

So decisively favorable to the introduction of water works is the public opinion of this city, that we presume the Corporation will take action, with a view to their supply, without delay.

The extension of sidewalks or, at least, plankways throughout the city, is another subject which should immediately engage the attention of the Council.

LORD DURHAM'S DESPATCH.

Some influence inimical to the interests of this Island, was certainly exercised when Lord Durham's despatch was withheld by Sir Charles Fitzroy from the Legislature and the people.

O'CONNELL'S CENTENARY.

The prospect of favorable weather for the O'Connell Centenary Celebration was not bright. Torrents of rain fell on Thursday evening; and Friday morning dawned dark and threatening.

At an early hour, carriages bearing pleasure seekers from settlements in the vicinity of the city began to come in; and shortly after nine o'clock, trains from Mount Stewart, Alberton and Tignish; from Mount Stewart, Georgetown and Souris, following each other in rapid succession, arrived.

The celebration of high mass by the delivering of an eloquent sermon by the Vicar General, comprised the first act in the drama, which so many came to see.

"Traveling in his O'Connell's native country this time twelve months, said the speaker, I saw many places made sacred by his footsteps. In visiting his own native mountains through the county of Kerry, I have brought him to mind and many of his countrymen still living will remember that in the years 1846 and 1847 the people of that country were depopulated by a visitation as terrible and strange as was ever witnessed by the world before.

Some influence inimical to the interests of this Island, was certainly exercised when Lord Durham's despatch was withheld by Sir Charles Fitzroy from the Legislature and the people.
