Local MP Says Balcer Exemplar Of Tradition

Heath Macquarrie, Queens MP, has described Leon Balcer as an exemplar of the tradition which led to the Progressive Conservatives becoming a national force in the days of MacDonald and Carlier.

"Today the co-operation of reasonable, moderate men of goodwill from French and English speaking Canada is as vital as it was a century ago," he stated.

Mr. Macquarrie said many of the anxieties voiced by Mr. Balcer are not of a regional nature but "are shared by Conservatives in all parts of the country."

"It is imperative for Canada's political stability that the historic Conservative party represent and express a consensus of the views of Canadians of all regions, classes, races and religions. The contribution of Mr. Balcer and his associates is an essential and valuable ingredient of this consensus."

Mr. Macquarrie said a leadership convention "might serve a useful purpose in clearing the air." He added there was nothing in the constitution to prevent calling such a convention.

Mr. Macquarrie, author of a forthcoming history of Canadian Conservatism, said he believes Canada's basic political system functions best when two broadly based parties are mutually competitive on electoral confrontations.

He said solutions to the problems now besetting national unity would be seriously retarded by an increase in strength of third and fourth splinter parties in Parliament.

'Islander' Nominations Soar At Close

Nominations for the Evening Patriot's Islander of the Year award closed at noon Saturday and the flood of last minute letters sent the total of nominations soaring into the hundreds.

The terms of reference call for the judges to honor the man or woman "who best used the means available to serve a worthy Island purpose." It was never suggested that the judging or nominations be on a "popularity contest" basis.

The judges indeed have their task cut out for them in selecting the 1964 Islander of the Year.

Those honored in the past were Lieut. Col. E. W. Johnstone, Burlington; Capt. Carl Burke, Dr. Frank MacKinnon, Dr. Eric Found and James Pendergast. Each of them was chosen for some outstanding achievement bringing honor or benefit to this province.

PANEL WILL DECIDE
Starting next week on their big task of deciding who is the Islander most worthy of the honor will be the panel of distinguished Island people consisting of Mrs. Beth McGowan, Montague; Gordon Bennett, Charlottetown; and Charles Linkletter, Summerside.

Following announcement of their decision the recipient of the award will be specially honored with the presentation to him of a plaque, a replica of the large shield on which his name will be inscribed, by His Honor Lieutenant Governor W. J. MacDonald at a ceremony at The Charlottetown Hotel, Feb. 18.

Dike, Gate Will Protect New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, Mas. (AP) — Contractors expect to complete this year an $18,000,000 project building a dike across the entrance to New Bedford harbor to protect the city from flood damage in any future hurricanes.

As part of the project a huge gate is being constructed at the main ship channel. When a hurricane is approaching the gates may be closed to keep out the water.

To build the gate and its concrete supports, a 400 by 600-foot cofferdam was built first and 45,000,000 gallons of sea water pumped out to give workmen a temporary hole in the sea in which to work.

U.S. Union Chiefs Urge Gov't Operate Railways

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rail labor union chiefs urged Saturday that the United States government buy and operate the country's railways. A management spokesman called the proposal a pressure tactic by frustrated men.

G. E. Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, announced the group's decision, which came as a reversal of a 45-year-old union policy of opposition to nationalization of the carriers.

Leighty told a press conference also that "we are quite close to setting a strike date" in a lingering dispute between the railways and a group of non-operating unions.

Leighty said a majority of the chiefs of the Railway Labor Executives' association reached a unanimous decision for government ownership at a Washington meeting Friday after a week's discussion.

TO BE ENDORSED
This will be formally adopted by the whole association at a Feb. 22 meeting in Miami, Fla., when specific legislative proposals are to be drawn, Leighty added.

The general basis for the association's decision, Leighty said, is that "present management of the railway industry no longer has sufficient concern for the interests and needs of the general public to be entrusted with the stewardship of the most fundamental and most essential part of our nation's transportation system."

More specific reasons, Leighty said, are:

"1. The failure of the railroads to give adequate service, reflected in the 'progressive elimination' of passenger trains and the failure of the carriers to provide adequate equipment and service for freight shipments."

"2. The persistent refusal by rail management to join with railway labor to establish adequate safety measures for the protection of both passengers and workers."

"3. The 'chaos' in the industry's labor relations."

J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference and chief spokesman for management, said in a statement:

"The labor union spokesmen have let their frustration get the better of their common sense. The men they represent would be hardest hit by nationalization. Furthermore, they are completely out of step with public sentiment which, in a recent nation-wide opinion poll rejected nationalization by a 9-to-1 vote."

DUBBED PRESSURE TACTIC
"I think the public will recognize this nationalization proposal as a pressure tactic by the unions. If the unions were successful in their demands for 150,000 recall of thousands of unnecessary employees, the railroads could not survive."

The unions' proposal brought no immediate reaction from the White House.

Senators available for comment generally opposed the nationalization idea.

Leighty's reference to a possible early strike was to the dispute between the carriers and three AFL-CIO shop unions, which has been in state of stalemate since early last month.

Presumably any strike by the three shop unions would result in a U.S.-wide shutdown of the carriers.

Why did Mr. & Mrs. Graham open a Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit Account?

It all started when Mary Graham saw all the bargains advertised in the newspaper. Several stores were having big sales and she showed Jack the prices on portable T.V.'s, and of course, the specials on fur jackets. These sales were a "once-a-year" chance for the Grahams to take advantage of good buying opportunities but they didn't have the ready cash. The next day Jack Graham was discussing his problem with his Scotia branch manager. He learned the details about Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit and Jack quickly saw its many advantages. After a few questions about his job and how much uncommitted monthly income was available for Cheque-Credit, Jack and Mary Graham were well on their way to getting the things they needed—and at sale prices, too.

Cheque-Credit gives you the extra money you need—when you need it!

- 1 You select the monthly payment that you can afford and then apply for twelve times that amount.
 - 2 When your application has been approved you receive a book of special personalized cheques.

 - 4 The charge on Cheque-Credit accounts is $6.00 per year for each $100 borrowed. You pay only on the amount of credit actually used. You do not pay anything for the money held in reserve for your account.
