WHO'S THE WOMAN

[Concluded]

Hastings flung himself into a chair and buried his face in his hands.

"Why don't you go? Why don't you go?" he cried, his voice coming out in muffled gasps. "I tell you I'm a brute—a beast. You'll be sorry some day you ever spoke to me. And yet I have struggled—I have, indeed—but the temptation's too strong for me. Go away. Brown, go!"

He looked up and met the elder man's kindly, pitying gaze and started up with a cry.

"Don't look at me like that! You torture me! I tell you I'm in hell!"

Brown put a strong hand on each of the young man's shoulders and pushed him back into his chair.

"I am not going yet."

"It's no use talking"—

"But I mean to talk. Look here, Harry, have you ever thought of this unhappy woman's husband?"

"I told you I had never met him."

"Think of the wrong you are about to do him. He has never injured you, and you are going to blast his whole life Harry, I am a married man. I know what it is to have a happy home and a dear wife. Alice and I love each other; we live for each other; we honor one another; we are happy. It—it seems almost a sacrilege to imagine such a thing possible of—of Alice, but just let us try and imagine for a moment that—that she, my wife, learned to love another man—some handsome young fellow like yourself—and—and that one night I returned to find her—gone."

"Well," said Hastings hoarsely, "what would you do?"

"I should shoot myself," said Brown simply.

Harry's eyes met his. For a moment they looked at one another in silence.

"If this other man loves his wife as I love mine, he will do as I should do Harry, dear lad, would you have his blood upon your head? Oh, my boy, save yourself this crime!"

There was a long silence. Harry shrunk back into his chair trembling. Brown watched him anxiously. The ticking of the clock was loudly perceptible in the quiet room.

At last Harry rose unsteadily to his feet. His face looked drawn and sunken. There were tears in his eyes.

"You have won the day, old man," he said in a curiously toneless voice. "I'll go back to Africa."

"Thank God!" said John Brown.

Harry went to his desk, scribbled a few hasty lines, directed an envelope, then rang for the servant and gave the note to him.

"Deliver this at once," he said. "Take a cab and drive fast." The man went off with a bewildered look.

"There's a train for Southampton at 6 o'clock in the morning, Brown. I shall take that. My things are all packed. I'm quite ready. Are you going home now?"

"Yes."

"Don't go yet. Wait here while I write a few letters. I—I like to have you here."

John took a chair in silence, and for more than an hour no sound was heard in the room but the aggressive ticking of the clock and the scratching of Hastings' pen.

The clock struck 11, and Harry laid down his pen.

"You can go now. Goodby. I shall never see you again. Goodby!"

John grasped the young man's hand in both his own.

"Goodby, dear lad, and God bless you."

Harry dropped his head down upon the table with something like a sob, and John went slowly to the door. A piece of crumbled paper laying at his feet attracted his attention. He picked it up mechanically. It was a letter in a woman's hand. He was about to throw it away, but a second glance at the hand writing caused him to put it quickly in his pocket. He closed the door behind him and went out into the street, walked rapidly along for some moments; then stopped under a gas lamp and read the letter through. It was very short:

DEAREST—I shall be ready this evening at 10 o'clock. Come for me. My husband will be out till late, so it is quite safe. Oh, how slowly the hours go until I see you again! How can I have lived all these years without you?

That was all—the letter was unfinished and unsigned.

* * * * * *

It was nearly 2 o'clock in the morning when John Brown reached his home. There were lights in the drawing room he went in. Alice was sitting up for him. She was sitting in a luxuriously cushioned armchair, her fair hair falling loose upon her shoulders, her head bent over a book. She wore a loose gown of some soft white material. Her cheeks and lips were white too. She had a very ghostlike look, seen in the dim light of the shaded lamp.

She glanced up quickly as her husband entered. Her face looked drawn and hard. The blue had gone out of her eyes, leaving them pale and dull.

"How late you are, John."

"Yes, I have spent a very painful evening."

"Really? How?"

"I went to Harry's room. I found that entanglement I told you of had come to a crisis, and"——

"Well?" as he paused.

"Well, to make a long story short, I prevailed on him to give up this unhappy woman and go to Africa instead."

"She will thank you, I am sure," said Alice, in a low, hard voice.

"I think she will—some day."

Brown leaned against the mantelpiece opposite his wife. It had been a hard evening for him. He looked suddenly old. His kind face was very sad, his white lips dry and tremulous. Alice moved restlessly in her comfortable chair, then leaned forward and looked hard at him. Her eyes had a curious expression, half reckless, half despairing. Her hands clutched the arms of the chair with a grasp that hurt her delicate fingers.

"Well, John, have you nothing more to tell me?" she asked in a voice whose studied lightness overlaid a terrible suspense. "Nothing really interesting? Did you actually let Harry Hastings go off without telling you who she is? Come, now, who is the woman?"

John Brown made no answer, but he looked at his wife, and she read in his eyes that he knew.—London Society.

(The End)

The Weeping of Horses.

