Dismissal Demanded Of One-Time Warden

OTTAWA (CP) — An angry MP has demanded the dismissal of the $14,000-a-year information officer in the federal penitentiaries service, accusing him of total responsibility for maladministration at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary prior to the serious riot there in June of 1962.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said the man—he did not identify him by name—served as warden of the prison prior to the riot, kept two homosexual prisoners in the administration building and was a disgrace to the penitentiary service.

"Where is this warden today? He has been promoted," Mr Peters said, speaking in the debate on justice department estimates. "He was a flop as a warden, but now he is the information officer of the department.

"So far as I am concerned, before these estimates are passed that man's salary must be deducted because I have tried him and found him guilty of gross maladministration, and I am not in agreement with paying his salary."

The NDP member said he would move an amending motion to have that particular salary chopped from the justice estimates unless Justice Minister Favreau agreed to look into the matter.

Mr. Favreau said immediately he would undertake to "look at this situation" if Mr. Peters did not pursue the matter further with a motion.

Mr. Peters said the present warden at St Vincent de Paul "has gone a long way towards correcting some of the abuses that took place in that prison." The present warden is M. J. M. LeCorre.

Welfare Minister Questioned On Private Role In Pensions

OTTAWA (CP)—Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh said the government seriously considered allowing the insurance companies, operating private pension plans, to "contract out" of the proposed new Canada pension plan but rejected the idea.

"One of the reasons is that it would create a pension jungle," she told the joint Commons-Senate committee studying the pension plan bill. She added that such a step also would be "against the very nature" of the federal plan, designed for comprehensive coverage.

Miss LaMarsh said all political parties have indicated they believe in a comprehensive earnings-related pension plan, applying to as many people as possible. That objective would not be met if private plans could "opt out."

Miss LaMarsh was questioned closely on how private pension plans will be integrated with the federal scheme.

IS PROVINCIAL MATTER

"It's no part of federal government responsibility to deal with private pension plans," she told the committee. These were under provincial jurisdiction, as a matter of private contractual arrangements between employees and their employees.

Miss LaMarsh said there are more than 7,000 kinds of private pension plans in existence.

She recalled that earlier she had mentioned at least three possible ways in which these private plans could be integrated with the Canada Pension Plan.

Only in a few cases would there be any discarding of private plans, and only those which now provide relatively small benefits.

She said some large employers in Canada already have called in their advisers to work out a possible system of integration. The government, as another employer, was doing the same with the pension plan now operating for federal civil servants.

While she stressed that the government is powerless to intervene in privatt pension plans, she hoped that the ultimate arrangement worked out for civil servants "will indicate whot we would like to see happen."

Nuclear Power Seen Need For World Voice

MONTREAL (CP)—"To be a great power, to count in the world, it is necessary to be a nuclear power," Raymond Bousquet, French ambassador to Canada, said here.

Speaking to a service club in suburban St. Laurent, he said "that is why France will never renounce its nuclear force, and that's an irreversible fact.

"France does not want to be excluded from nuclear strategy. She does not want Europe to remain under the sole protection of the Anglo-Saxons.

"She looks ahead and insures herself against the unforeseen . . ."

Mr. Bousquet said as soon as the power of intercontinental ballitistic missiles is neutralized, "the United States will again be sheltered and will again become the arsenal and the last reserve of the West.

"Conventional wars would again become possible and Europe would be the victim. There is therefore a disagreement beetween the United States and Europe."

Mr. Bousquet said the United States has concentrated too much on a "strike force" and not enough on defence and that U.S. strategy can only be defended when "it affirms that there must be an alternative to 'all or nothing.'"

| 4 ♣ | 4 ♠ | 5 ♣ | 5 ♦ |
| 6 ♣ | 6 ♦ | Pass | 6 ♠ |
| Pass | Pass | 7 ♣ | Pass |
| Pass | 7 ♠ | | |

Opening lead — king of clubs.

This wild and woolly hand occurred in a board-a-match team championship played at Minocqua, Wisc., in 1947.

South arrived at seven spades on the bidding shown. If West had led a heart, the contract would have gone down, but West led the king of clubs and South easily made al tlhe tricks. He scored 2,210 points.

Seven diamonds could not have been defeated, but, playing board-a-match, North was anxious to score every point possible on the deal. This particular effort turned out to be wasted because the bidding at the second table went:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| 5 ♣ | 5 ♠ | 6 ♣ | 6 ♠ |
| 7 ♣ | Dble | | |

Having two club losers, South at this table did not want to invite a grand slam in spades by making a forcing pass, and he therefore doubled seven clubs. He had not had the benefit of a diamond bid from North, which had occurred at the first table, and he had little reason to suspect that his side could make a grand slam.

Of course, it also did not occur to him that the opponents could make a grand slam either, and in an effort to play safe he led the ace of hearts.

This proved to be disastrous when East ruffed the ace, entered dummy with a club, ruffed another heart, returned to dummy with a club, and then got rid of four losers on the K-Q-8-6 of hearts. As a result, East made seven clubs for a score of 2,330 points.

The outcome of the deal was that a grand slam eas made at one table with the East-West cards while their teammates at the other table also made a grand slam — but with the North-South cards. The team gain on the hand was 4,450 points, which is not to be sneered at in any league.

Quebec Seeks Ways To Spur Mineral Hunt

QUEBEC (CP)—The natural resources department is studying ways of spurring mining exploration in this vast province, assistant Deputy Minister Michel Belanger said here.

One possibility under consideration is to have government geologists carry out exploration proving reserves that would later be developed by private enterprise.

New legislation in Saskatchewan, by which the government there contributes to exploration costs of private groups, also is being closely studied.

"Being as big as it is, the province certainly has not been prospected in detail, although it is far from underdeveloped," Mr. Belanger said, "new reserves are being discovered every day."

There was still plenty of exploration potential, however the object was to shape a policy that "wouldn't disturb the free flow of capital, but would spur development."

Mr. Belanger, an economist, is in charge of the planning end of the resources department.

Another department source said the department feels Quebec is so large only a small percentage of its territory is being explored in detail. Meetings were being held to determine ways of accelerating development.

Government activity in exploration wouldn't be new in Canada. besides Saskatchewan, the federal government has done active exploration work after uranium sales dropped
