considered to be one of their strongest second teams in years. At present, captain Al MacDonald and coach Eldon Green the negotiating with St. Francis Xavier Intermediates, hoping to be able to have return exhibition games with them. The next afternoon, the Senior Saints opened play with the Senior Abbies. Sufficient publicity has been given this game for the rough tactics used it in and it only remains to be said that the Saints played as clean ball as could be expected under the circumstances, and emerged victorious as a result of a try by hard-working Gerry MacDonald.

If anyone had taken a drive in around S.D.U. about 6.30 p.m. on Tuesday evening, he would have seen something like this: Near the football field, a large bonfire crackled in the darkness. Around it was a large circle of ruddy-faced students. In the center was Dave Kennedy conducting what? Yes, sure, the Pep Rally. In between the practicing of the College cheers, all the members of the first team were introduced and given an opportunity to speak to the students over the loud speaker. Clarence MacDonald, who has played well for the team until he was injured recently, was omitted from the introduction by mistake. The hearty cheers of the students assured the team of their backing on the morrow.

And so, the next afternoon, the team marched on the field and played a wonderful game for Red and White to win over U. N. B. by a score of 5-2. The comments we should like to make about the game concern the spirit of the cheering students and of the team itself. Before the game started, the students crowded into one end of the grandstand awaiting the opening whistle. Cheer Leader Dave Kennedy was right there. All through the game the students kept cheering for their team. They seemed, in some way, to be playing the game themselves. Even when U.N.B. got their points, our cheering section did not fail to give them a hand. After the game, the team was practically mobbed with congratulations. Within the team itself there was wonderful spirit. If a player happened to make a mistake, he was not scolded but rather encouraged. They kept telling one another that they were going to win. Their efforts were cooperative and no one was seeking individual honor or glory but rather the glory of the team as a whole and of St. Dunstan's. This is partly what we mean when we speak of "College spirit."

That evening, a football dance, sponsored by the A.A.A. was held in the Alumni gymnasium. The dance started at 8.30 and ended at 11.30, a custom which is new in local social circles but very reasonable and practicable. The success was due for the most part to the efforts of John Weir and Ed MacDonald. The football players were held in high regard that night, with some of them meriting a bouncing. All we hope is that today the Saints will represent us well at Mt. A. and will clinch the N. B. - P. E. I. Intercollegiate title.

In order that you may not have come to think that this is a sports column and that athletics is of first rate importance on the campus, whereas it is only third, we have an important announcement to make regarding the academic sphere. The mid-term exams have been posted for Wednesday and Friday of next week. So, you see, it is an accepted fact that we have been studying ever since College opened. In spite of this, studying will become more intense from now until the exams and consequently there will be no "Week" next week.

So, until the week after next, from all of us at S.D.U., to all of you, health and happiness.

—RESERVE Wednesday, November 7th for Chicken and Ham Supper and Sale of Work in United Church Basement, Kensington

—BAPTIST Y. P. U.—The president, Miss Freda Myers, was in the chair during the regular meeting of the Y. P. U. of the Summerside Baptist Church on Wednesday evening, Oct. 24. Miss Beth Harper conducted the worship service, opening with the hymn "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee". A discussion on the subject, "If Jesus would come into the world today, what would He think of it?" was led by Mrs. W. A. Harper. The singing of a hymn brought the meeting to a close. S —ELECT OFFICERS — Mr. James Harris was elected president of the Summerside Badminton Club and Mr. Douglas Broome was elected vice-president at a meeting held in the High School auditorium on Thursday evening. Plans for the coming season were drawn up and finalized and all indications point to a full schedule for the players who are interested in this particular line of sport. It is believed that there will be at least four different teams in the league and playoff games with Charlottetown Club will be held later on in the season. Miss Jean Nicholson and W. Chester MacDonald form the entertainment committee and Miss Bianch Hogg and Mr. Ross MacKenzie were appointed as the games committee. S

—GLENWOOD Y. P. U. —There were twenty-five young people at the meeting of the Glenwood United Church Young People's Union which was held in the Glenwood United Church on Wednesday night Oct. 24th at 8 p. m. The President, Miss Esther Stewart presided and conducted the opening worship. The Y. P. U. were informed of the Fall Rally of the Western Presbyterian Union which will be held in West Devon on Nov. 21st with afternoon and evening sessions. At the afternoon session the Glenwood Y. P. U. has been asked to lead the devotions. The Y. P. U., which was only organized about one month ago, made further plans to entertain the Dunblane Presbyterian Young People's Society at a Hallowe'en party at the Glenwood Hall on Tuesday, Oct. 30th. The study was taken by the Minister Rev. W. G. Dickson who spoke on "The Holy Spirit". The meeting closed by the Mispah Benediction after which contests were enjoyed.

