part could cause a lot of trouble, particularly if mama and dear sisters love to carry tales to Sonny Boy. Unfortunately, problems of this kind do not offer much in the way of solution. Drastic means, of course, would help—such as packing up and moving a few hundred miles away but even that wouldn't necessarily offer permanent peace; the in-laws would just be likely to trail after you.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: The man I am engaged to earns a small salary, but we could be married and live comfortably on it. I also earn a good salary and the question is: Shall I continue to work and save my salary toward making a first payment on a home, or should I stop working and we just have each other in a rented home? I have always felt that a girl should not work after she was married.

ANSWER: Whether or not you give up work when you are married is a matter for you and your husband to decide. Unless the money is urgently needed I think there is a greater chance for happiness if the wife goes domestic after marriage. Don't make the mistake of sacrificing too much to the fetish of owning your own home. It is a good thing to own one if you can afford it, but it is a curse upon you if you have to sacrifice everything to keep up your payments and live in dread of losing it.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

IN MEMORIAM

FRANCIS E. CASS

A large circle of friends and relatives was saddened to hear of the death in the Charlottetown Hospital on Wednesday, April 25th of Francis E. Cass formerly of North River, P.E.I.

For a number of years he was engaged in farming in the beautiful old homestead at North River and in recent years he was employed with the C.N.R. at Moncton.

Possessing a pleasing personality he made a great many friends and his open-handed generosity and kindly sympathy will be sorely missed. He was a member of a family noted for its hospitality and good neighbourliness; and the close-knit ties of companionship within the family circle was an inspiration to all who came in contact with the homestead.

During the past year he was in failing health and, despite the loving care and solitude of his sister Rita, a registered nurse, he died at a comparatively early age of fifty-one, reminiscent of the death of his father the late Thomas P. Cass at the same age.

The funeral which was largely attended, took place from the A. A. Hennessy Funeral Home to the St. Dunstan's Basilica where Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by his brother, Rev. John Cass, S.J.; assisted by another brother, Rev. Fred Cass, as deacon and Rev. George A. MacDonald as sub-deacon. Rev. Dr. McMahon acted as master of ceremonies. His Excellency Most Rev. James Boyce occupied his throne. The following clergy were present in the Sanctuary: Rt. Rev. R. V. MacKenzie, Rev. Dr. R. Ellsworth, Rev. Basil Croken, Rev. Wilfred Keefe, Rev. Parnell Wood, Rev. Harold Croken, Rev. Owen Sharkey, Rev. Lawrence Landrigan, Rev. Francis Corcoran, Rev. James Smith, and Rev. P. E. MacDonald. Interment took place in the family plot in the Catholic Cemetery where services were conducted by Rev. George A. MacDonald assisted by Rev. John Cass, S.J., and Rev. Fred Cass.

He leaves to mourn the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Rita O'Rourke, R.N., Boston; Parnell, Summerside; Rev. John Cass, S.J., Toronto; Major George Cass, Moncton; Thomas A. Cass, Moncton; Rev. Fred Cass, St. Dunstan's University, Evelyn, Boston; Mrs. Austin Connolly, Charlottetown. A brother, William, predeceased him three years ago.

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Francis E. Cass wish to express sincere appreciation to the Sisters, Nurses and Medical Staff of the Charlottetown Hospital for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy.

Airmen Killed In Harvard Crash

CHATHAM, N. B., May 5—(CP)—One airman was killed and another injured late today in the crash of a Harvard plane from the R.C.A.F. station here. Names of the airman were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The plane was on a routine training flight when it crashed on a bog at Bale St. Anne, on the coast 10 miles east of Chatham. The wreckage was spotted from other planes and a land rescue party went to the scene, reportedly accessible by road.

Cause of the crash, reported to have occurred in normal flying weather, was unknown.

Sask. Premier Is Critical Of Premier Duplessis

REGINA, May 6—(CP)—Quebec's Premier Maurice Duplessis is being allowed by the Federal Government to "play the role of Vishinsky" in Canadian politics, Premier T.C. Douglas of Saskatchewan declared Friday in a statement.

Mr. Douglas noted that the Federal Government is dropping plans to allow Provinces to levy a three-per-cent indirect sales tax because of the objection of Mr. Duplessis to necessary constitutional amendment.

Failure of the Federal Government to proceed with sales tax plans causes the Saskatchewan Government little concern, the Premier said, but there is a matter of principle involved.

Premier Douglas asked "Is Mr. Duplessis to have the right to veto all constitutional amendments from now on; are the wishes of the nine other Provincial Legislatures and the Parliament of Canada to be ignored any time the Quebec Premier decides to disagree?"

"It is increasingly apparent that in its desire to appease Mr. Duplessis the Federal Government is prepared to let him play the role of Vishinsky in the Canadian confederation."

