DAMAGE BY THE STORM.—The New Glasgow Chronicle says: The fishermen along our coast met with a very serious loss on Wednesday night of last week. During the northeast gale a large number of nets were carried away and lost. Off Black Point there were 27 nets lost, and it was estimated as many more were discovered in the gale along the shore here. The loss will be felt very serious by our fishermen, not only on account of the nets, but from the fact that they will lose large catching of herring before the nets will be replaced.

B., last week, were brought to this city, via the St. Lawrence, on Saturday evening, and at once conveyed to Crapaud in the Jacques Cartier. It is estimated that there were about 200 carriages and 1,000 people in the procession. Requiem services were held in the church, conducted by the Rev. G. W. Fisher. The floral tributes included an anchor from Mrs. Batt, and wreaths from Mrs. Wonnacott, Miss Hettie Collings and the employes of Messrs. W. A. Weeks & Co.

THE NEW ST. PAUL'S.—The opening services in the new St. Paul's Church yesterday were both largely attended, and all present were enthusiastic in their praise of the new house of worship. Rev. Mr. Bryan preached able sermons at both services. In the morning he took his text from Isiah 61-9, and in the course of his discourse gave a general resume of the growth of the Church of England. At the evening service the text was from 1st Corinthians, 8-12, with special reference to the words "Knowledge puffeth up, but charity edifieth." He strongly urged the necessity of all Christians being kind and loving the one to the other, and deprecated bigotry and intolerance. Special music was rendered at each service. The singing by the choir was excellent, and the solos were well taken by Mrs. Hedley Palmer. The organ, which has lately been renovated by Mr. Greenwood, was skilfully played by Miss Hill. It may be stated here that the text over the temple arch—"The Lord is in His holy temple; let the earth keep silence"—was presented by Mrs. G. D. Longworth, the lectern was given by Mrs. Benj. Davies, the pulpit by the King's Daughters, the Litany desk by Messrs Lowe Bros., and the communion table by the Christian Endeavor Society.

THE WORLD DO MOVE.—A venerable Frenchman, 78 years of age, residing in River Bourgeois, arrived here by boat last week. He had spent the winter with relatives in Prince Edward Island. To Angus McDonald, who drove him home, he said that the trip from Mulgrave in the Blue Hill was his first steamboat sail, and his drive to River Bourgeois the first time he had ever been in a wagon.—Bras d'Or Gazette.

—Dr. Roddick has issued has address to the electors of St. Antoine Division, Montreal. His platform is definite. His planks are sound. They are

The maintenance of the principle of protection in the tariff.
The bringing of Newfoundland into the federation.
The restoration to the Manitoba Catholics of the school privileges guaranteed by Parliament.
The extension of Canadian trade.
The strengthening of the Imperial connection.

This is all business-like and patriotic What is the platform that Mr. Mackay oppose to it?

Quebec and Peterboro' had a brisk fight for the honor of entertaining the Canadian Wheelmen's Association on the 1st of July, and Quebec won. It now appears that a similar spirited fight between Winnipeg and Victoria for the same honor is among the possibilities of 1898. Victoria has had a road race of her own, one of fifteen miles, which drew a large crowd of people and created a great deal of interest.

The arrival at Winnipeg of the Premier and his colleague, Hon. Hugh John McDonald, was the occasion of a demonstration which, judging by the reports telegraphed, has rarely, if ever, been equalled in the prairie province. This is not what Liberal accounts of the feelings in the west had prepared the country for; but it is becoming daily more evident that Liberal accounts of the election prospects are about as unreliable as they ever were, and that is saying a great deal. Sir Charles Tupper, in going into Mr. Joseph Martin's constituency, was carrying the war into Africa, and he looks as if he was to carry it to a victory. The Winnipeg demonstration was the third of its kind to be held in Canada in two days, the others being at Brockville and Sherbrooke. The Conservatives everywhere are showing signs of a courage and confidence in the outcome of the contest that will do much to make the outcome sure.

