

and Governor Harvey had proceeded to Carbonar. The Agricultural produce of this Island was advancing in price, in the St. John's market; potatoes, at last accounts, were at 4s. 6d. per barrel. We have heard of several new vessels, which had been sent there for sale, having been disposed of at remunerating prices.

THE WEATHER.—Winter seems to hang aloof. The open season is considered favourable to farmers, in so far that a great saving of hay and other fodder is effected by means of it. On the other hand, the state of the roads is truly deplorable; nor can any good travelling be expected, until the frost sets in, and a heavy fall of snow enables the sleighs and other winter vehicles to perambulate the surface.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—On Wednesday evening next, the Rev. J. Waddell will deliver a Lecture on "The Reciprocal duties of Social Life."

TO THE PUBLIC.

The members of a Committee deputed by a numerous meeting of inhabitants of Prince Edward Island for the purpose of ascertaining the feasibility of establishing a Steam Company, by means of which a permanent and regular communication between this Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick might be established, having used their utmost care and diligence, have issued a report to the public, which has been inserted in the Island Newspapers, pointing out a fair prospect of remuneration to those who might become shareholders. They have themselves, with some other gentlemen, taken to the public to judge between them and the parties who signed the Requisition to the High Sheriff, bearing date the 22d October, (only ten of whom, out of seventy-six who subscribed the Requisition, seem willing to embark in the undertaking,) in consequence of which their labours were carried on; the Committee cannot but regret that the real interests of the Province should be a matter of such great indifference to its inhabitants, and that they should have been called on to spend so much of their time in this business under the reasonable supposition that the requisitionists at least took an interest in the question.

It appears to be the opinion of the Legislature (and indeed it is obvious to all men) that it is extremely desirable that this Island should be independent, for its communication, of all other than its own resources; a liberal appropriation therefore has been offered by the House of Assembly, whilst the Legislatures of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have likewise felt the importance of this means of regular intercourse, and have held out a corresponding measure of encouragement. The fact that this Island depends essentially, if not exclusively, for its prosperity on the establishment of every outlet for its agricultural produce is one so universally recognised, that it might be supposed it would awaken the slumbering energies of its inhabitants. That there should be so little feeling for the general public welfare is indeed a matter of deep regret to the Committee, whilst that there should exist so little enterprise is a matter of unfeigned surprise. If this project be considered in the relation only of a mercantile speculation, it will be found an extremely reasonable one; but it was hoped that a desire to forward the general prosperity, and in many cases to make some return for the personal benefits that many persons have derived, and do derive from the community, would have been considerations of some weight—230 individuals (the required number of shares for this Island), though they had only each taken a single share of £20, it might have been expected would have even given their money rather than that the public prosperity should be delayed. Amongst all our patriots, so ready to denounce the prospects of the Island, can none be found who will aid in its advancement?

It is not too late to reconsider this subject, and whilst the Committee must decline to pursue their labours under the present want of encouragement, yet they beg to express their readiness either to resign this business into other hands, or to resume their office, if the list of subscribers, which is left with the High Sheriff of Queen's County, should be so increased as to hold out any reasonable prospect of a favorable conclusion. Should the matter proceed as it is still hoped it may, a bill for the incorporation of the company will be applied for, whereby all its members will be rendered safe from all liabilities as general partners.

The Committee likewise proposed to recommend that the shareholders should elect a Board of Directors—a part of whom might annually vacate their office; it was their intention too to have recommended to a Board thus constituted, to call on the shareholders for something like 75 per cent. on their shares, by three instalments of 25 per cent. each, at such periods as the progress of the undertaking might require, and this amount, it is presumed, would meet the outlay; they were likewise desirous that a possession of five shares should be necessary to qualify a Director, and whilst every Shareholder should be entitled to a vote, that there should be a scale of voting according to the number of shares held by individuals. In making these recommendations, they would have been guided by the principle recognised in all such matters, that the greater the amount of individual property, the higher should be the responsibility and interest of the parties entrusted with its management—but in these, and all matters of detail, they would be necessarily controlled by the decision of a general meeting of shareholders.

The route proposed to be taken by the Steamer was—once a week between Miramichi and Charlottetown, calling at Be-deque on the voyage to the former place, but not on the return; and every alternate week twice between Charlottetown and Pictou, and in the intermediate week once between Pictou and Georgetown, and once between Pictou and Charlottetown. Trusting that there may yet be elicited sufficient public spirit to carry on this undertaking, the Committee have the honor to offer these remarks.