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. SILAS W. CUDDY

The death occurred in the P. E. Island Hospital on April 7th, 1951, after a lengthy illness of Mrs. Silas W. Cuddy (nee Janie M. MacLean) of Gladstone.

The late Mrs. Cuddy was born in Cape Breton, N. S., the daughter of the late Laughe and Catherine (Morrison) MacLean on May 7th, 1882.

She was married in 1901 to Silas W. Cuddy, who predeceased her just one year ago.

Mrs. Cuddy was a kind and hospitable woman, who gave everyone a welcome to her home. She leaves to mourn a loving and devoted mother, one son Clarence on the homestead, two daughters, Claire (Mrs. C. T. Leander), Miami, Florida; Gertrude (Mrs. Paul McCarthy), Winchester, Mass., and a foster son, Lea Louie of Miami, Fla., to whom she was very devoted; also seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, also surviving are two half brothers, Angus L. MacLean, Belfast, and Haywood MacLean, Monague.

These half sisters, Mrs. Mary Murray, Mrs. Laura Holmes, Boston, Mass., Miss Margaret MacLean, R.N., East Weymouth, Mass., also a host of relatives and friends. Two sisters, Mrs. Cassie Jenkin and Mrs. Katie McInnis predeceased her some years ago.

The funeral which was largely attended, despite weather and roads being bad was held from her late residence, service conducted by Miss Blanche Chappel and Mrs. Walker, service at the grave by Miss Eva Hadley. Hymns sung were "Sweet Sweet Release" and "Nearer Still Nearer", a favorite of the deceased.

She was laid to rest by her late husband in the Murray River cemetery. Pall bearers were James Richards, John Sharam, Spencer Sharam, Kimball MacKay, Albert MacKay and John Ferguson. Merion Ferguson drove the hearse.

Although The Curtain Falls There comes a time for all of us When we must say good-bye. But faith and hope and love and trust Can never, never die. Although the curtain falls at last Is that a cause to grieve? The future's fairer than the past If only we believe. And trust in God's eternal care So when the Master calls Let's say that life is still more fair. Although the curtain falls.

BRUCE—In loving memory of our sister Doris, who passed away May 7th, 1948.

God knew that she was suffering, That the hills were hard to climb So he closed her weary eyelids, And whispered "Peace Be Thine."

Away in the beautiful hills of God By the valley of rest so fair Some time, some day we know not when We will meet our loved one there. Ever Remembered by Keith, Kay, Dorothy, Jean and Ruth.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

WHY BAND BIRDS?

Not only has the method of banding birds improved during the last fifty years, but its value has increased. When systematically carried out, much can be learned, not just about an individual, but about migration, moults, behaviour, and many other interesting questions.

Banding is the most accurate way of determining routes and dates of migration for the various species. We have proof that a certain Tree Sparrow has passed through the same piece of land year after year on practically the same date; that Robins are apt to fly to the region of their birth.

Trapping stations, run by amateur operators working with the government, are dotted across the continent. Coloured bands are now extensively used in addition to the official, numbered aluminum ones. Say a bander has caught a pair of Juncos nesting in his vicinity, and while tagging them he has placed a red ring on the right leg of the female and a green one on that of the male. Next spring Juncos are again living nearby, and one of them soon walks into his trap. Eagerly he looks at the right leg. Yes, there is the red band. Again and again she is caught. Sure of her identity, little handling is necessary, and he has discovered that one Junco, at least, likes to return to its old home, and that this individual is fascinated by his trap. The number of seasons she comes back is noted, and he discovers something about the age of Juncos. Perhaps she is seen by someone half a mile off, and he knows how far she goes to forage. He finds a mother which has mated with her own son, two birds that have stayed paired many successive years, and that some species live to be 25 or more.

A captured bird is examined for parasites and to see if it is in any way maimed. Noting plumage, the bander learns the difference for sex and for age, and what changes take place during moulting. Weighing the captives at various seasons shows there is a tendency to grow heavier in winter, and that parents lose weight when feeding their young. Measurements have proved that individuals of a species vary in size. There are differences in behaviour too—one bird lies passive in the hand, another fights against this interference. And, strangely, a returning bird often guides an acquaintance to a baited trap.

Are Ring-billed Gulls common?

Carloadings

OTTAWA, May 5—(CP)—Carloadings on Canadian railways increased during the week ended April 28 to 83,823 cars, compared with 79,879 cars for the previous week and 75,281 cars for the corresponding week a year ago.

The Bureau of Statistics reported today that increases over the similar week last year were shown in loadings of grain and grain products, ores, building materials, pulpwood, lumber, woodpulp and paper, and gasoline. Decreases were registered in loadings of livestock, coal and coke.