"UNKNOWN ISLAND" HALF OF DOUBLE BILL AT CAPITOL

—Virginia Grey, who is the feminine star of the Albert Jay Cohen production, "Unknown Island," now at the Capitol Theatre, isn't old enough to remember Pearl White, Helen Holmes, and other serial queens of the silent flicker days, but after her last two pictures, she's beginning to have a pretty good idea of what those ladies went through for their art.

In "Unknown Island," a Cinecolor offering by Film Classics, Miss Grey not only had to contend with the unwanted advances of a brutal sea captain, strongly played by Barton MacLane, but also to fend off such terrifying prehistoric monsters as the giant tyranosaurus, the dinosaurus and the giant sloth, which ranged the earth's surface 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 years ago.

In her previous Film Classics' picture, "Miraculous Journey," Miss Grey impersonated a spoiled heiress aboard a passenger plane forced down in the most inaccessible regions of the Belgian Congo, where she was menaced by leopards, crocodiles, and gorillas.

Oddly enough, in both pictures Miss Grey was cast as a very rich young woman, which part she looks, although, in truth, she is just an extremely pretty, ambitious and exceptionally hard working girl.

BURGESS BEDTIME

didn't know why he had done this either. He peeped out, looking under the fence. Over in the other field someone was moving about. Peter couldn't see who it was. They were not running. They were not walking. They seemed to be hopping. They would make a few hops, then settle down in the grass. Peter became very, very curious. He crept out of the bramble-tangle and sat up in order to see better.

"I do believe it is one of the Grouse children," thought he. "Now what can the matter be? Something has happened."

Just then the young Grouse, who had been flattened down in the grass so Peter couldn't see him got up and stood for a moment on one foot, holding the other off the ground. He turned his head to look behind him and there was fear, dreadful fear in his eyes. Peter couldn't see this; he was not near enough. Then the young Grouse started to try to walk, but when he put that foot he was holding up to the ground, and tried to take a step with it, he almost fell over. He held it up again and hopped two or three steps on the other foot. Then he settled down in the grass again.

"He's hurt," thought Peter "He's badly hurt. If he can't walk, I wonder why he doesn't fly. That would be the quickest way of getting over here."

Just then Peter saw far over in the field a dog working back and forth among the bushes. He wasn't running, but working, slowly as if he were trying to find something. A moment later Peter saw a man and knew at once that it was a hunter. He, too, was slowly working back and forth looking for something. Could it be that they were looking for that Grouse? The latter was on his foot again doing his best to hop as fast and not succeeding very well. It was painful to watch him. The hunter and the dog were gradually working nearer.

"Hurry, hurry," exclaimed Peter under his breath.

The young Grouse was heading straight to where Peter sat. He didn't stop to rest now, but did his best to keep hopping along. Would he be able to reach that fence before the hunter or the dog saw him? He came nearer and nearer. Peter could see the fright and distress in his eyes. At long last he crept under the fence.

"Come right in this bramble-tangle. You'll be safe there," cried Peter, and led the way.

Nunn-Tuplin Wedding

—St. Peters Church, Lot 11, was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Monday, October 22, 1951, when Georgie Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Tuplin, became the wife of J. Alvin Ashford, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Paige Nunn, Wheatley River. The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Leslie Dignan.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The wedding music was played by Mr. Peter MacDonald of Bonshaw and Halifax. The marriage attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Caldwell of Wolfville, N. S.

The bride chose for her wedding a suit of light autumn green with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridesmaid was attired in a navy suit with pink accessories and her corsage was of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a dinner was served at Foxley River Cedar Lodge for relatives and friends of the happy couple after which they left on a short honeymoon trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Nunn will live in Halifax, N. S. where the groom is a pharmacy student at Dalhousie University. The bride is a graduate of the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax.