On behalf of the Committee,
WILLIAM SWABEY, Chairman.
Charlottetown, December 6, 1841.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COLONIAL HERALD.

Sir; I am a quiet, unassuming man, and carry on a little business, in Charlottetown, by retailing tea, sugar, soap, candles, and other small wares. It has always been a fixed maxim with me, that a man has a right to do what he pleases with his money, honestly obtained, and that he is not to be sneered at, and driven into measures in opposition to his own peculiar views of managing his affairs. To come to the point—the steam speculation, now on the carpet, turns out, I find, to be "No Go," and the Grandees are very wroth about it, and have not spared to tinkle us up in the Newspapers. It is said, by one, that the failure will cover us with "everlasting disgrace;" while another is astonished that people should sign requisitions, attend meetings, and do nothing. Although I am a man of inferior bearing, I must, nevertheless, be allowed to speak as well as the Grandees. I confess—but not with "shame and confusion of face"—that I did sign the requisition, attend the meeting, and yet did not take any shares, and a number of my friends and acquaintances were influenced by the same motives that took me to the Court House. We—meaning myself and friends—have made it an invariable rule to promote and attend all such public meetings, for the purpose of improving ourselves in oratory, as you generally hear a number of smart speeches on such occasions. Debating Societies, or, in the language of vulgarism, "Spouting Clubs," are much wanted in this town, and, in their absence, requisition meetings, for imaginary purposes, may be considered as tolerable substitutes, for there every one, high and low, is on a par with his neighbour, and has an equal right to try his fist at declamation.

We are told, however, that the steam boat concern is a "dead bargain," and that nine per cent. may certainly be made by the investment. Here I put down my pen, and scratch my head a little for an idea—Nine per cent! Bless me, Sir! are the Grandees daft, as we say in Scotland, to invite so many people to partake in their profits, when they have such a glorious opportunity of putting the whole in their own pockets? If it is such a "dead bargain," why don't some six or seven of the Grandee projectors embark, slap dash, in the speculation at once? One would stily think there must be some little risk, to induce this hesi-tion, otherwise it would be better for them to take part of their money out of the funds, and give it a form here, which, although connected with steam, they assure us will not disappear in vapour. "O," said a Scotch friend, with whom I lately conversed on the subject, "the plan originates in liberality. The Grandees wish the public to participate in the profits and general advantages of the thing. Don't you see, Peter," said he, "it is like boiling a large pot of excellent soup by steam, for the public good, and giving every man a spoon to help himself with, and not bearishly bailing it out into their own dishes, for the exclusive use of their own stomachs?" "Very much, Sandy," said I, "like a whale in a butterboat; catch them at that, and I'll thank you. The history of the thing is simply this: they are anxious to invest a certain portion of their capital in this speculation, and to render others subservient to their views; but if there was no risk, the soup pot, I rather think, would soon be emptied among themselves."

To be serious, and conclude—We, little people, are just as anxious as the Grandees are to have a steamer of our own; and in the course of a few years you will find, Sir, the measure will be adopted, without being driven to the necessity of dividing the requisite capital into so many shares—which, being possessed by many individuals, here and in the Sister Provinces, of opposite interests, would have a tendency to bring the parties into collision with each other, and thus ultimately lead to a general failure.

PETER PACKTHREAD.

On Saturday last a deputation from the Highland Society waited upon His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor with a congratulatory Address. The following gentlemen composed the deputation:—Hon. George Dalrymple, President, Alexander Brown, Esq. 1st Vice President, Mr. M'Neill, Secretary, Mr. M-Gill, Secretary, Alex. M'Lean, Esq., and Mr. Purdie, Directors, and Mr. William Cullen.

The Hon. the President read the following Address:

To His Excellency Sir Henry Vere Huntley, Knight, Lieutenant Governor, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency; We the Office-bearers and Members of the Highland Society of Prince Edward Island, constituted by charter a branch of the Highland Society of London, cheerfully embrace the opportunity afforded us by a general meeting of our Society, to offer to your Excellency our respectful and cordial congratulations on your Excellency's assumption of the Government of this Colony.

The Highland Society of Prince Edward Island, although in this distant portion of the empire, cherish all the faithful attachment to the Throne for which their ancestors have been conspicuous; and they are happy to be enabled now to renew the assurance of their firm attachment to the British Constitution, and to the person and government of Her Most Gracious Majesty.