Did you ever see a horse cry? Many people believe that horses do not weep, but those who have had much to do with these faithful creatures know that on several occasions they will shed tears, as well as express sorrow, in the most heartbreaking manner. In the West, where the hardiness of the ponies causes the riders to almost overlook the necessity of providing for their needs, it is quite common when the weather is extremely cold to leave an unblanketed pony tied for two or three hours while the temperature is nearly zero, and while its owner is transacting business. In this case the suffering is evidenced by the cries, which are almost like sobs, and unmistakable tears freeze on to the cheeks like icicles. When a horse falls in the street and gets injured the shock generally numbs his senses so much that it does not either cry or groan, but under some conditions an injured horse will solicit sympathy in the most distinct manner. I remember a favorite horse of my own which trod on a nail long enough to pierce its foot. The poor thing hobbled up to me on three legs and cried as nearly like a child in trouble as anything I can describe. The sight was a very touching one, as was also the crippled animal's gratitude when the nail was pulled out and the wound [illegible].—Practical Farmer.

Electrically Welded Steel Barrels.

It is reported that a large industry is being built up at Barrow, England, in the production of steel barrels for the conveyance of petroleum. The barrels are made in halves by means of compression in a mold when hot. Afterward they are welded together by means of electricity. The barrels are intended for use by the large oil carrying companies engaged in the oil trade in the east, where the temperature has a great effect on wooden casks and results in so much leakage.—New York Telegram.

A C. P. R. CONDUCTOR.

After Two Years' Misery was Cured by Ten Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

PRESCOTT (Special) Aug. 24—For a long time much sympathy has been felt and expressed for Mr. Wm. Freeman, a very popular conductor of the C. P. R. who had been rendered unfit for duty during the past few years by a peculiar and distressing form of kidney disease. It now transpires, much to the delight of his friends, that he has been enabled to resume his regular trips. He claims, as the results of using only ten boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, that he has entirely recovered, and that he never felt better in his life, and believes that these Pills have cured him to stay cured.

Rev. John H. Stewart, aged sixty, and for thirty-two years in the Methodist ministry, was struck by an engine while driving over a railway crossing near his home in Tatarsqui, Ont., last Wednesday night and killed.

Commercial Travellers.

Wm. Golding, commercial traveller, 130 Esther St., Toronto, says: For fifteen years I suffered untold misery from Itching Piles, sometimes called pin worms. Many and many weeks have I had to lay off the road from this trouble. I tried eight other pile ointments and so called remedies with no permanent relief to the intense itching and stinging, which irritated by scratching would bleed and ulcerate. One box of Chase's Ointment cured me completely.

Many a Young Man.

When from over-work, possibly assisted by an inherited weakness, the health fails and rest or medical treatment must be resorted to, then no medicine can be employed with the same beneficial results as Scott's Emulsion.

It is stated that the will of Ex Empress Eugene, drawn recently favors her namesake Eugene, the daughter of the late Prince Henry of Battenberg and Princess Beatrice.

Build Up.

When the system is run down a person becomes an easy prey to Consumption or Scrofula. Many valuable lives are saved by using Scott's Emulsion as soon as a decline in health is observed.

The Madrid Heraldo asserts that the authorities have discovered the existence of a plot to blow up the Castle of Granja, the residence of the Infanta Isabella, aunt of the King.

He will take no Risks.

Shrewdness of a wellknown City Merchant.

HE KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD FOR HIM.

In winter when Canadians spend a large portion of their time indoors and cannot have the same variety of fresh food as in summer and fall, indigestion and dyspepsia afflict a majority. "If anybody will tell me that dyspepsia in its advanced stages is perfectly curable," said a Toronto merchant, "I will take his word. Personally I run no risks. As soon as I feel a sense of weight in the stomach, after a meal, I know that my blood is sluggish in circulation. In my business I cannot take much exercise, and I fight the first sign of stomach troubles with Scott's Sarsaparilla. It has never failed me, and has saved me many a doctor's bill."

Scott's Sarsaparilla possesses medicinal properties superior to all other so-called sarsaparillas made. As a remedy for indigestion, rheumatism, pimples, scrofula and all blood diseases, physicians state that its equal was never known. Sold at $1 per bottle, of all dealers.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Amiability—The powdered sugar of politeness, very apt to be adulterated.

Ancestors—The only luxury denied to the nouveaux riches and the one most desired by them.

Abridgement—A collection of the bad points of a good book and the foolish points of a poor book.

Aristocrat—One who washes his hands oftener than others. Hence the others are the great unwashed.

Austerity—The gold foil and iron wire of the champagne of life. Beware of the cork when the seal breaks.

Age—We have three ages—the real bona fide one, that which others think we have, and that which we say we have.

Abstention—The sour-grape virtue of the fox who couldn't get what he wanted and didn't want what he couldn't get.

Ballroom—A place where society goes to be in the swim, especially the summer bathing contingency. Look out that you don't get beyond your depth and beware of sharks.—Good Housekeeping.

Cleanliness the First Law of Health.

The following words of the late Dr. Richardson should be ever kept in mind: "Cleanliness covers the whole field of sanitary labor. Cleanliness, that is purity of air; cleanliness, that is purity of water; cleanliness in and around the house, cleanliness of persons, cleanliness of dress, cleanliness of food and feeding, cleanliness in work, cleanliness in habits of the individual man and woman, cleanliness of life and conversation purity of life, temperance—all these are in man's power."

Completely Knocked Out.

"I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr, Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and am now feeling as I did years ago." Scott's Sarsaparilla tones up the entire system, purifies the blood, and eradicates rheumatic and scrofulous poisons. Ask for Scott's and get it.