In the Faculty of Arts this year at McGill among the women who graduated Prince Edward Island for the first time claims one. Miss Nettie C. Macphail takes first class general standing in her degree for B. A. and first rank honors in mental and moral philosophy. She was the only woman writing for honors in this course, which is one of the heaviest in McGill, requiring original work in the writing of essays and a final thesis upon the merit of which the conferring of honors depends. In this work Miss Macphail's subjects were "Sympathy, as an influence in developing the moral consciousness" and Schiller's "Wallenstein," the latter being criticised by Dr. J. Clark Murray as being "an elaboaate and philosophical critique of one of the most artistic trillogies ever written." The subject of the thesis was "Spinoger's, His Philosophy," this being pronounced an "admirable and exhaustive treatment of Pantheism, showing genuine merit both in grasp of the highest thought and in power of expression." Miss Macphail has THE EXAMINER'S congratulations.

News from Freetown, Sierre Leone, is to the effect that the American missionaries at Timpany report that eleven natives were recently burned alive there on the core of witchcraft.

JUDGE HODGSON'S LECTURS.

In the hurry of the election preparations THE EXAMINER overlooked the conclusion, a few days ago, of the course of lectures delivered to the law students of this city by the Master of the Rolls. The course embraced lectures on the law of Real Property and on Sales of Personal Property. The lectures took place on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon of each week, beginning on the last week of September. In dealing with the subject of real property the usual text books were used with the aid of large charts on which the many different kinds of estates were classified and arranged in order. This "genealogical tree" of the history of the laws relating to real property was simply invaluable to the students and aided as much in the study of this subject as maps do in the study of the physical features of a country.

The lectures on sales were conducted on the principle of the Harvard system of case reading. The students were provided with copies of "Williston on Sales," which contained all the principal English and American cases reported arranged and classified under the usual divisions of the law on the subject.

The lectures on Sales were, perhaps, the most interesting, and were greatly appreciated by the students. While tracing from a collection of judicial decisions the gradual development or modification of the leading principles on which the law of sales is founded until those principles became firmly settled and established by being imbedded in the judgment of the highest court of the empire, the students were being instructed in one of the highest branches of the profession—the art of sifting from a mass of contradictory decisions the guiding principles of the law, reconciling those cases in apparent conflict and detecting the fallacy of ratis decedendi of those in direct conflict. These lectures must be of incalculable benefit to the law students, equalling, if not surpassing, in value the experience gained by many years' practice.

The law students would indeed be unworthy of their high calling if they did not feel in the highest degree grateful to Dr. Hodgson for the great work he has undertaken in fitting them for their profession. The well-known abilities of Dr. Hodgson as a teacher united with his thorough knowledge of the law eminently qualify him to deliver a course of lectures on legal subjects and the law students of this city must be congratulated on having such a rare opportunity of acquiring a comprehensive knowledge of the law. At a special meeting of the Law Students Association of Charlottetown held on Friday evening the following resolution was passed unanimously:—

"Whereas, The course of lectures which we have had the privilege of attending during the past winter is now completed and it becomes us to place on our minutes a fitting expression of our appreciation of the lectures, and our gratitude to Dr. Hodgson for his self-denying efforts in preparing us for our profession.

Be it therefore resolved, That we place on record our deep feeling of indebtedness to the learned Doctor for his unsparing efforts for our welfare, and for the interesting and instructive course of lectures delivered by him during the past winter, and that the Secretary forward a copy of this resolution to His Lordship conveying with it the resolve of the individual members of the Association that the events of the future will not cause him to regret the course he has taken nor the labor expended on their behalf."

The lectures will be resumed at the close of the midsummer vacation.

LATEST NEWS NOTES

It is said that several directors of the British South Africa Chartered Company will resign unless the resignation of Cecil Rhodes is accepted.

Sir Isaac Pitman, in an interview, mentioned the curious fact that in the early days of his shorthand crusade the system was assailed on religious grounds—one cleric declaring in print that "Mesmerism, phonography, Chartism and socialism are the stalking horses behind which the most satanic lies and the most absurd blasphemies are sent forth."

The bottom of the coffin containing the remains of Holmes, who was executed at Philadelpia on Thursday last was filled with cement and the body completely covered with cement. It was Holmes idea that this cement would harden around the body and prevent grave robbery. Lawyer Rotyn says Holmes made no will and left no confession. Someone offered Mr. Rotan $5,000 for the body, but the offer was refused. Holmes had accomplices in his criminal operations and murders. The police of Chicago are gathering the thread which will bring these accomplices to justice.