We avail ourselves of the present opportunity of announcing to your Excellency that the office of Chief of this Society has become vacant by the departure of our late respected Lieutenant Governor, Sir Charles A. Fitz Roy; and now in humbly requesting your Excellency to do us the high honor of becoming our Chief, we feel assured that our interests as a Society cannot be better consulted, nor the benevolent objects for which it has been instituted more worthily patronized, than by the Representative of our Most Gracious Sovereign, and one too of Scottish descent, and connected by matrimonial alliance with the beloved land of our fathers.

That your Excellency's administration of this Government may be productive of unmingled happiness to yourself, and of contentment and prosperity to the inhabitants of this Island, is the ardent wish and desire of those who now have the honor of addressing your Excellency.

In name and on behalf of the Society,
(Signed) GEO. DALRYMPLE,
Charlottetown, St. Andrew's Day, 1841. President.

[His Excellency's Reply.]

To the Highland Society of Prince Edward Island.

Gentlemen; I very ardently thank you for your congratulations upon my succeeding to the Government of this Island.

It is the characteristic of the Highlander never to forget the land of his Fathers; although by the decree of Providence he is far removed from his native hearth, yet the same power has decreed that he shall lighten his labour by the hope of again returning to it; and consequently he cherishes those feelings of Loyalty to his Sovereign, and attachment to his Country, which show that where called in defence of either, though "their swords are ten thousand, their bosoms are one."

I feel myself much honoured by the offer of becoming your Chief, and with very real pleasure accept the office; assuring you of my best exertions for the prosperity of the Society; as an earnest of which, I have to ask your acceptance of a "History of the Highlands," recently written by a celebrated Scotch advocate.

I beg to express the gratification I feel in the allusion you have made, both to my Scotch descent and alliance; and I beg you to believe that I participate in every wish for the contentment and welfare of this Island, to promote which no effort on my part shall be spared.

H. V. HUNTLEY,
Lieut. Governor.

On Saturday last, a deputation from the Office-bearers of the Charlottetown Mechanics' Institute waited upon His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, with the following Address:—

To His Excellency Sir Henry Vere Huntley, Knight, Lieut. Governor, &c. &c. &c.

The humble Address of the Office-bearers and Members of the Charlottetown Mechanics' Institute.

May it please your Excellency; We the Office-bearers and Members of the Charlottetown Mechanics' Institute beg leave respectfully to approach your Excellency, and to offer our hearty and sincere congratulations upon your Excellency's assuming the Administration of this Government.

We, who have been striving for the last three years to promote in this community a love of Literature, and of the Arts and Sciences, a knowledge of which is so essential for the prosperity of a rising Colony, feel that it is peculiarly a subject of congratulation to ourselves, to have a person at the head of a society who, like your Excellency, has already shown that you possess mechanical genius, having invented a machine which, for naval purposes, has been found in its operation to be eminently useful in performing its required powers, and for which your Excellency has received and still enjoys a Patent from the Government of our beloved and revered Fatherland.

We thank your Excellency for your kindness in granting to us the use of the National School as a Lecture room, and we assure you that we duly appreciate the handsome manner in which it has been granted by your Excellency.

We beg to ask your Excellency to become the Patron of the Institute which we represent, and we feel assured that your Excellency, in consenting so to do, will be a Patron to us, not only in name, but also in the most literal sense of the term.

We wish your Excellency, Lady Huntley and family all health and happiness, and we trust that your Excellency's administration in this Colony may be attended with satisfaction to yourself and prosperity to the people over whom our gracious Sovereign has been pleased to place you.

On behalf of the Institute,
CHARLES YOUNG, President.

[His Excellency's Reply.]

To the Office Bearers, and Members of the Charlottetown Mechanics' Institute.

Gentlemen; I have most sincerely to thank you for your congratulations upon my arrival to assume the Government of this Island.

I readily accept the office of your Patron, because I am already impressed with the importance of using every exertion to disseminate instruction through all classes (a debt contracted the instant that it has pleased God to give any the advantage of education, whether of a classical or other description); and also sensible that this object is accelerated by the formation of Societies, such as that of the Mechanics' Institute, where practical industry advances its claims, to the discomfiture of wild and mischievous theory—where useful knowledge is advocated by the intelligent mechanic, to the expulsion of subjects, the consideration of which leads only to disputation, which neither enriches science, nor induces industry, that sure path to contented elevation.

Warmly thanking you, gentlemen, for your kind wishes, permit me to assure you that my first desire is the prosperity of this Island, and this will be attained by practising those habits of industry and religion as will call the divine blessing upon our efforts.

H. V. HUNTLEY,
Lieut. Governor.
